Among other papers, there are in this number a poem in which the present condition of India is bewailed as exceedingly deplorable in comparison with its condition in ancient times, and a paper in which the insanitary atur or confinement room is stated to be one of the chief causes of the physical debility of Bengalis.	852

Great stress is laid upon India's increasing demand for iron works. 13. Persons desirous to be admitted as Candidates must apply on forms, which may be obtained from "The Secretary, Civil Service Commission, London, S. W." at any time after the 1st December 1883. (1) Selected Candidates will be permitted to choose, according to the order in which they stand in the list resulting from the Open Competition, so long as a choice remains, the Presidency (and in Bengal the Division of the Presidency) to which they shall be appointed; but this choice will be subject to a different arrangement, should the Secretary of State, or the Government of India, deem it necessary (k).

(5) All Selected Candidates will be required, after having passed the first periodical Examination, and before receiving the first instalment of their allowance, to attend at the India Office for the purpose of entering into an agreement binding themselves, amongst other things, to refund in certain cases the amount of their allowance in the event of their failing to proceed to India. A surety will be required.

(6) After passing the Final Examination, each Candidate will be required to attend again at the India Office, with the view of entering into covenants, by which, amongst other things, they will bind themselves to agree to such Regulations for the provision of pensions for their families as may be approved by the Secretary of State for India in Council. The stamps payable on these covenants amount to £1.

(7) Candidates rejected at the Final Examination of 1886 will in no case be allowed to present themselves for re-examination.

(i) These forms should be accompanied by evidence on the points mentioned in Regulation 2, and by a list of the subjects in which the Candidate desires to be examined. RESOLUTION ON THE GENERAL ADMINISTRATION REPORT OF THE PRESIDENCY DIVISION FOR THE YEAR 1882-83.

GENERAL DEPARTMENT—MISCELLANEOUS.

Calcutta, the 5th November 1883.

RESOLUTION.

READ—

The General Administration Report of the Presidency Division for the year 1882-83.

As was the case last year, Mr. Monro, by whom the report is submitted, was under the disadvantage of being in charge for a portion of the year only, viz. from the 15th June to the 6th November. Besides Mr. Monro, the following gentlemen also filled the office of Commissioner:—Mr. Lyall from the 1st to the 30th April; Mr. Peacock from the 1st May to the 15th June; Mr. Edgar from the 6th November to the 31st March. Three changes took place in the Magistracy, and no less than eight in the Joint-Magistracies of the 24-Pergunnahs. Mr. Monro and Mr. Stevens both speak very strongly regarding the evil resulting from the frequent changes of Joint-Magistrates in this district, an evil which the Lieutenant-Governor fully admits, and is endeavouring to remedy.

2. Tours.—Owing to pressure of work, Mr. Monro's inspection of the division was confined to ten days at Khulna and Kishnaghur at the time of the Lieutenant-Governor's visit to those places. Mr. Edgar, however, inspected the head-quarters of all districts except Jessore, and of all sub-divisions except Diamond Harbour. The tours of all District Officers were sufficient, except in the case of the 24-Pergunnahs, where Mr. Stevens was be on the decline, but no reason for this state of things is given in the report. The results of the failures at Azimganj and Baluchar in 1879-80 are still felt in Moorshedabad, but trade is said to be reviving, though the silting up of the mouth of the Baghirathi threatens, in the opinion of the Collector, the existence of the principal Ganges marts. The development of railway communication in the district will do much to counteract the evil effects of the stoppage of river navigation. The extent to which even the slight facilities for trade afforded by the light Nalhati State Railway are appreciated serves as an indication of the future open to railway enterprise in this district.

8. State of public feeling.—Among the lower classes, as in previous years, public feeling cannot be said to exist. Regarding the three subjects which have excited most attention,—Local Self-Government, the Criminal Procedure Code Amendment Bill, and the Tenancy Bill—the Commissioner writes as follows:—

> During the year public feeling, or what represents it here, has been excited by more than one subject of interest. The three most interesting topics to which attention has been directed are the Local Self-Government Bill, the Criminal Jurisdiction Bill, and the Bengal Tenancy Bill. With reference to the first two of these topics there has been much agitation, chiefly confined, however, to the educated classes of pleaders, whose minds are filled with ambitious aspirations, which they mistake for patriotism. The great mass of the people and most of the zemindars held aloof from sharing in either movement, and many who held decided views on both subjects would have expressed them had they not been deterred by the fear of being held up to public scorn by unscrupulous writers in the native press.
> On the question of the Bengal Tenancy Bill the zemindars, whose interests are vitally affected, have been much more active in displaying interest. The great mass of the people remain apathetic in this matter as usual. Instances have come to the notice of Mr. Stevens in which zemindars have been making persistent efforts to extinguish, in anticipation of the new law, all existing rights of their tenants by pressing on them new leases, of the contents of which they have been apparently ignorant.

The Lieutenant-Governor trusts that it may be possible, by an early termination of the rent discussions already sufficiently prolonged, to put a stop to such reprehensible conduct on the part of zemindars, as that to which Mr. Stevens calls attention, and which, besides, is not restricted to the Presidency Division alone.

Mr. Monro alludes also to the general impression abroad that "the present facilities afforded in the shape of outstills bring on the increased revenue at the expense of the morality and sobriety of the people," and that "officials are slow to admit its being well-founded;" and he supports a suggestion made by the Collector of the 24-Pergunnahs that a Commission should be appointed to investigate the subject. The desirability of such a Commission has already commended itself to the Lieutenant-Governor.

Public Press.—Excluding Calcutta, the number of newspapers published in the 24-Pergunnahs is small, the most important being the Som Prakás, which still maintains its hostile attitude towards Government officials. The tone of the Amirn-l-Akhbar, an Urdu journal, is commended. One unimportant newspaper is published in Nuddea. The Calcutta newspapers circulate throughout the division, the most popular being the Bengali, the Amrita Bazar Patriká and Reis and Raiyat. These papers are all published in English, and if the tone of all does not deserve the unsparing condemnation passed upon it by the Commissioner, there is still much, even in the most respectable of them—the Bengali—to justify Mr. Monro's censure.

9. Administrative Changes.—The most important of the changes introduced during the year was the creation of the Khulna district out of the Satkhira sub-division of the 24-Pergunnahs, and the Khulna and Bagirhat sub-divisions of Jessore. To compensate Jessore, and somewhat relieve the Collector of Nuddea, the Bongong sub-division was transferred from the latter to the former district, and in order to give further relief to the Collector of the 24-Pergunnahs, the Baraopur sub-division of that district, which is now within an easy distance by railway of Alipur, was abolished. The full effect of these changes, as of the introduction of the new Criminal Procedure Code, remains yet to be seen.

10. Police and Crime.—There was an increase from 14,748 to 15,743 in the number of cognizable cases reported during the year, the figures being nearly identical with those for 1880. The number of cases declared false (954) was about 10 per cent. lower than that for the previous year. The increase was common to all classes of cases, but was most marked in minor offences against property. On the whole property was recovered either entirely or in part in 48·2 per cent. of the theft cases, the best results being shown in the 24-Pergunnahs, and the worst in Moorshedabad. The Commissioner reproduces Mr. Stevens' remark regarding the recovery of stolen property in his district. "This can hardly be said to be very good; but I attach no great importance to mere figures in this matter. Chance has a great deal to do with it, and so has persistence in working for returns. Only an examination of details can decide the merit for which credit is to be given;" and adds—"I quite agree with the Magistrate in the above opinion. It is absolutely unsafe to judge entirely of police work by mere returns." The Lieutenant-Governor admits the inadequacy of returns as a criterion of merit, and as the Commissioner and Collector both hold the same opinion, Mr. Rivers Thompson regrets that they have not supplemented the return given by such remarks as might enable him to form a more satisfactory opinion than he can entertain at present. On account of 10,463 offences against person or property, 9,335 persons were arrested, of whom 4,278 or 45·0 per cent. were convicted, the percentage of convictions to offences being 48·8. The decrease in false cases has been marked in all districts except the 24-Pergunnahs, and has apparently been due to increased care in reporting cases as false, and to increased vigor in dealing with such cases when reported. The number of non-cognizable cases remained practically stationary.

11. Civil Justice.—The total number of civil suits instituted during the year was 103,616 against 100,356 in 1881; there being an increase in the 24-Pergunnahs, Moorshedabad and Khulna, and a falling off in Nuddea and Jessore. Full details regarding the numbers and value of the different classes of suits are given in the following table:—

The increase in the number of suits for money, moveables, and rent in the 24-Pergunnahs is explained by the Collector as being due to the greater independence of the ryots now than in former times, and their greater readiness to protect themselves against their landlords. This explanation is not, at first sight, entirely consistent with the fact already noticed, that landlords were extinguishing ryots' rights by means of confiscatory leases. It is, however, explained that, while acts of oppression affecting many ryots still continue, the mass of the tenantry have become more independent, and landlords can no longer with impunity adopt illegal means of recovering their rents; hence their claims for a simplified procedure for the recovery of rents by legal methods.

The only complaint brought to notice regarding the administration of Civil Justice is that of the delay in the disposal of suits. The Lieutenant-Governor has already more than once expressed his opinion that the Civil Courts should be closed on a much less number of days during the year than at present. Until the present judicial staff is fully employed, it is useless to increase it.

12. Land and Land Revenue.—The total current demand amounted to Rs. 51,28,293, against Rs. 51,30,498 in the previous year. The demand on permanently settled estates fell owing to the transfer of certain estates from Moorshedabad to Beerbhoom from Rs. 46,54,174 to Rs. 46,35,469, of which Rs. 45,58,426, or 98·3 were collected. Out of a current demand of Rs. 1,55,746 on 454 temporarily settled estates, Rs. 1,42,925 were collected. The current demand on 427 Government estates amounted to Rs. 2,53,826, and the collections to Rs. 2,07,639—an unsatisfactory result, though better than that in the previous year. The only ryotwari tract in the division is in the 24-Pergunnahs, on which the collections (Rs. 76,279 out of Rs. 83,262) were unsatisfactory. The arrear balance at the commencement of the year amounted to Rs. 2,15,703, of which Rs. 1,74,306 or 80·8 per cent. were collected. The percentage of collections is worse in all districts except Nuddea than in the previous year, a fact of which no explanation is given. The outstanding balance of demand at the close of the year was Rs. 1,67,910, of which Rs. 34,327 had been collected before the report was submitted. Of the balance (Rs. 1,33,583) Rs. 6,882 are reported to be irrecoverable, and Rs. 36,044 are due from wards' estates, a state of things which the Commissioner is justified in describing as satisfactory. With the exception of Calcutta and Moorshedabad, where land registration received insufficient attention in previous years, operations under Act VII (B.C.) of 1876 are everywhere complete.

13. Excise.—A small decline was apparent in the excise revenue of Khulna and Moorshedabad, but with this exception all districts showed a remarkable increase, the aggregate improvement of the revenue as compared with that for the previous year amounting to Rs. 1,52,482. Of the total revenue of Rs. 26,10,890, Rs. 18,33,721 came from Calcutta alone, and Rs. 3,81,077 from the remainder of the 24-Pergunnahs. The principal source of the increased revenue was country spirits, the rise in which is attributed partly to larger consumption, and partly to diligent supervision by the revenue authorities, special care being taken to keep outstill liquor out of distillery limits.

14. Stamps.—The stamp revenue (exclusive of postal and telegraph stamps), which in 1881-82 amounted to Rs. 36,68,762, fell in the year under review to Rs. 34,85,419, a decline having taken place in the sales of impressed sheets (29,068), impressed labels (68,800), one anna revenue stamps (36,767) and court-fee stamps (94,030). Share transfer stamps, and advocate, vakil, and attorney stamps showed an increase amounting to Rs. 42,525. The use of share transfer stamps on Bank of Bengal and bonded warehouse share transfers accounts for a portion of the falling off in the proceeds from impressed sheets. The remainder is accounted for by the general prosperity which reduced the number of loans. The decline in impressed labels is attributed to the exemption from duty of foreign bills of lading, and to a difference in the method of taxing conveyances of tea leases, introduced under a ruling of the Advocate-General. The falling off in receipt stamps is almost nominal, all except Rs. 2,254 being due to the disuse of these stamps on skeleton forms of cheques, brokers' notes, share scrips, &c. The decline in court-fee stamps is attributed mainly to the transfer of cases between Rs. 1,000 and Rs. 2,000 in value from the High Court to the Small Cause Court.

15. License Tax.—The license tax operations of the year were altogether on a somewhat smaller scale than in 1881-82:—

Districts.	Assessment.	Remission.	Refunds.	Demands.	Net collection.	Balance.	Expenditure.
	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs. A. P.
24-Pergunnahs ..	62,850	9,230	320	53,240	52,920	320	.....
Nuddea	24,310	2,270	1,010	21,030	19,990	1,040	2,188 8 7
Jessore	38,010	8,300	1,800	27,880	27,600	280	1,775 9 4
Moorshedabad	22,560	3,700	30	18,830	17,760	1,070	.....
Khulna	7,730	840	10	6,880	6,790	90	737 9 11
Total for 1882-83 ..	1,55,990	24,400	3,230	1,27,860	1,27,060	2,800	.....
Total for 1881-82 ..	1,74,720	38,575	4,250	1,36,145	1,31,018	5,127	.....

In consequence probably of the reduction in the assessment which was due mainly to the low price of rice, the stagnation of trade in Moorshedabad, and the successful competition of tramways with hackney carriages in Calcutta, the percentage of collections to demand (81·4) was much better than in the previous year (74·9). In Calcutta the demand amounted to Rs. 4,05,310, of which Rs. 4,03,790 were collected, leaving a balance of only Rs. 1,520—a result which in the Commissioner's opinion, in which the Lieutenant-Governor concurs, "is very satisfactory, and reflects great credit on the officers concerned."

16. Monetary Transactions.—No statistics are given for the savings banks of Khulna and Nuddea. In the 24-Pergunnahs an increase took place in the number of deposits, but the amount deposited was considerably less than in the previous year. In Jessore the deposits exceeded the withdrawals, and the amount deposited, if the figures are correct, increased during the year from Rs. 34,759 to Rs. 40,32,326. In Moorshedabad the withdrawals were slightly in excess of the deposits. These figures, however, are of little value as indicating the desire or otherwise of the people to avail themselves of savings banks, as they do not apparently show the statistics of post office savings banks which in many districts are supplanting district savings banks in popularity. The receipts and issues of currency notes were nearly equal, and amounted in the aggregate to Rs. 1,30,54,225. Regarding stock notes Mr. Monro writes:—

> The object of the Government of India in issuing the stock notes was to place it in the power of small capitalists to invest their savings; but the scheme, as it will be seen from the above figures, has not been a success. Although it has not yet had a fair trial, yet the beginning is far from being encouraging. It will be seen that stock notes of the several denominations, aggregating in value Rs. 3,37,500, were received in the district treasuries of this Division, but the total value of notes sold amounted only to Rs. 32,962-8, or 9·7 per cent. The largest amount, Rs. 20,025, was sold in the 24-Pergunnahs; the total sale in the other districts amounted to a little over half that amount. Even making allowance for the novelty of the experiment requiring time for the successful development of the scheme, it would have been satisfactory had it been shown that the class for whose benefit the stock notes had been introduced had begun even to a limited extent to accept them. It cannot, however, be said that this is the case. Nearly the whole amount of the purchases was made by Government servants, and only a few by zemindars. The mass of the people have no faith in Government promissory notes; nor will they, if they have any spare cash, invest it in securities, which bring them such small interest, which are difficult to keep secure, and the principal of which is irrecoverable for a term of years. They can invest their small savings at a much larger rate of interest than what is payable on these notes. The scheme will in my opinion never succeed, in so far as it is intended to attract the savings of the well-to-do in the lower ranks of life; and it is also evident, from the small amount of issues, that capitalists of larger means fight shy of them.

The Lieutenant-Governor prefers to wait till the stock note system has had another year's trial before pronouncing a definite opinion as to its success or failure. Up to the present time, however, the reports received are by no means promising.

17. Communications.—Much has been done during the year in the extension of the railway system to the Presidency Division. The Diamond Harbour Branch of the Calcutta and South-Eastern State Railway has been opened, and trains are running on the Bengal Central Railway from Dum-Dum to Habra and from Ranaghat to Bongong. The Central Railway has almost been completed as far as Khulna, the necessity for constructing bridges alone delaying its opening. A line is also in contemplation from Ranaghat to Bhagwangola in Moorshedabad. The construction of feeder roads for these railways is now occupying the attention of the Road Cess Committees, whose funds are insufficient for the purpose, and by whom applications for assistance have been made to the Government. In the 24-Pergunnahs alone there are at present, besides 100 miles of road under the Public Works Department, and many Municipal roads, 138 miles of metalled and 341 of unmetalled roads and 600 miles of village foot-paths under the Road Cess Committees. The utmost the Committee have been able to do is to keep their roads in fair order, but the Lieutenant-Governor is disposed to agree with the Commissioner that the employment of a less expensive staff would, without reducing efficiency of work, leave a larger surplus than at present for construction and repairs. In Nuddea also funds are insufficient, and though a good deal has been done in the construction of village roads, some of the sub-divisional roads are described as "disgraceful." In Jessore and Moorshedabad things seem to be a little better. In Khulna, with the exception of sub-divisional and municipal towns, no metalled roads exist. This is, however, of less consequence, owing to the water communication available. Something was done in all districts except Khulna towards planting trees along the sides of roads.

18. Committees.—On the whole the work done by the District Road Cess and Municipal Committees was satisfactory, and the members showed a fair amount of interest in the performance of their duties, though this is less true of Jessore and Moorshedabad than of the other districts. Mr. Monro calls attention to the futility of establishing Branch Road Cess Committees without giving them some control over funds, and in his remarks the Lieutenant-Governor agrees. The Commissioner also calls attention to the difficulty which Charitable Committees experience owing to the failure of subscribers to dispensaries and such institutions to pay in their subscriptions. "I regret to say," says Mr. Monro, "that there seems to be no sense of shame in persons, otherwise respectable, with reference to the meanness of avoiding obligations which they voluntarily undertake for the support of charitable institutions. * * The interest of such persons in the sick poor is as unreal as their subscriptions." The Lieutenant-Governor fears that in many instances the Commissioner's censure is deserved; but the Government has, on the other hand, to acknowledge many cases of benevolence. The charitable disposition of the people of Bengal is not to be guaged by their liberality to dispensaries, though the Lieutenant-Governor cannot deny that the collection book often falsifies the promise which the subscription list held forth.

19. Education.—The Commissioner has reserved his remarks on this subject for the educational report, but gives a few statistics which show that the total number of schools in the division rose during the year from 4,318 with 141,860 pupils to 4,725 with 154,851 pupils. Owing to the creation of the Khulna district there was an apparent falling off in the numbers in the 24-Pergunnahs and Jessore, but in reality an increase took place everywhere Female education is said to be progressing, but no statistics are given. The Lieutenant-Governor does not desire to trouble Commissioners to give full sections in the General Administration Report upon subjects on which separate reports are submitted, but the administration report should be sufficiently complete in itself to give a concise idea to the reader of the progress made in any special direction. The present section of the Commissioner's report and some others fall short of this standard.

20. Court of Wards.—One small estate was added to the eleven already under the management of the Court in the 24-Pergunnahs, and the most important of all, the Satkhira property, was transferred with the sub-division of that name to the Collector of Khulna. In Nuddea the only estate under management is the Nuddea Raj, with a demand of nearly one and a half lakhs of rupees. It is in a flourishing condition, and has almost one year's income invested in Government securities. The Lieutenant-Governor, however, has recently had occasion to express a strong opinion as to the wisdom of the management in respect of its treatment of the ryots on the estate, which has been enriched at their expense. Great improvement has taken place in the conduct of the minor Raja since he has been placed under the charge of an European tutor. The most important estate in Jessore is the Narail property. Owing, however, to the absence of returns, it is impossible to judge its condition. The management of this estate is exceptionally difficult, and has hitherto not been successful. A change has been recently made in the managership. All the Moorshedabad estates are solvent, except the Nashipur debutter property.

21. Conduct of Zemindars.—Notwithstanding the publicity attending irregular proceedings in the Presidency Division, the Lieutenant-Governor is sorry to notice that the list of zemindars described in unfavourable terms is unsatisfactorily long. Baboo Jay Krishna Mukharji and Hara Prasad Ray Chaudhuri are again among the number of those who are stated to have shown no sympathy towards their tenants; and Baboo Pratab Chandra Ghosh "came prominently to notice during the year on account of the oppressive and illegal kabuliyats which his agents obtained from ryots in his estate." It is, however, satisfactory to learn that these kabuliyats have been withdrawn. Baboo Girija Prosad Mukharji of Goberdanga, though liberal in other respects, is blamed for the management of his Khulna estates. Turning to more pleasant aspects of the relations between landlord and tenant, the Lieutenant-Governor is glad to notice the praise bestowed on Maharaja Narendra Krishna Bahadur and Baboos Prasanna Kumar Ray, Surendra Nath Pal Chaudhuri and Durga Charan Laha.

22. Character of Officers.—The Commissioner's remarks on the subject will be considered in the Appointment Department of this office. Mr. Monro speaks especially highly of Messrs. Stevens, Carstairs, and K. G. Gupta, and of Baboos Ram Sankar Sen, Abhay Charan Dass, Brahma Nath Sen, and Durgagati Bannarji.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

A. P. MACDONNELL,

Offg. Secy. to the Government of Bengal.

RESOLUTION ON THE GENERAL ADMINISTRATION REPORT OF THE DACCA DIVISION FOR THE YEAR 1882-83.

GENERAL DEPARTMENT.—MISCELLANEOUS.

Calcutta, the 5th November 1883.

RESOLUTION.

READ—

The General Administration Report of the Dacca Division for the year 1382-83.

MR. PELLEW was Commissioner of the division from the beginning of the year till the middle of August, when he was relieved by Mr. Westmacott, who officiated for a few days. Mr. Alexander, by whom the report is submitted, assumed charge of the division on the 23rd August. The report is to some extent incomplete owing to the non-receipt of the whole of the report of the Collector of Furreedpore. Mr. Sharp should be called upon to explain his omission to send in his report when due.

2. Tours.—The tours made by the successive Commissioners of the division extended over 101 days, during which all sudder stations and sub-divisions were visited, and apparently thoroughly inspected. All district officers seem to have inspected their districts sufficiently, though the tour of the Magistrate and Collector of Backergunge fell short by a few days of the prescribed period, owing to the absence of a Joint Magistrate from Barisal during the two months of the cold weather for which Mr. Savage acted for Mr. Fiddian. The only Joint Magistrate who made any tour was Mr. Gun, at Mymensingh, who spent 17 days in the inspection of the khas mehals within the sudder sub-division. Mr. Marriott, at Backergunge, made a few excursions into the interior to try bad livelihood and other criminal cases. The tours of all the sub-divisional officers, except Mr. Grant of Naraingunge, and Baboo Kali Nath Bose of Madaripur, in the district of Furreedpore, were of sufficient length. The Lieutenant-Governor is willing to accept the explanation offered by Mr. Grant of the incompleteness of his tour, namely, the difficulty which he experienced in leaving his head-quarters owing to the presence of the large jute firms and to extensive land acquisition operations; but no excuse is forthcoming in the case of Baboo Kali Nath Bose, who should be called upon to explain the insufficiency of the time spent by him on tour. The Collector of Dacca and the Commissioner speak of the impossibility of touring in the division, a great part of which has to be visited by boat, without exceeding the amount granted as travelling allowance. The matter is one which has already been under separate consideration with reference to the new Travelling Allowance Code.

3. Weather and crops.—The year was remarkable for the small rainfall, which was in every district below the average of the preceding five years, though from the fact that the rainfall varied from 34·5 inches at Netrokona in Mymensingh to 134·26 inches at Patuakhali in Backergunge, the distribution would appear to have been very irregular. On the whole the rice crop was good, though in some places the aman rice suffered from want of rain in July, August, and September. Elsewhere the aman made up for deficiencies in the aus crop. The yield of jute was unusually large in all districts, and sugarcane, which is grown to a great extent in Furreedpore, was very successful. The rubbee crops were generally below the average owing to the want of rain in the cold season.

4. Prices of food and labour.—Common rice, the most important food-grain of the division, was in all districts, except Mymensingh, a little dearer than in 1881-82, though cheaper than in previous years. The lowest quoted price is 32 seers to the rupee in July in Dacca, and the highest 20¼ seers in November in Furreedpore. In Furreedpore and Backergunge the price of labour is said to have remained unchanged, but wages rose, both in Dacca and Mymensingh, in consequence of the increased demand caused by the general prosperity of the districts.

5. Public health and material condition of the people.—The year was on the whole unhealthy, especially in the Dacca and Furreedpore districts, where cholera was very prevalent: in the latter also there was much fever.

The sanitary measures taken in Furreedpore appear to have been to some extent successful. Notwithstanding, however, the prevalence of disease, the abundance of the crops of recent years rendered prosperous the condition of the agricultural classes, while the demand for labour placed those willing to work for hire above want. The Collector of Dacca, however, speaks of the general disinclination of the "non-labouring and semi-educated classes" to take to any but clerical work, and the Collector of Furreedpore describes the general disinclination of the lower classes towards daily labour. Mr. Sharp thus compares the condition of the people in Furreedpore and some parts of Italy:—

"The condition of the people has to the best of my belief been satisfactory. They are gradually advancing in prosperity and independence, and last year does not appear to have checked that advance. The cultivator looks down on the day labourer, and those who work for hire are almost all emigrants from the west. In the south a cooly is hardly to be had. This condition of things is very similar to what I have seen in some parts of Italy during many months at different periods of constant intercourse with people of many classes. There is the same aspiration towards the position of cultivator, the same disgust for that of cooly or bracianti; and indeed in many other matters the habits and tastes of these people are extraordinary like those of the agricultural population of Central and North-Central Italy. Only these people are incomparably less harassed by judicial and executive administration than those who live under an 'Italian Commune.'"

Mr. Dutt, the district officer of Backergunge, gives the following picturesque description of the contented and prosperous life of the ryots of that district:—

"In no part of the world have I seen a class of cultivators who have so little work to do, and at the same time are so well off. Except in the seasons of sowing and reaping, the cultivators of this district have very little to do, and they spend their time in receiving and paying visits, in frequenting the hát to make purchases and dispose of the superabundant betelnuts and cocoanuts growing in their homestead lands, in looking after and improving their homesteads, and often in forming combinations or maturing plans of litigation. The home of the Backergunge ryots is often a perfect picture. Secluded in the midst of a forest of the graceful betelnut and cocoanut-trees, surrounded very often by his paddy-fields, and thus isolated from his neighbours, each Backergunge ryot lives as it were in his own domain among his own people. His women and children have very few wants, and have those wants generally well looked after. From these isolated and shady retreats the men emerge in their small boats by the innumerable creeks and rivers of this district and frequent the neighbouring market, the distant village, or the court; while the women, who are kept in strict privacy, seldom come out except on a visit to other women in the village or in neighbouring villages. Thus the typical village in this district consists of homestead after homestead, each surrounded by its shady cluster of trees and little plots of land, and a man may go for miles and miles through such a succession of homesteads or 'baris' without coming across such crowding of huts and houses as is seen in every village in other parts in Bengal. The Backergunge cultivator is exceedingly well off, and will not work for hire. It is with the greatest difficulty that coolies can be found even in large towns; while in the reaping season labourers from different parts of Bengal come into many parts of this district and reap paddy for the Backergunge cultivators, and return to their homes with one-fifth of the produce reaped as their wages.

"Most of the women of the cultivators have silver ornaments—generally a necklet and bracelets—and most of them have a dowry settled on them at the time of their marriage. They are well fed, well clad, well looked after, and, except that they are sometimes cruelly treated by their husbands, they are well off.

It is a well known fact that, with perhaps the exception of the Bhojpore peasant, no ryot in these Provinces is more independent than the Backergunge ryot, or less disposed to submit to exactions at the hands of his landlord. In Backergunge, and districts similarly circumstanced, the ryots have the upper hand, and in those districts the Tenancy Bill will work greatly in the landlords favour (while recognizing the ryots' existing rights) by facilitating the recovery of his legal dues which now are often realized only by quartering police upon the people, and even then not always without breaches of the peace.

Mr. Waller of Mymensingh also gives a satisfactory account of the material condition of his district during the year under notice, and the Commissioner generally agrees with the views of his district officers.

6. Movements of the people.—No emigration takes place from the division, and the only immigration into it consists of the annual influx of up-country labourers, who come in November and return about May. Large numbers of foreign labourers have also been attracted by the works on the Dacca-Mymensingh State Railway, and by the jute presses at Naraingunge.

The demand for labour at home, consequent on the abundant harvests, again checked the flow of labourers into Backergunge from the remainder of the division.

7. Manufactures.—The principal industry carried on in the division is the preparation of raw jute, and the pressing it into bales at Naraingunge. The manufacture of muslins, for which Dacca was once so famed, is declining owing to the competition of European piece goods, but the industry is by no means extinct, and the beauty of the fabrics still produced is such that, if they were more brought before the public, as at the Exhibition they will be, the manufacture might yet be capable of revival. The demand for gold and silver jewellery of nearly the whole of Bengal is supplied by Dacca, either directly or by means of Dacca jewellers settled in Calcutta and elsewhere, and the filigree work produced in the same city is still greatly in request. "No handiwork," the Commissioner observes, "is more prosperous than the goldsmith's." Another trade for which Dacca is famed is the manufacture of shell bracelets, which, if as is mentioned in the report they are less in request than formerly, must continue to prosper so long as custom renders these bracelets an essential ornament for every Hindu woman at her marriage. The brass utensils of Islampore and Kagmari in Mymensingh are much valued, and the industry continues to flourish.

8. Loan Banks.—The division has made great progress in the establishment of loan banks, four of which exist in Mymensingh, two in Dacca, and one each in Furreedpore and Backergunge. These institutions, of which the capital varies from Rs. 20,000 to Rs. 1,00,000, all do business on much the same terms, receiving deposits at interest of the rate of 4½ to 9 per cent. per annum, and granting loans at the yearly rate of from 12 to 24 per cent. on the security of landed and other property. The subject is one of much interest, and the paragraphs of the Commissioner's report regarding it are therefore published as an appendix to this Resolution.

9. Trade and Commerce.—The quantity of rice grown was again far in excess of the requirements of the division, and very large exports were made from every district, the estimated number of maunds exported from Backergunge, Dacca, and Furreedpore being 40,00,000, 2,30,000 (including re-exportation of Tipperah and Sylhet rice), and 6,37,938 respectively. The whole of the jute of the division is exported, and the year was one of remarkable productiveness. In Furreedpore and Mymensingh, for which districts only figures are given, the exports are estimated at 42 and 125 lakhs of maunds respectively. The outturn in the Rajshahye Division was also exceptionally good, and the result was a glut in the market and a great decline in price. The Commissioner anticipates that a much smaller quantity of jute will be grown this year, and a due balance established between the supply and the demand. The export trade in hides from the Dacca district is said to have declined, as has the hilsa trade of the same district and of Furreedpore. Betelnuts, molasses, and safflower are largely cultivated in Backergunge, Furreedpore, and Mymensingh respectively, though the trade in safflower is declining, jute being found a more profitable crop.

With regard to the import of piece-goods, the most remarkable fact is the increasing popularity in Dacca and Backergunge of the manufactures of Bombay as opposed to those of Manchester, owing to the supposed greater durability of the former. The greater cheapness of salt does not appear to have caused any large increase in consumption up to the present time. The remaining imports of importance are tobacco, hardware, and kerosine oil, this oil having generally taken the place of mustard oil for lighting purposes. The increasing importance of the port of Naraingunge is shown in the rise in the value of goods exported from Rs. 50,49,748 in 1881-82 to Rs 74,89,438 in 1882-83. In imports, which are comparatively of much less importance, a decline took place from Rs. 6,89,461 to Rs. 5,16,017. Nearly the whole of the falling off is, however, explained by diminished imports of treasure, consequent on the withdrawal of the steamer formerly running between Chittagong and Naraingunge, which has caused other methods to be employed for the transmission of specie to the division. The most important exports are jute and mustard. Among the imports nothing calls for special notice, except an increase from 1,152 tons to 6,629 tons in the importation of salt.

10. Public feeling and the Press.—The Commissioner states that the question of Local Self-Government has caused considerable interest at the head-quarters of districts and sub-divisions, but the only opinion quoted in the report scarcely supports this hopeful view. The Sub-Divisional Officer of Goalundo, Mr. Badshah, writes:—"The enthusiasm has died out. I had expected that it would quicken men's interest in local matters; that it would make them remove local nuisances and look after sanitary matters, as I thought they would do so in the hope of being deemed fit for the local board; but the enthusiasm began in talk and ended in it. There is not even a languid curiosity to know when the new scheme will be introduced." The abolition of the tax on fresh tari juice is said to have given general satisfaction. The only district in which interest is displayed in the Tenancy Bill is Mymensingh, where the hopes of the ryots are said to be extravagant, and the anticipation of the zemindars to be unduly gloomy. Better acquaintance with the terms of the proposed enactment will, no doubt, modify both these feelings. Interest in the Criminal Procedure Code Amendment Bill is said to exist only in the larger towns. Mr. Dutt, the Magistrate of Backergunge, makes the following remarks in regard to the general contentment and loyalty of the classes with whom he has come in contact:—

"I have occasion almost every day to converse freely on all topics with men belonging to the educated classes, and I can from personal knowledge safely assert that the feeling they entertain towards Government is unmixed loyalty and a sincere desire for the continuance of the present régime. Side by side with this feeling, however, also exists a strong desire for those rights and concessions in favour of the people which are advocated by papers like the Hindoo Patriot and the Statesman. The Viceroy is regarded with the sincerest and warmest feelings of loyality. Indeed I do not remember any Viceroy of India, within the last 20 or 25 years, idolised to such an extent as Lord Ripon is in the present day."

One new newspaper was started at Dacca, and one at Barisal, bringing the total number of newspapers in the division up to seven. Out of the eleven periodicals existing at the commencement of the year, no less than eight ceased to exist, while one new periodical only was published at Dacca and Barisal. The newspapers are described as unimportant, either for good or harm, though the Collector states that those at Mymensingh have been infected to some extent with the growing estrangement from, and bitterness towards, Europeans that has developed itself out of the Criminal Procedure Code Amendment Bill.

11. Administrative changes.—The most important local change made during the year was the establishment of a sub-division at Naraingunge, which was called for by the rapid development of that port. The effect of the establishment in the previous year of the Netrokona sub-division of Mymensingh is said to have been much appreciated. The Commissioner advocates the division of Mymensingh into two districts, and a proposal to this end is now under the consideration of Government.

12. Statistical enquiries.—The traffic on a certain portion of the Brahmaputra river, in the district of Mymensingh, was registered for statistical purposes throughout the year. The number of boats counted was 66,430, with a total burthen of 41,14,187 maunds. The up stream traffic consisted mainly of salt, sugar, molasses, wheat, cloth, and sâl wood from Calcutta, Naraingunge, Sylhet, Rungpore, and Gauhati, and the down-stream traffic of rice, jute, oilseed, and dried fish chiefly bound for Naraingunge.

13. Police and crime.—The numerical strength of the police in proportion to the area and population of each district is shown in the following statement:—

In Dacca	1 man to	4·57	square miles and 3,469	people.
„ Furreedpore	ditto	5·76	ditto 4,183	„
„ Backergunge	ditto	6·86	ditto 3,579	„
„ Mymensingh	ditto	13·37	ditto 6,493	„

The opinion of the Commissioner and of all his district officers, except the Collector of Furreedpore, regarding the police is very low, both in respect of honesty and efficiency, and all are agreed in ascribing the shortcomings of the force to the insufficiency of the pay to attract a respectable class of men to the lower grades of the service. So long, it is urged, as coolies employed in mills, on railways, or in the bazars, can earn more than the two lowest grades of constables, and so long as the lowest grade of head-constables receives no more than Rs. 10 a month, it is impossible that men should be attracted to the service by the hope of making an honest livelihood in it. The Magistrate of Furreedpore, while admitting that the force contains several very indifferent officers, through whose inefficiency cases have failed, yet acknowledges a great deal of excellent work done by the force in general. In Barisal, Mr. Dutt, though holding a poor opinion of the police, states that the conduct of the force was not on the whole unsatisfactory. It is hoped that the increase which has been sanctioned to the police of Mymensingh will enhance the efficiency of the force in that district. On the whole the state of the chaukidari force appears to be satisfactory, and this is especially the case in Backergunge, where the creditable state of things inaugurated by the Sub-Divisional Officer of Perozepore has spread.

The figures given in the report show an increase in the amount of cognizable crime as compared with the previous year, though they are still below those for the years preceding 1881. The total number of cases reported rose from 29,297 to 30,658, of which 12,804 or 41·7 per cent. were cognizable. Of these, 11,732 were declared true. The increase has been most marked in the district of Mymensingh, where the total number of cases has risen from 6,938 in 1880 to 9,124 in the year under review. In this district the police, owing no doubt in part to their numerical weakness, were particularly unsuccessful in the detection of crime, and it may be hoped that, with the increase to the force which has now been sanctioned, some improvement will take place. Taking the divisions as a whole, convictions were obtained in 42·8 per cent. of the cases investigated—a result slightly better than that of the previous year's working.

Looking at the figures given for the various forms of crime, it is satisfactory to observe a still further decrease in the number of dacoities, which has now fallen to 12—a result which, in the words of the Commissioner, "shows that dacoits do not now meet with sympathy and encouragement from the zemindars and the people, as there is only too much reason to believe that they did in former times." In the number of cases of rioting a very unsatisfactory increase took place from 360 to 574. In the Dacca district this offence fell off slightly in frequency, while in Furreedpore and Backergunge it remained almost stationary. The increase was practically confined to Mymensingh, and it is stated that most of the cases were very petty, four only being attended with loss of life. The existence of so many cases, however, indicates a lawlessness of feeling in the district which should be carefully repressed. The proportion of property recovered to property stolen (Rs. 29,989 out of Rs. 1,56,459) still leaves much to be desired.

14. Civil Justice.—The number of civil suits instituted rose from 85,859 in 1881 to 86,846 in the year under review, the value of the property in dispute increasing from Rs. 65,55,197 to Rs. 1,25,34,312, the increase in number being confined to rent suits, and that in value being most remarkable in the title and other suits of Mymensingh thus:—

	1881.						1882.
	Suits for money or moveables.		Rent suits.		Title and other suits.		Suits for money or moveables.		Rent suits.		Title and other suits.

The increase in suits for money and moveables in Mymensingh is attributed to the glut in the produce market which caused a scarcity of ready money among the ryots. In Furreedpore, where the demand for produce was greater and prices were consequently higher, ryots had no difficulty in paying their debts, and suits decreased. Of the 29,593 rent suits instituted, all but 533 were for recovery of arrears or for cancelment of leases. Of the remaining suits 171 were for recovery of money or accounts from agents and 118 for enhancement or abatement of rent. The sudden rise in the value of title suits is due to the institution in Mymensingh of one suit in which 50 lakhs of rupees were in dispute. The gradual decrease which has taken place of late years in the number of title suits is attributed by the Collector of Furreedpore to the increasing cost of litigation, and by the Collector of Mymensingh partly to the embarrassment of the zemindars, and partly to the "subsidence of the pressure brought by the operation of the Land Registration Act upon rival claimants to have their disputes settled by the civil court." The latter cause probably has been the more effective of the two, though no doubt, as the Commissioner observes, zemindars are finding out that litigation is a very expensive amusement. The Commissioner believes that the disposal of cases has been attended by less delay during the year under review than formerly; but Mr. Alexander is by no means singular in his opinion that the "vast number of holidays in which the courts are closed during the year militates against the prompt disposal of suits."

15. Land and Land Revenue.—The aggregate demand, arrear and current, amounted to Rs. 37,88,216, of which Rs. 33,50,259 or 88·43 per cent. were realized and Rs. 9,626 remitted. The arrear balance, amounting to Rs. 4,06,679 is heavy and is not fully explained. Looking at the current collections alone, moreover, the result is not satisfactory; the amount of the current demand is not stated, but the collections are said to have fallen short of it by over 10 per cent. In Furreedpore and Backergunge, where the collections were worst, the large arrears are explained by pending settlements and the resumption of 14 estates by the Dearah Superintendent and by the dullness of the rice market.

Discussing the question of new staples, the Commissioner thinks (and the Lieutenant-Governor agrees with him) that the Bengal ryot is not by any means averse to the cultivation of new crops, or to the introduction of agricultural improvements in themselves; he does, however, require to be convinced that the new crops and new methods of cultivation are better than the old, and he is no doubt unwilling to take steps to satisfy himself on this point, when there is any possibility of the experiment being attended by loss. How it is proposed to remedy this state of things has already been dealt with in the Resolution on the management of Government estates. In other parts of the country new staples have been introduced, and the ryots are fast learning the good to be obtained from new agricultural appliances. The experiments which Mr. Sharp proposes to make in introducing Howard's ploughs and Messrs. Thompson and Mylne's sugar mills should be specially noticed in the next report. The Lieutenant-Governor quite agrees, moreover, in the Commissioner's view as to the desirability of establishing hâts where practicable on Government estates.

The Dearah Survey under Baboo Parbati Charan Roy, the Superintendent, made excellent progress, no less than 3002·33 square miles having been surveyed. This good result was brought about by continuous field work from October 1881 to May 1882. A considerable tract of country in the Upper Brahmaputra, between Jamalpore in Mymensingh and the Garo hills, was also surveyed. One hundred and twenty-seven new settlements, yielding a revenue of Rs. 24,088, were effected at the close of the year; 195 settlements were still pending. Land registration operations have been practically completed in all districts except Mymensingh, where, as noticed last year, they are, owing to former mismanagement, much behind hand. Considerable progress has, however, been made, and the Commissioner believed, when the report was written, that the work would be completed by September 1883. Out of 1,275 estates which became liable to sale for arrears of revenue, no less than 1,167 were exempted, only 108 being actually sold. Notwithstanding a decline of 33 in the number of partition cases instituted, and an increase of 21 in the number of disposals, the number of pending cases was heavier by 30 at the close than at the commencement of the year. As an instance of the tedious and difficult nature of these cases, it may be mentioned that it has been found necessary to appoint a special officer to dispose of one case in the Furreedpore district which was instituted 52 years ago.

In regard to the relations between landholders, and tenants, it is stated that everywhere considerable difficulty has been experienced in realizing rents; but the Lieutenant-Governor would have been better pleased had the report given with some fulness the causes of these difficulties, seeing that the year was a very prosperous one. They cannot be explained on the ground of the poverty of the ryots, and therefore the statement made in the report under notice, that the relations between landlords and tenants were satisfactory, seems to Mr. Rivers Thompson to be based more on the absence of overt acts of violence than on the growth of feelings of sympathy and harmony between the classes. This was the state of things reported to Government in earlier reports: and as the realization of rents is the true test of the relations of landlord and tenant, there is nothing in that now under notice to induce the belief that real harmony or sympathy prevails. On this point the Commissioner enters into details only in regard to the Mymensing district, and there the state of affairs is thus described by the Collector:—

"The unsatisfactory relations between landlords and tenants noticed in the last annual report have grown and become intensified during the past year. This was owing in part to such an attitude on the part of the ryots being from its very nature infectious, the recusant ryot of one locality, of course, trying to secure greater support by getting others to co-operate with him; and in great part to the unsettling effect of the wild rumours spread about as to what the new Rent Bill was to do for the ryots. Still, though there was recusancy among the ryots in some extensive tracts, there were no serious agrarian disturbances, either in the shape of attacks by landlords or resistance by ryots. The recusancy is almost confined to pergunnahs Hoseinshahi, Mymensingh, Alapsing, and Kagmari. In all cases it has arisen out of attempts to enhance the rents, but such a state of tension cannot be expected to last very long without either collapsing or developing itself; and it is to be hoped that the new Tenancy Act will soon provide a modus vivendi by providing landlords with a workable machinery for enhancing to a fair figure, and for getting in arrears of rent admitted to be due. Under the present law, enhancement by suit in court is virtually impossible, and the levy of arrears by suit is costly and troublesome without being speedy. As a separate report upon the provisions of the Bengal Tenancy Bill will shortly be submitted, any allusion to it here is unnecessary.

"A rumour got about in this district among a number of ryots that by the new Act a maximum rate of rent of Rs. 3-6 per local árá was to be fixed. The ryots were effectively disabused of this notion by proclamation by beat of drum and in writing by me."

16. Excise.—The excise revenue of the division, which for the five years, from 1877-78 to 1881-82, averaged Rs. 5,44,373, rose in the year under review from Rs. 6,65,980 to Rs. 6,94,895, the increase being most marked in ganja (Rs. 20,079) and country spirits (Rs. 9,361). Chandu and opium also rose, while rum and tari declined. The increase under the head of ganja, which is due to an enhancement of one rupee in the duty, and to favourable settlements, was accompanied by a very satisfactory decline from 1,058 maunds to 857 maunds in consumption. The increase in the duty on country spirits was due to the further development of the outstill system and to successful settlements at auction. The number of outstills was increased from 292 to 322, and the revenue rose from Rs. 1,82,805 to Rs. 1,92,166. The average revenue per outstill thus fell from Rs. 626 to Rs. 596, and this decline certainly justifies the Commissioner's opinion that "there is very little room for any increase in the number of outstills in this division," if it does not warrant the supposition that the system has been too far extended already. The general opinion of the district officers of the division seems to be that drinking has increased, though the Collector of Mymensingh considers that this is true mainly of the upper classes who do not consume outstill liquor, and the Collector of Dacca argues only from the large amount of liquor sold. The Commissioner believes that there has been no palpable increase of drinking among the masses, and that hard drinking among the educated upper and middle classes is declining.

17. Stamps.—The revenue from stamps rose during the year from Rs. 18,49,337 to Rs. 19,29,640, and is now higher by Rs. 5,83,065 than was the case five years ago. The increase in the year under review was common to all districts in the division, and to nearly all heads of stamp revenue, the only exceptions being a slight decline in impressed stamps in Dacca and Mymensingh, attributed in the former case to the absence of large family disputes, and in the latter to the small number of leases executed in anticipation of the effect of the Tenancy Bill, and in hundi and court fee stamps in Furreedpore, and certificate stamps in Backergunge. Penalties for breaches of the stamp law were imposed in 690 cases against 480 in the previous year, and 80 persons, of whom 63 were convicted, were prosecuted criminally in 45 cases.

18. License Tax.—The total demand for the division amounted to Rs. 1,47,530 on 9,255 assessees, against Rs. 1,42,980 on 8,951 assessees in the previous year, and the collections rose from Rs. 1,41,547 to Rs. 1,44,265. The increase was common to all districts except Mymensingh, where, owing to previous over-assessment, a large number of names were struck off the list. The average demand on each assessee was about Rs. 15-14-4, and the average incidence of the tax per head of population was Rs. 0-3-3.

19. Monetary arrangements.—Owing to the absence of statistics regarding postal savings banks from all districts except Furreedpore, it is impossible to say what advance in popularity is being made by the savings bank system generally. Taking district savings banks only, however, the total number of depositors has risen from 1,113, depositing Rs. 4,08,734 to 1,123, depositing Rs. 4,23,604. The only district in which the number of depositors has fallen off is Dacca, where the decline is attributed to the growing popularity of postal savings banks. In the opinion of the Collector of Mymensingh, fluctuations in the amount of deposits are chiefly due to the arrival or departure of Government servants, the only class who appreciate the advantages of the banks. A large increase, amounting in the aggregate to Rs. 6,58,441 in the issues, and Rs. 4,00,061 in the payments of money orders, has taken place during the year,—a sign that the convenience of this method of remittance is now becoming appreciated. Regarding stock notes particulars are forthcoming only from Furreedpore and Mymensingh, in neither of which district have sales taken place on any considerable scale.

20. Public works and communications.—No railway, except the Eastern Bengal line, has as yet been opened in the division, but the Dacca and Mymensingh line is making satisfactory progress. The management of the Eastern Bengal Railway is the subject of severe comment by the Collector of Furreedpore, and is now under the consideration of the Government. It is a matter for regret that the attempt to establish a steamer service between Goalundo and Barisal has proved unsuccessful, owing to the inability of the Road Cess Committee to guarantee the subsidy demanded by the India General Steam Navigation Company. It is in contemplation to extend the system of water-supply for Dacca inaugurated by Nawab Abdul Gunny, and attempts are being made to raise a loan for the purpose.

The district of Mymensingh is the only one in the division in which the construction of roads is not a matter of serious difficulty and expense. With a view to utilize the natural features of the country as far as possible, the Committees of Furreedpore and Backergunge have rightly turned their attention mainly to the excavation of water channels. Existing roads have, however, been kept in very fair order in all districts, and progress has been made with other roads now under construction. Village roads appear also to have received considerable attention. The planting of trees by the sides of roads has been continued, but the Commissioner and the Superintendent of Works and the Collector of Backergunge agree in thinking that the circumstances of Eastern Bengal are such as to render the planting of trees a waste of money, as they only destroy the roads, and shade for travellers can be got everywhere within 100 yards of the road. The question of the destruction of roads caused by the drippings from trees has not escaped attention. The difficulty can be obviated by planting trees on the berme and not on the slopes of the road. It is for obvious reasons impossible to believe that trees 100 yards away from a road are of the same benefit to travellers as trees on the roadside. The insufficiency of the Road Cess Funds of Dacca and Mymensingh has been made the subject of a separate communication, and is now under the consideration of the Government.

21. Education.—The report on this subject is altogether satisfactory. A further gain of 72 per cent. in the number of schools and of 49 per cent. in the number of pupils took place during the year. The figures for the past three years are shewn below:—

Districts.	31st March 1881.		31st March 1882.		31st March 1883.
	Schools.	Pupils.	Schools.	Pupils.	Schools.	Pupils.
Dacca	906	30,098	1,575	43,556	2,891	64,431
Furreedpore	441	17,247	572	20,679	1,005	31,012
Backergunge	1,001	30,216	1,820	46,019	2,135	59,564
Mymensingh	692	19,048	1,811	35,889	3,560	64,079
Total ...	3,040	96,609	5,578	146,143	9,591	219,086

In three years the number of schools has been trebled and that of pupils doubled. It is further gratifying to observe that the unaided schools have increased in nearly the same proportion as those receiving help from Government, and that the percentage of Mahomedans attending school is now 47·9, while in the lower primary schools the Mahomedan pupils have now outnumbered the Hindus. Higher education, however, is still almost exclusively in the hands of the Hindus, and the progress made by Mahomedans is scarcely perceptible. The detailed statistics of the educational progress of the division will be considered in connection with the report of the Director of Public Instruction. The Dacca College and the English High Schools, with the exception of that at Barisal, which was very successful, did not do well at the University examinations. The progress made by female is quite as remarkable as that made by male education, the number of girls' schools having increased from 213 to 539, and that of female pupils, including girls reading in boys' schools, from 8,147 to 14,878 Dacca still has the largest number of girls' schools, but Mymensingh has more girls under instruction than any other district in the division. The Commissioner's remarks regarding the Sanskrit Titles conferred by the Saraswati Samaj will be communicated to the Director of Public Instruction.

22. Committees.—The reports of the various district officers regarding the working of Committees, while in some respects encouraging, are not altogether as satisfactory as could be wished. On the one hand the fear so often expressed in regard to Committees in India, that time would be wasted in long speeches and useless discussions, is not apparently justified by the state of things existing in the division; indeed two of the Commissioners expressly state that no time has been wasted, that good advice has been given, and that members express their opinions temperately, and without either factious opposition or servile acquiescence. On the other hand, all district officers complain that, when drier and more detailed and complicated work than that arising at large meetings has to be done, there is a general tendency to shirk it. One officer observes—"I know most members think this ought to be done by the so-called executive members—Chairman, Vice-Chairman, and Secretary; but if ever self-government, or even our present Committees, are to be a real success, members must work harder on Sub-Committees." Another says:—"There is, however, much delay and difficulty in getting members to attend Sub-Committees." The opinion of a third is "that the Municipal Commissioners of all the municipalities, as well as the members of the District Road Cess Committee, take considerable interest in the matters brought before them, when the comprehension of them is easy and involves no previous trouble; matters of any intricacy, or involving a knowledge of routine, are for the most part left to the Chairman to deal with.....The Branch Road Cess Committee, however, take but little interest in their work. The members I spoke to alleged that the official Chairman overrode their opinions and reduced them to cyphers. I am afraid there is some truth in this. At the same time members showed great unwillingness to put themselves to any trouble for the public service, and in some cases openly refused to visit works in progress unless they got travelling allowance." There is probably much truth in the following remarks by the Commissioner:—

> My general impression is that members take an interest in the matters under discussion during the time of a meeting, and show considerable acumen in the subject discussed, but when they leave the meeting, they seem to put the whole matter on one side, not to be gone into again till the next meeting comes round. They do not make the subjects a part of their every-day life, or regard them in a practical light: hence the impossibility of getting up active sub-committees, such as ward committees, who have to take a constant and practical part in the actual business to be done.

23. Court of Wards.—The estates in the division, which are 19 in number, are with two exceptions unimportant, though one large one, that of Dhankora in the Dacca district, was brought under management during the year. The estate of Jagat Kishor Acharjya will be released next year, and considerable progress has been made towards the reduction of its liabilities. As the Commissioner remarks, now that it is optional with the Revenue authorities to decline the management of an estate, the difficulties in the way of the Court of Wards in the Dacca Division will be much diminished.

24. Conduct of Zemindars.—While the conduct of the zemindars of the division generally is commended by the Commissioner, the following are selected for special praise:—

In Dacca ... { Nawab Ahsunulla, Kumar Rajendra Narain Roy of Bhawal, Baboo Srinath Roy.

In Mymensingh ... { Raja Surya Kanta Acharjya, Srimati Bisheshwari Chaudhrain, Baboos Jogendra and Amrita Narayan Acharjya.

None are specially censured.

25. Character of officers.—The Commissioner's remarks on this subject will be considered in the Appointment Department. Mr. Alexander speaks in very high terms of Mr. K. J. Badshah, Joint Magistrate of Goalundo, and praises Baboos Parbati Charan Roy, Akhoy Kumar Sen. and Rakhal Das Mookherjee.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

A. P. MACDONNELL,

Offg. Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

APPENDIX.

Dacca.

There are two loan banks in this district—one at Dacca and the other at Moonsheegunge. The former was first started in March 1880 with a capital of Rs. 20,000 divided into 2,000 shares of Rs. 10 each. It has, however, won a large share of public confidence by the excellent management of the Directors, and the capital has gradually increased to Rs. 1,00,000, being 10,000 shares at Rs. 10 each. The largest sum laid out in purchasing shares by one individual amounts to Rs. 8,000. The scope of its dealings is briefly ordinary banking business. It accepts deposits, giving interest at the rate of 6 to 12 annas per cent. per mensem, and advances money on hundis or on the security of landed property, houses, and jewellery. But when an advance is made otherwise than on a mortgage, the borrower is required to find a surety to back his bill. Transactions without security are for small sums only. But a loan is seldom given without security, unless the borrower is known to be well off. The rate of interest varies from Re. 1 to Rs. 2 per cent. per mensem. The largest sum advanced on a single transaction amounted to Rs. 7,500 at Rs. 1-4 per cent interest per mensem. At the end of each quarter the Directors adjust their accounts and distribute dividends. Up to the present dividends have been declared at Rs. 2 per cent. per mensem, or Rs. 24 per cent. per annum.

The loan bank at Moonsheegunge was registered on the 27th July 1876. It started with a capital of Rs. 20,000, divided into 2,000 shares of Rs 10 each. The paid up capital is Rs. 12,010, shares to the value of Rs. 7,990 remaining to be taken. It receives deposits, for which it pays interest at 8 to 12 annas per cent. per mensem The office lends money on the security of landed property, houses, and jewellery, and also on bonds executed by two persons. The rate of interest at which money is laid out varies from Re. 1 to Rs. 2 per cent. per mensem; but no loans are made without the consent of at least two Directors.

Backergunge.

There is only one loan office in this district, viz. that established at Barisal on 16th January 1874. Out of 800 shares of Rs. 25 each, 720 shares only have been taken. The deposits received up to 12th March last, for which interest is paid at the rate of 7 to 12 annas per cent. per mensem, amounted to about Rs. 41,507. The company made a profit at the rate of 12 per cent. during the past year. The bank opens current accounts and issues cheque-books to its constituents. It advances money on the security of landed property and jewellery, and also without any security when the position of the debtor is a sufficient guarantee. Loans on the security of goods are rare in this district. The largest sum advanced hitherto on a single transaction has been Rs. 11,000.

Mymensingh.

There are four loan offices in this district, viz. (1) the Nasirabad Loan Office at the sudder station, (2) the Mymensingh Loan Office at Jamalpore, (3) the Sherepore Loan Office at Sherepore in the Jamalpore sub-division, and (4) the Pingna Loan Office at Pingna in the Attya sub-division.

They were registered and opened on the dates and with the capital shown below:—

Names.	Dates.	Capital.
		Rs.
Nasirabad Loan Office ...	15th December 1875 ...	20,000
Mymensingh ditto ...	5th May 1874 ...	50,000
Sherepore ditto ...	24th July 1874 ...	20,000
Pingna ditto ...	February 1878 ...	20,000

The capital of the Mymensingh Loan Office at Jamalpore is divided into 500 shares of Rs. 100 each; that of the other three into shares of Rs. 10 each. Fixed and fluctuating deposits are received, for which interest is paid at the rate of 6 to 12 annas per cent. per mensem. Money is advanced with the permission of one Director on the security of landed property, houses, jewellery or on the security of Government promissory notes. The rates of interest vary from Re. 1 to Rs. 2 per cent. per month. Dividend is declared every quarter. These institutions have secured the confidence of the public and proved lucrative, returning on an average profits of 18 to 20 per cent. per annum.

Furreedpore.

There is also a loan office at Furreedpore, of which Mr. Sharp writes:—"It is registered under Act VI of 1882 and called the 'Furreedpore Loan Office, Limited.' It was started by some native officers of Government early in 1866 on a small capital of Rs. 570, with the charitable purpose of lending money to poor people at fairer interest than what is charged by ordinary money-lenders; and it is believed to be the first institution of its kind in Eastern Bengal. There are nine Directors, including one Managing and two Assistant Managing Directors, and a general meeting is held annually in May. The current duties are ably discharged by a Secretary, who is also an Honorary Magistrate and a member of committees. The office is in a flourishing way, and commands public confidence. The rate of interest on deposits has just been reduced in order to prevent too rapid increase of their amount The present rate on fixed deposits (subject to 12 months' notice) is 6 per cent. per annum, and on floating deposits 3 per cent. Loans are granted on mortgage of land (zemindari and putni only, not ryoti), jewellery, promissory notes or shares in this Company at interest of 12 to 19 per cent.; on mortgage of houses (masonry only) or on the personal security of two sureties, at 24 per cent. One loan of Rs. 23,000 is now outstanding. No loans are granted on crops or on any goods except jewellery and the like. There are now 1,820 shares of the nominal value of Rs. 10 each. The reserve fund is Rs 5,112; the amount of deposits—fixed, Rs 88,393; floating Rs. 91,868; others not bearing interest, Rs 8,448. The assets consist of outstanding loans Rs. 1,91,787, cash in hand Rs. 35,039, in the district savings bank Rs. 3,000, Government promissory notes Rs. 15,000, some landed property, and various other items, aggregating Rs. 2,80,042. The working expenses are a little over 10 per cent. on the profits. The shares have reproduced their original value every fourth year, and even in the year 1880-81, which was unlucky from losses, they paid 12 per cent. They are now at a high premium and difficult to get. Eight shares of the nominal value of Rs. 10 each were sold last year under a Civil Court decree for Rs. 201."

The only loan bank in this division which has made any advances on ryoti tenures is the one at Nasirabad in Mymensingh. This bank is prepared to do business in this line to any extent.

RESOLUTION ON THE REPORT ON THE ADMINISTRATION OF THE REGISTRATION DEPARTMENT DURING THE YEAR 1882-83.

REGISTRATION.

Calcutta, the 5th November 1883.

RESOLUTION.

The Report on the operations under the Mahomedan Marriage Registration Act during the year 1882-83.

Read also—

The Reports for the years 1880-81 and 1881-82, and the orders of Government recorded thereon.

During the three years preceding that to which the present Report relates, there was a gradual decrease in the work of the department. The Report for 1882-83 shows a revived activity, the number of registrations having exceeded by 18,057, or 3·36 per cent. the number in the preceding year, and this notwithstanding the fact that the number of offices open was less by two than in 1881-82. There was an increase both under the head of Compulsory registrations affecting immoveable property, and under the head of Optional registrations affecting property of the same kind. The increase under the latter was, however, very much more marked than that under the former, amounting to 14,046 operations, or 10·6 per cent, whilst under Compulsory registrations it only amounted to 3,786 operations, or 1 24 per cent. The total receipts amounted to Rs. 9,48,104, and the expenditure to Rs. 4,95,180. The net surplus was Rs. 4,52,924, or nearly Rs. 40,000 in excess of the surplus of last year, and more than 31,000 above that of any previous year.

2. The following statement shows the number of registrations, the receipts and expenditure, and the number of offices in existence in each of the last 18 years :—

4. The largest increase was under the head of optional registrations of instruments of sale, &c., of immoveable property of value less than Rs. 100, the number of such registrations exceeding by 9,025 the number registered in 1881-82, and by 10,758 the number registered in the preceding year. The number of registrations of similar instruments relating to property of the value of Rs. 100 and upwards exceeded the number registered in 1881-82 and 1880-81 by 3,315 and 3,447 respectively. Intruments of mortgage of immoveable property of value less than Rs. 100 increased by 3,429, as compared with the number registered in the preceding year, while the number of registrations of those relating to property of the value of Rs. 100 and upwards increased by 2,011. Looking at the figures as a whole, the number of registrations relating to immoveable property amounted to 81·8 per cent. of the total number of operations as compared with 81·2 per cent in each of the two preceding years. Optional registrations relating to immoveable property increased considerably, the number of such operations exceeding that in the preceding year by 14,046, or 10·6 per cent. The total increase in the number of optional registrations of all kinds of instruments amounted to 14,271 or 6·11 per cent. The number of obligations for payment of money, or bonds, decreased by 3,957, only 69,351 having been registered during the past year as compared with 73,308 in 1-81-82. In the following eight districts there were more than 20,000 registrations :—Jessore 60,013, 24-Pergunnahs (37,336), Backergunge (37,150), Chittagong (25,637), Midnapore (24,349), Noakholly (22,610), Fureedpore (22,527), and Tipperah (21,157). In 1881-82 there were also more than 20,000 registrations in all these districts as well as in Mymensingh, but during the past year there were only 18,031 in the latter district. In five districts the number of registrations was less than 3,000, while of these the number in Darjeeling and Singbhoom, though below 500, was larger than in the preceding year.

5. The number of leases of various kinds registered during the past year, as compared with the two which preceded it, were—

	1880-81.	1881-82.	1882-83.
Perpetual leases...	102,512	74,639	70,764
Other compulsory leases (term leases)	125,195	140,287	141,156
Leases for one year or less	4,485	3,890	4,534
Total ...	232,192	218,816	216,454

It thus appears that the falling off in the number of perpetual leases, which was observed last year, has continued, though the decrease was less marked; the increase of term leases for periods exceeding a year has also continued, though the difference is even less than the difference between the two years in perpetual leases. The six districts in which during 1881-82 the largest number of perpetual leases were registered again show the same result, and stand in the same order. They were as follow:—

	1881-82.	1882-83.
Chittagong	17,221	15,803
Jessore	16,119	11,881
Backergunge	12,150	11,180
Furreedpore	5,784	6,221
24-Pergunnahs	5,359	4,619
Noakholly	3,763	3,931
Total ...	60,396	53,635

Of the decrease (4,328) in Jessore, 2,562 were registered in the new district of Khoolna, which was formerly a portion of Jessore. The following table, given by the Inspector-General, shows the number of each kind of lease registered in the different provinces in Lower Bengal:—

	Perpetual leases.	Term leases.	Short leases.	Total.
Bengal	68,362	99,836	5,303	171,501
Behar	1,111	35,961	975	38,080
Orissa	84	1,663	35	1,782
Chota Nagpore	1,171	3,696	221	5,091
Total	70,764	141,156	4,534	216,454

The Registrar of Pubna reports that the system of perpetual leases is gradually spreading. This may be so in Pubna, but throughout the country generally the system, so far as can be ascertained from the operations of the Registration Department, appears to be decreasing. The Inspector-General says the number of perpetual leases appears to be slowly but steadily decreasing, though it is difficult to determine the exact cause. All that can safely be inferred is, he thinks, that landlords are generally averse to parting with their interest in the land, and that only needy or embarrassed proprietors resort to the granting of these leases. As usual a number of reasons for the decrease are adduced by various officers; the greater solvency of landlords in consequence of a good harvest having enabled them to collect their rents, and hence the absence of any necessity to grant perpetual leases in order to obtain the ready money afforded by the salami; the dislike felt by proprietors of parting with the khas management of their estates and become mere annuitants; the fact that zemindars are becoming alive to the bad effects of sub-infeudation; that ryots are unwilling to bind themselves down to the payment of a fixed rent which deprives them of the concessions they usually obtain in other cases for "contingencies of season"; and so forth. All these causes are probably at work, and partly explain the decrease; but the Lieutenant-Governor is still inclined to the view expressed in the Resolution on the Report for 1881-82, that neither landlord nor tenant is willing to bind himself in perpetuity by any agreement, so long as there is any uncertainty about the final form which the rent laws will take.

6. The total number of term leases for periods exceeding one year registered during the past year was 141,156, as compared with 140,287 in the preceding year. There was a decrease of 3,733 in the number of such leases registered in Bengal proper and of 78 in Chota Nagpore, while there was an increase of 4,460 in the number registered in Behar and 220 in Orissa. Though this increase in the aggregate was not large, it is sufficient to show a continued recourse to registration of term leases, and it may, the Lieutenant-Governor considers, be now accepted as a fact that the removal by Act I of 1879 of the exemption from stamp duty of certain kinds of cultivators' leases has not had the prejudicial effect on the registration of such documents which was anticipated. Of the total number of leases, other than perpetual leases, those under Rs. 25 in value amounted to 71·66 of the whole, whilst their average value was only Rs. 9·1. Among documents of this class, the Registrar of Chittagong notices one called a chitty, which is in effect a lease for life, as it confers no title upon the heir of the grantee. It appears to be usually granted by persons to relatives or others, on whom personal favours are wished to be conferred.

7. The proportion of leases to counterparts, which during the two years preceding that to which the last Report relates had been decreasing somewhat rapidly, shows a slight increase in 1882-83, as compared with the previous year, the proportion being 26·78 per cent. as compared with 26 66 in 1881-82. In Orissa there was a slight decrease from 25·67 in 1881-82 to 25·45 during the past year. In the other three provinces there was an increase—in Bengal Proper from 20·45 to 22·97, in Behar from 43·82 to 48·11 and in Chota Nagpore from 55·23 to 56. The highest percentage was 88·1 in Chumparun, and the lowest, as in the preceding year, was in Mymensingh, in which district the proportion only amounted to 4·31 per cent. In connection with the subject of the registration of kabuliyats, the Registrar of Mymensingh writes—

"In this connection I would mention that happening, when inspecting the office of the Rural Sub-Registrar of Netrokona in the cold weather, to enquire about the kabuliyats registered there, with a view to obtaining information as to the relations between landlords and tenants, I had read to me some specimens of a number registered by ryots of the Maharaja of Susang, which contained such very inequitable and stringent terms, binding ryots to agree to surrender every right, and to submit to any terms the landlord might dictate, including enhancement and ejectment at will on the expiration of the short term of three years agreed upon, that I enquired of the Sub-Registrar whether he had ascertained whether the ryots were aware of what they were agreeing to, and after giving me to understand that he could not say as regards most of those who, being illiterate, could not read for themselves, he said that some of them had said that they were obliged to agree to register, as otherwise they would not be able to live on the Maharaja's estate. I also, while endeavouring to bring about a settlement between the landlord and ryots on the Kagmari estate in Tangail, on asking the ryots why they had only a few years ago apparently voluntarily registered kabuliyats containing similar inequitable terms, and for short terms at largely enhanced rents, was answered that they had acted partly under compulsion, and partly under a promise that the zemindar would not ever really act on the terms of the kabuliyats. These were registered mostly at the Pingna rural sub-registry office. I think such occurrences indicate clearly that the provisions contained in the proposed new Bengal Tenancy Bill, to the effect that such kabuliyats should not be valid unless certified by a revenue officer to be proper, are much needed; also that until such a provision becomes law, all registering officers should be required to certify in writing, in the case of kabuliyats at enhanced rates, that the ryot had had the terms of the deed explained to him. I am doubtful, however, whether in such a state of things as at present exist in this district, any Rural Sub-Registrar ought to be permitted to register kabuliyats at enhanced rates."

The Lieutenant-Governor does not think it necessary to issue orders that Rural Sub-Registrars should refuse to register any kabuliyat at enhanced rates; but he must insist that, if there is any reason to suspect that the parties admitting execution do not clearly understand the nature and contents of the document, it is the duty of the registering officer very clearly to explain them. If the parties still remain willing to be bound by the documents, the registering officer cannot, under the present law, refuse to register them. The Inspector-General does not state whether, in accordance with the suggestions made in the Resolution on the Report for 1881-82, any instructions were issued to prevent the registration of counterparts as leases when the latter themselves are not registered. As no mention is made of any such mistake having been made during the past year, it is possible that the practice referred to has ceased. But if any such circular was issued, it would appear to have had very little effect, the number of kabuliyats and pottahs registered being as disproportionate as ever. Various causes, in the main the same as those put forward in the last Report, are given as the cause of the small number of leases in comparison with counterparts. The explanations generally given are that the landlords on their part consider that written agreements given by them lower them in the eyes of their ryots, and that they are unwilling to bind themselves by written agreements; while the ryots are generally satisfied with kabuliyats, of which, when registered, they can always obtain a copy in the event of any dispute with their landlords. Such explanations are on the face of them inadmissible.

8. There was an increase of 3,315 in the number of deeds of sale of immoveable property of the value of Rs. 100 and upwards registered during the year, 41,337 such instruments having been registered during the past year, as compared with 38,022 registered in 1881-82. Several reasons are assigned for the increase, but as it was general, and was made up of small increases in 36 districts, it is unnecessary to seek for any special cause; no doubt in some districts a partial failure of some of the crops was the principal cause of the increase, as well as of the increase of 2,011 in the number of deeds of mortgage of immoveable property of the value of Rs. 100 and upwards.

9. The statement showing the nature, number and value of the estates and tenures transferred during the year has for the present been discontinued under the orders of Government. It was found that in consequence of the inclusion of estates and tenures which, under exceptional circumstances, were disposed of for either excessively large or excessively small amounts, the returns were so affected as to be misleading. Instructions were accordingly issued that three sets of figures should be prepared for each class of estate or tenure sold; one showing the number sold below the normal number of years' purchase, the second showing the number sold at about the normal number of years' purchase, and the third the number of those sold at prices exceeding that rate. In order to fix the limits for each class some further enquiry was necessary, and the returns were in consequence discontinued pending the receipt of the necessary information. The Government of India, in their Resolution on the Registration Reports of the several Local Governments and Administrations for the year 1881-82, remark: "It is observed from the Bengal report that in attempting to ascertain the value of estates and tenures transferred by registered deeds of sale, registering officers were instructed to make enquiries of parties presenting deeds in which no revenue or rental was mentioned, in view to supply the requisite details, and that in several instances such interference was resented, parties declining to furnish the information as not compulsory under the law. The Government of India consider that the prosecution by registering officers of interrogations on points regarding which the law does not oblige the parties to give information is greatly to be deprecated. There is nothing more likely to render registration unpopular and to contract the business of the Department. Local Governments should see that any general instructions of this description, which may have issued, are withdrawn" As the statement, the preparation of the returns for which necessitated the interrogations, has for the present been discontinued, no parties presenting deeds for registration are now asked any inquisitorial questions of the nature of those objected to, and instructions will be issued in accordance with the orders of that Government not to resume the practice. The Inspector-General in his present report points to the causes which prevent the number of years' purchase for which estates and tenures are sold being an accurate test of the value of estates, and in these remarks the Lieutenant-Governor concurs. After due consideration, it seems doubtful if the information obtained in any way compensates for the time occupied in obtaining it. In the case of ryoti holdings at fixed rates and with rights of occupancy the information is valuable, and the Lieutenant-Governor desires that the returns as regards these holdings should be continued. In the case of other tenures or holdings it is unnecessary to exhibit the number of years' purchase, and it will be sufficient merely to exhibit the purchase-money and the occupation of the purchaser, in order to show whether land is merely being transferred from one zemindar to another, or is passing to any considerable extent into the hands of the non-agricultural classes, or into those of the intermediate tenure-holders, or of the ryots. The number of years' purchase need not be shown.

10. There was an increase from 231,479 optional registrations in 1881-82 to 245,613 such registrations in the past year. Instruments of sale of property of less than Rs. 100 in value increased by 9,025, while deeds of mortgages of property of similar value increased by 3,429. Throughout Bengal and Behar the increase was fairly general. In the Sonthal Pergunnahs there was a considerable decrease under both these heads. This is attributed to the ruling of the Civil Courts restricting the sale of cultivating tenancies A similar decrease is also observable in that district in the number of deeds of sale and mortgage of immoveable property of the value of Rs 100 and upwards, which is doubtless assignable to the same cause.

11. There was a decrease of 3,957 in the number of money bonds registered, only 69,351 having been registerd during the past year as compared with 73,308 during the preceding year. There has been a gradual decrease in the number of bonds registered since 1879-80, in which year the number amounted to 99,576, the most marked decrease being in the year 1880-81, when 20,611 fewer bonds were registered than in the preceding year. Although on the whole there was a small decrease during the past year, yet the number of bonds registered in 30 districts exceeded the number registered in those districts during the year 1881-82. In Jessore, however, there was a large decrease. In this district, including that portion of Khoolna which was, during 1881-82, a part of it, the number registered during 1882-83 was only 28,524, or less by 6,305 than the number registered during the preceding year. The District Registrar attributes the falling off to the agricultural prosperity of the last three or four years, while the Inspector-General thinks that "the probable cause of the decrease is that the people of Jessore are beginning to understand that the registration of bonds is optional, and that their registration confers no extra validity on the deed." Looking to the excessively large number of bonds hitherto registered in Jessore as compared with the number in other districts, it is possible that this has been due to some misconception among the people of the district of the requirements of the law as far as it relates to bonds, and if so, a decrease must naturally follow their enlightenment.

12. The number of Wills registered during the past year was 1,891, as compared with 1,756 in the preceding year. The number of general powers-of-attorney authenticated during 1882-83 was 4,594, as compared with 4,433 in 1881-82, while the number of special powers-of attorney authenticated in the two years was 2,538 and 2,474 respectively. The number of written authorities to adopt was small, only 28 being registered during the year.

13 In consequence of the increase of work in connection with searches made under the orders of the High Court, the Inspector-General has proposed that a record-keeper should be entertained in each of the first class offices. The question is under the consideration of Government. In view of the necessity of preventing any risk of tampering with the books, a special officer may be required for the duty. It would seem from the reports from various districts that the parties generally make only a nominal search for encumbrances, and that the affidavit which they subsequently file in the civil court is a mere matter of form. Some of the District Registrars consider that the search should be made by the office establishment. The Lieutenant-Governor cannot accept the suggestion, for even were the office establishment sufficiently strong to undertake the work, the duties could not, under the rules as they now stand, be imposed upon it, as it could not assume a responsibility which devolves on the parties making the application for sale.

14. Registration was refused in 2,846 cases, as compared with 2,963 in the preceding year. There were 270 appeals and applications under sections 72 and 73 of the Act, as compared with 329 during 1881-82, and of these registration was ordered in 160 and refused in 110. In only 9·48 per cent. of the cases in which registration was originally refused were appeals preferred against the orders.

15. The number of documents impounded during the past year amounted to 2,303, as compared with 2,031 and 832 impounded in 1881-82 and 1880-81 respectively. Of these the stamps were found to be incorrect in 1,854 cases and correct in 377; the other cases were pending at the end of the year. There was a marked improvement, as compared with the preceding year, in the time taken in adjudicating such cases, and the small number pending at the close of the year contrasts most favourably with the balance pending at the end of 1881-82. There were 85 prosecutions instituted under the Act, and of 119 persons concerned in these cases, 67 were convicted and 52 were acquitted.

16. The total receipts during the year amounted to Rs. 9,48,104, as compared with Rs. 9,11,920 in 1881-82, while the expenditure decreased from Rs. 4,98,514 to Rs. 4,95,180, the surplus being Rs. 4,52,924, as compared with Rs. 4,13,406 in the preceding year. From this amount must, however, be deducted the book debt of Rs. 59,920 for stationery, printed registers, and printing charges, the net surplus for the year being Rs. 3,93,004, as compared with Rs. 3,58,269 in 1881-82. The system under which Rural Sub-Registrars are remunerated by commission on a sliding scale continues to work satisfactorily.

17. The total number of offices open at the close of the year was 285, as compared with 287 at the close of 1881-82. Four rural offices, in which the work done was very small, were abolished during the year, while two new ones were opened. In accordance with the views expressed in the last Resolution, regarding the desirability of converting sub-divisional registration offices into rural offices, nine offices were so converted during the year.

18. The operations under the Mahomedan Marriage Registration Act for the last seven years are given in the following table:—

Year	Number of districts in which the Act was in force.	Number of offices open on the 31st March.	Number of marriages registered.	Number of divorces registered other than khola.	Number of kholas registered.	Total number of ceremonies registered
1876-77	14	77	2,555	402	161	3,118
1877-78	14	103	7,291	1,104	595	9,390
1878-79	14	103	8,161	1,705	771	10,637
1879-80	14	107	7,187	2,097	623	9,857
1880-81	14	106	5,777	1,874	779	8,430
1881-82	14	107	4,951	2,239	667	7,857
1882-83	14	112	5,068	2,247	766	8,081

Compared with the very large Mahomedan population in the 14 districts in which the Act is in force, the results, though slightly better than during the preceding year, are not very satisfactory. In only two out of the seven years since the Act was passed have the operations been less than during the past year. There can be no doubt that the people care little for the Act, and do not avail themselves of its provisions; whether this is to be attributed to a want of confidence in, or respect for, the Mahomedan Registrars, or the result of an unwillingness on the part of the people to go to the trouble and expense of registration, or both, the fact remains that the Act is all but inoperative in five out of the fourteen districts. The Committee appointed to revise the rules and procedure under the Act is still sitting in Calcutta, and on the receipt of its report it may be possible to adopt measures which will make the Act more popular; but the general apathy of the people is against any voluntary resort to registration. A proposal was recently received from the Commissioner of Patna for the appointment of a Mahomedan Marriage Registrar for the Jarra pergunnah in the district of Gya, but as the Act has not been extended to that district, the Lieutenant-Governor was unable to sanction the proposal. Looking to the results in the districts in which the Act is at present in force, Mr. Rivers Thompson does not consider it desirable to extend its operations at present The number of marriages registered during the past year was 5,068, as compared with 4,951 in the preceding year, and 766 khola and 2,247 other divorces were registered, as compared with 667 and 2,239 respectively, in 1881-82, the total number of ceremonies registered being 8,081, as compared with 7,857 in the preceding year. There were 112 offices open at the close of the year, as compared with 107 at the close of 1881-82. The number of inspections made was 106, and the registers were found to be in good order. The conduct of the Mahomedan Registrars was reported to be satisfactory.

19. The number of registration offices inspected during the year was 868, as compared with 936 in 1881-82. The explanation given is, partly, that there were fewer offices to inspect, and partly that Mr. Bourdillon, who resumed charge of the office during the three months that Mr. Handley was on privilege leave, was engaged in the preparation of the Census Report and was unable to make any inspections. Mr. Bourdillon's employment on a special duty, though it was only for three months, may possibly to some extent account for the decrease in the number as compared with last year; but for the rest the excuse is utterly invalid in view of the nominal decrease in the number of registration offices. Moreover, from a case which has recently come to the Lieutenant-Governor's notice, he is quite certain that inspections are neither as frequent nor as thorough as they should be. The Inspector-General has for his assistance in this duty two special officers. In no department of the public service is constant inspection more necessary. It is to the Inspector-General alone that the Government can look for the detection and removal of such irregularities as recently occurred in the Behar office. Mr. Rivers Thompson must desire the Inspector-General himself to take a larger share of this most important work than he has of late been in the habit of doing; and he should certainly make a point of inspecting the office at the head-quarters of each district once in each year. The number of stamp inspections was 347 as compared with 398 in 1881-82.

20. The Lieutenant-Governor notes with satisfaction the names of the officers mentioned by Mr. Handley as deserving of special notice. Their names, with a copy of the Inspector-General's remarks, will be forwarded to the Appointment Department of this office for information.

ORDER.—Ordered that a copy of this Resolution be forwarded to the Inspector-General of Registration, for information and guidance.

Ordered also that extract paragraph 20 of this Resolution, and extract paragraph 49 of the Report, be forwarded to the Appointment Department of this office for information.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

F. B. PEACOCK,

Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

4. Of the works enumerated in paragraph 1, the following are especially noted :—

Public buildings.—Under this head Rs. 24,158 were contributed. Of this amount, Babus Sridhur Mundle and Bunsidhur Mundle gave, jointly, Rs. 15,000 for completing a school building at Nowabgunge police station for native children; the Maharajah of Durbhungah gave Rs. 2,475 for a Sanskrit school at Madhubani; and Babus Girdhary Singh and Durgadutt Singh gave Rs. 3,350 for an English school at the same place.

Roads.—The total of Rs. 4,554 under this head is made up of small amounts. The largest contribution, Rs. 1,100, was given by Thalapar Fakir for a kutcha road at Magirdanga police station, Keshubpur, Jessore.

Bridges.—Rupees 1,180 were contributed for these works, and of this amount, Dhoni Ram Moochi gave Rs. 330 for a wooden bridge at Mekhal, Hathazari station.

Embankments or bunds.—Of Rs. 1,833 contributed, Rs. 433 were given by the Maharajah of Cooch Behar for repairs to the Tangun bund at Chakla Boda.

Tanks.—Under this head, Rs. 87,808 were contributed, and of this amount, Babu Soorja Narain Chowdhury gave Rs. 2,500; Babu Doorga Churn Mondul, Rs. 2,710; Rajah Promotho Nath Roy Bahadoor, Rs. 3,000; and Babus Govindo Shaha and Mandhar Khawas, Rs. 4,000 each.

Wells.—Rupees 10,171 were contributed for these works. Of this amount, Rs. 1,700 were contributed in the district of Patna for 6 wells; Rs. 1,450 in the Shahabad district for 6 wells; Rs. 1,650 in the Sonthal Pergunnahs district for 4 wells; and Rs. 1,975 in the Monghyr district for 5 wells; the balance of the number of wells for which contributions were given during the year is distributed among the districts of Rungpore, Julpigoree, Sarun, Chumparun, Bhagulpore, and Hazaribagh.

Masonry ghâts.—Only two ghâts—both on the banks of the Bhagiratti—were constructed during the year, at a cost of Rs. 4,500, and of this amount, Srimati Irinmoi Dassya gave Rs. 3,000 for constructing one of them.

RESOLUTION.—The amount contributed this year by native gentlemen on works of public utility is considerably less than that spent during each of the three previous years, and is only a little over half the sum contributed last year. This decrease is principally due to the facts that last year a few gentlemen made some exceptionally liberal donations. Thus out of the total amount of Rs. 3,18,075 contributed last year, Rs. 89,000 were given by the Maharaja of Burdwan, Rs. 11,420 by the Maharája of Cooch Behar, Rs. 20,310 by Baboo Anandapersad Kundoo Chowdry, and Rs. 18,000 by Iaisri Bania, these four items alone making up nearly half of the total contributions. The number of works have decreased from 209 to 180. The decrease is entirely amongst the small works; those costing over Rs. 500 each have slightly increased.

The Lieutenant-Governor desires to acknowledge the public spirit of those gentlemen who have this year executed works for the benefit of their fellow countrymen, and has much pleasure in thanking them for their disinterested liberality.

2. Letters of acknowledgment will be forwarded by Government to those who have constructed important works. The rest will, as usual, receive acknowledgment from the Commissioner or Magistrate of the Division.

ORDER.—Ordered that a copy of this Resolution, and of the statement, be forwarded to the Board of Revenue, Lower Provinces, to all Commissioners of Divisions, to the Commissioner of Chota Nagpore, and to all Superintending Engineers of Public Works Circles in Bengal, for information.

Ordered also that a copy of this Resolution, and of the statement, be forwarded to the Revenue and Judicial Departments of this Government for information.

Ordered also that this Resolution and the statement be published in the supplement of the Calcutta Gazette for general information.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

J. M. HEYWOOD, Lieut.-Col., R.E.,

Offg. Joint-Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal,

P. W. Dept.

	No.	District, and date of return.	Rainfall at Sudder Station in inches.	Character of the weather, state and prospects of the crops, and state of health at date.
BENGAL.
		Western Districts.
Burdwan Divn.	1	Burdwan, Nov. 3 '83	A few drops	Weather—cloudy and cool Prospects decidedly bad. Crops suffering from want of rain. Irrigated crops and crops on very low lands only are doing well.
	2	Bankoora, „ 3 „	0·11	Weather—cloudy and muggy with slight drizzling rain. Prospects of crops continue unfavourable. Cool and cloudy weather however, has, proved favourable and useful for fields where irrigation is available. A failure of half of the outturn is anticipated. Public health good.
		Bisheupore ...	0·03
		Maliara ...	Nil
		Khatra ...	0·3
	3	Beerbhoom, „ 3 „	0·15	Weather—fine, with the exception of a light shower at close of week Outturn of aus paddy fairly good. Rain urgently wanted for amun crop, which is expected to be seriously deficient. A light shower has done some good. Irrigation going on wherever possible Price of rice has risen considerably. Health of district satisfactory.
		Rampore Haut ..	Nil
	4	Midnapore ...	.....	Report not received.
	5	Hooghly, „ 3 „	0·03	Weather—cloudy. Prospects of amun crop bad; not more than one-third of an ordinary crop can now be expected. Sugarcane pretty good. Rain much wanted for amun and for rubbee cultivation. Public health good.
		Howrah, „ 5 „	Nil	Weather—fine; cool. Rain much wanted. Crops suffering. Health fair.
		Oolooberiah ...	Nil
		Central Districts.
Presidency Divn.	6	24-Pergunnahs Nov. 5 '83	0·01	Weather—cloudy and dry. Late rice on high lands has seriously suffered in consequence of drought. Crops on low lands promise well. A downpour of rain would even now prove beneficial Public health generally good.
	7	Nuddea, „ 3 „	Nil	Sky has looked like rain for some days, but it has not come. Prospects of amun crop very bad for want of rain. It is only on the lowest lands that there is anything like a decent yield. In Ranaghat, Meherpore, Chooadanga and Sudder winter sowings at a stand-still for want of rain.
		Kooshtea ...	Nil
		Meherpore ...	Nil
		Chooadanga ..	Nil
		Ranaghat ..	Nil
	8	Khoolna, 3 „	Nil	Weather—cloudy, with prospect of rain at close of week, and slight drizzle on 2nd Prospects in Bagirhat and in southern part of district fair, but in other parts rice crop has dried up and prospects bad. Rain is still wanted for winter sowings. Fever prevails in places.
	9	Jessore, „ 3 „	Nil	Weather—cloudy; hot in day, night seasonable. Amun crop has suffered considerably from drought. Injury caused to this crop is estimated at 10 annas on the average. Want of rain has retarded the sowing of winter crops, the prospects of which are not good. Four months ago rice was selling in the Sudder station at 23 seers per rupee. It is now selling at 16 seers per rupee. Fever is prevalent in the district.
		Jhenida ..	Nil
		Magura ...	Nil
		Narail ...	Nil
		Bongong ...	Nil
	10	Moorshedabad, „ 3 „	Nil	Weather—overcast with bursts of sunshine The week has been again rainless, with the exception of an insignificant shower confined to the centre of the district. In the north a total failure of the late rice is expected, though rain within a week might save a third of this crop. Elsewhere it is probable that a crop of from one-third to one-half of an average yield will be saved by irrigation. The October indigo has, it is feared, suffered irretrievably, and oilseeds, pulses and cereals have all been more or less damaged by insects. Sugarcane, however, promises well. There has been a re-action against the excessive rise in the price of rice reported last week, which it is now evident was due to a panic on the part of holders.
Rajshahye and Cooch Behar Divn.	11	Dinagepore Nov. 2 '83	Nil	Weather—cloudy, but rain holds off. Prospects of rice crop not good, but taking high land with low, an 8-anna outturn may be expected. Prospects of rubbee depend entirely on rain coming soon.
	12	Rajshahye, „ 3 „	Nil	Clouds, but no rain; weather cool. Amun on high land is now destroyed, and is being used as fodder. Rubbee can be only partly sown without an early fall of rain.
		Nattore ...	Nil
		Nowgong ...	Nil
	13	Rungpore „ 3 „	Nil	Weather—cool and seasonable; occasionally cloudy. Prospects of amun gloomy. Winter crops doing well. Prices of food-grains stationary throughout the district, except in the Kurigram sub-division, where the price of rice has been reduced to Rs. 2 12 from Rs 3-4 per maund. Fever still prevalent.
		Gaibanda ...	Nil
		Kurigram ...	Nil
		Nilphamari ...	Nil
	14	Bogra, „ 3 „	Nil	Weather—latter portion of week cloudy, and somewhat sultry for the time of year. A slight drizzle occurred one day, and there was a fog next morning. State and prospects of amun crop continue to be very bad. A large part of that crop is an entire failure, and the outturn on the whole will not exceed 6 annas. Fever reported from many places.
	15	Pubna, „ 3 „	Nil	Sky cloudy with slight rain. No improvement in state of amun rice crop. Ground being prepared for winter crops.
	16	Darjeeling, „ 3 „	Nil	Fresh clouds have again gathered. Crops in the hills doing well Rain very badly wanted for late rice in the Terai. Fever still hanging about in the Terai.
	17	Julpigoree, „ 3 „	Nil	Weather—cool. Seasonable. State and prospects of crops favourably reported. Public health good.

BHAGULPORE DIVN.
33	Monghyr, Nov. 3 '83	Nil	Weather—cloudy and hot. Continued absence of rain causes much anxiety for rice crop, which is generally backward and will prove very short if rain does not fall within the next fortnight. Rain also much wanted for young rubbee crops.

	Jamui .	Nil
34	Bhagulpore, „ 3 „	Nil	Weather—cloudy during the last two days, but no rain anywhere. Rather hot during the day. SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL FOR THE WEEK ENDING THE 2ND OF NOVEMBER 1883.

THERE is little that calls for remark in the meteorology of the past week. The early termination of the south-west monsoon rains in Bengal has accompanied the prevalence of increased pressure, diminished temperature, and great dryness of the air. These features have been strongly marked during the week under review. The Bay of Bengal is, during the months of October and November, a very important factor in the meteorology of the surrounding coasts. The continuance of moist south-west winds over the south of the Bay, and the setting in of northerly winds in Bengal and at the head of the Bay, accompany other conditions which are favourable to the formation of cyclonic vortices and disturbances. These differ much in character, depending upon slight differences of the conditions under which they are formed Occasionally they form large areas of diffused cyclonic action, when the fall of the barometer is small, winds are comparatively feeble, weather squally and unsettled, and the accompanying rainfall large in amount and extended over a considerable area. On the other hand they are sometimes concentrated and violent in character, with a well defined centre. In this case there is a clearly marked line of advance of the centre of the cyclonic disturbance, at and near which in the Bay the weather is stormy and dangerous. The rainfall in this case is often locally excessive, but is generally confined within narrower limits than in the previous mentioned class, whilst it accompanies more closely the track of the cyclone. A large proportion of the rain which falls in Southern India at the commencement of the north-east monsoon is undoubtedly due to the formation of these cyclonic vortices This year, as in 1882, the conditions have apparently been favourable to their occasional formation in the extreme south of the Bay to the south-west of the Andamans and west of the Nicobars. Cyclonic disturbances generated in this part of the Bay invariably, so far as past experience indicates, move westward to the Coromandel coast. They, however, influence the weather over the whole of the Bay, giving cloudy skies, damp atmosphere, and occasional rain to the northern as well as the western shores.

The only important feature in the meteorology of the past week has been the formation of a diffused cyclonic disturbance in the south of the Bay, which advanced across the Madras coast at the end of the week. It gave heavy rain to the Madras Presidency. It apparently began to form on the 28th or 29th of October, and its existence was clearly indicated at the Bengal coast stations on the morning of the 30th, when the skies began to cloud over, the humidity of the air to increase, and the wind directions to shift slightly. It gave moderately heavy rain to Orissa and Chutia Nagpur and light showers to the adjacent districts of South-West Bengal during the last three days of the week under record. The depression crossed the Madras coast apparently on the 2nd of November, when it gradually filled up. It disappeared as a cyclonic disturbance on the morning of the 4th. During the interval skies gradually cleared, in Behar on the 2nd, and in Bengal on the 3rd and 4th. Fine clear weather, such as accompanies the north-east monsoon when it is fully established over the Bay, prevailed on the morning of the 5th, and appears likely to continue for some days at least.

The chief features of the week have been indicated in the preceding remarks. Pressure has been uniformly high. The excess is greatest in North Behar, and probably North Bengal and in East Bengal, that is, in the immediate neighbourhood of the hills. This has occasioned or accompanied an unusual preponderance of northerly winds, and has hence given rise to diminished temperature and great dryness of the air. The deficiency of temperature has been most marked in North Behar, where the mean temperature of the week is nearly 2° below the normal.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the seven meteorological divisions of the Province :—

Saturday, 27th October.—Pressure increased briskly in all districts. The increase was largest in East and North Bengal and Behar, and least in Orissa. Pressure was largely above the normal in all divisions, the average excess being equal to about 0·12″.

Temperature has risen slightly in East Bengal, Behar, and in Chutia Nagpur, though in other districts the changes are small and rather variable. Temperature was slightly above the normal in East Bengal, but in all other districts was below it. The average defect was about 2°. North-easterly winds prevail in all districts, except South Behar, where several stations report south-westerly winds. Humidity was low at almost all reporting stations, and the sky almost free from cloud over the whole Province.

Sunday, 28th October.—The changes of pressure during the previous 24 hours were generally small, and did not alter its distribution to any extent. Pressure was largely above the normal, the average excess being about 0·11." Temperature increased in South-West Bengal, but in other districts the changes were generally small and variable. It was below the normal in all districts by small amounts averaging 1°. Winds were a little irregular. Southerly winds prevailed at several stations in Behar and North Bengal. In other districts winds varied from north-east to north-west. Humidity was low in all districts. Except at a few stations in South-West Bengal and Orissa, the sky was cloudless over the whole Province. Fine clear weather prevailed throughout the Province.

Monday, 29th October.—Pressure decreased briskly over the greater part of the reporting area during the preceding 24 hours, and was very uniform over the Province. It was still above the normal, the average excess being about 0·05." Temperature increased in Orissa, but in the other districts the changes were small and variable. Temperature was slightly above the normal in North Behar and was normal in Chutia Nagpur. It was below it by small amounts in all other divisions, the average defect being 1·5°. Southerly winds were reported from some stations in South and North Behar, Chutia Nagpur, and North Bengal, but north-easterly winds prevailed in Orissa, South-West and East Bengal. Humidity continued fairly low in all districts. With the exception of a few stations in Orissa, the sky was almost cloudless over the whole Province. Fine clear weather, with comparatively low temperature and humidity prevailed in all districts.

Tuesday, 30th October.—Pressure had fallen by small amounts over the whole Province. The fall was greatest in Orissa, where pressure was now below the normal. Temperature increased during the past 24 hours at most of the stations in Orissa, South-West Bengal, and Chutia Nagpur. Winds were north-easterly in South-West, East and North Bengal, and Chutia Nagpur, and variable in Orissa and South Behar. Humidity was generally increasing. The amount of cloud also increased considerably during the past 24 hours.

Wednesday, 31st October.—Pressure was increasing slowly at almost all the reporting stations, except those in Orissa and in the south of South-West Bengal. The changes were generally, however, small, and Orissa continued to show comparatively low pressure. Temperature had risen at the majority of stations, but the changes were not large. It was below the normal in East Bengal, but rather above it in all other divisions. Winds were a little irregular in direction, They were generally northerly with a strong easterly set in Orissa and South-West Bengal. In Chutia Nagpur and at some stations in South and North Behar winds are south-easterly. Wind velocities were increasing at the southern stations of Orissa, but elsewhere winds were light. Humidity was increasing, while the cloud proportion had become large over the whole Province during the past 24 hours. This was due to the extension of an area of disturbance in the south of the Bay which was giving heavy rain on the Coromandel Coast. Rain was now falling in Orissa and Chutia Nagpur, but all other districts were rainless. Gopalpore received 2·54 inches, Cuttack 1·24 inches, and Hazaribagh 0·05 inch.

Thursday, 1st November.—Pressure fell in Chutia Nagpur and in East and North Bengal during the past 24 hours, but in other divisions the changes were small and variable. Pressure was very nearly normal in Chutia Nagpur and Orissa and above the normal in all other districts by amounts ranging from 0·09" at Durbhanga to 0·01" at Saugor Island. Temperature was falling in Orissa, South-West Bengal, North Bengal, and Chutia Nagpur, but in other districts it was almost stationary. It was still slightly above the normal in Orissa, South-West Bengal, and South Behar, and was below it in East Bengal and North Behar, and largely below it in Chutia Nagpur, where Hazaribagh reported a defect of 6°. Winds were north-easterly in North Bengal, East and South-West Bengal and Orissa; northerly in Chutia Nagpur; and north-westerly in Behar. Humidity continued moderate at the majority of stations, but was rather large in Orissa and Chutia Nagpur. The sky had cleared somewhat in Behar and East Bengal, but was completely overcast in Orissa, South-West Bengal, and Chutia Nagpur. Rain continued to fall in South Orissa, and to a less extent in Chutia Nagpur The other districts were rainless.

Friday, 2nd November.—Pressure diminished slightly at the great majority of stations. It was slightly above the average, except in Orissa, South Behar and Chutia Nagpur. Temperature was falling in Orissa. It was either stationary or had risen slightly in the other districts of the Province. The mean temperature of the past 24 hours was below the average in Orissa, Behar, and Chutia Nagpur by amounts varying from 2° to 4°. It was slightly above it in Bengal. Winds were light throughout the Province, and irregular locally at a few stations. They were generally from directions varying from north-west in Behar to north and north-east in Bengal and Orissa. Humidity was above the average in Orissa and South Bengal. The sky was overcast in South-West Bengal, and more or less clouded over the remaining districts. Light to moderate showers fell during the previous 24 hours at several of the Orissa, South Behar, and Chutia Nagpur stations, and in the western districts of South-West Bengal.

The results of observations at the Alipore Observatory are not rigorously comparable with the registers of past years (at the Park-street Observatory). The barometer is about 8 feet higher at Alipore, and, other things being equal, reads therefore ·003 lower. The diurnal range of temperature is also greater at Alipore, and the mean temperature apparently about 0·8 lower; and finally, the thermometer, which has furnished the record of temperature at the Surveyor-General's Office during the last 20 years and upwards, is found to read 0·6° higher than the Kew standard thermometer, which is the standard of reference at the present Observatory.

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h., 10h., 16h., and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard Newman's No 86 formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The direction of the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[Third publication.]

The following Act of the Governor General of India in Council received the assent of His Excellency the Governor General on the 12th October, 1883, and is hereby promulgated for general information:—

ACT NO. XIX OF 1883.

An Act to consolidate and amend the law relating to loans of money by the Government for agricultural improvements.

WHEREAS it is expedient to consolidate and amend the law relating to loans of money by the Government for agricultural improvements; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title.

1. (1) This Act may be called the Land Improvement Loans Act, 1883.

Local extent. Commencement.

(2) It extends to the whole of British India, but shall not come into force in any part of British India until such date as the Local Government, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, may, by notification in the local official Gazette, appoint in this behalf.

XXVI of 1871.

Acts XXVI of 1871 and XXI of 1876 repealed.

2. (1) The Land Improvement Act, 1871, and Act XXI of 1876 (an Act to amend the Land Improvement Act, 1871,) shall, except as regards the recovery of advances made before this Act comes into force and costs incurred by the Government in respect of such advances, be repealed.

(2) When in any Act, Regulation or notification, passed or issued before this Act comes into force, reference is made to either of those Acts, the reference shall, so far as may be practicable, be read as applying to this Act or the corresponding part of this Act.

"Collector" defined.

3. In this Act, "Collector" means the Collector of land-revenue of a district, or the Deputy Commissioner, or any officer empowered by the Local Government by name or by virtue of his office to discharge the functions of a Collector under this Act.

Purposes for which loans may be granted under this Act.

4. (1) Subject to such rules as may be made under section ten, loans may be granted under this Act, by such officer as may, from time to time, be empowered in this behalf by the Local Government, for the purpose of making any improvement, to any person having a right to make that improvement, or, with the consent of that person, to any other person.

(2) "Improvement" means any work which adds to the letting value of land, and includes the following, namely:—

(a) the construction of wells, tanks and other works for the storage, supply or distribution of water for the purposes of agriculture, or for the use of men and cattle employed in agriculture;

(b) the preparation of land for irrigation;

(c) the drainage, reclamation from rivers or other waters, or protection from floods or from erosion or other damage by water, of land used for agricultural purposes or waste-land which is culturable;

(d) the reclamation, clearance, enclosure or permanent improvement of land for agricultural purposes;

(e) the renewal or reconstruction of any of the foregoing works, or alterations therein or additions thereto, and

(f) such other works as the Local Government, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, may, from time to time, by notification in the local official Gazette, declare to be improvements for the purposes of this Act.

Mode of dealing with applications for loans.

5. (1) When an application for a loan is made under this Act, the officer to whom the application is made may, if it is, in his opinion, expedient that public notice be given of the application, publish a notice, in such manner as the Local Government may, from time to time, direct, calling upon all persons objecting to the loan to appear before him at a time and place fixed therein and submit their objections.

(2) The officer shall consider every objection submitted under sub-section (1), and make an order in writing either admitting or overruling it:

Provided that, when the question raised by an objection is, in the opinion of the officer, one of such a nature that it cannot be satisfactorily decided except by a Civil Court, he shall postpone his proceedings on the application until the question has been so decided.

Period for repayment of loans.

6. (1) Every loan granted under this Act shall be made repayable by instalments (in the form of an annuity or otherwise), within such period from the date of the actual advance of the loan, or, when the loan is advanced in instalments, from the date of the actual advance of the last instalment, as may, from time to time, be fixed by the rules made under this Act.

(2) The period fixed as aforesaid shall not ordinarily exceed thirty-five years.

(3) The Local Government and Governor General in Council, in making and sanctioning the rules fixing the period, shall, in considering whether the period should extend to thirty-five years or whether it should extend beyond thirty-five years, have regard to the durability of the work for the purpose of which the loan is granted, and to the expediency of the cost of the work being paid by the generation of persons who will immediately benefit by the work.

Recovery of loans.

7. (1) Subject to such rules as may be made under section ten, all loans granted under this Act, all interest (if any) chargeable thereon, and costs (if any) incurred in making the same, shall, when they become due, be recoverable by the Collector in all or any of the following modes, namely :—

(a) from the borrower—as if they were arrears of land-revenue due by him ;

(b) from his surety (if any)—as if they were arrears of land-revenue due by him ;

(c) out of the land for the benefit of which the loan has been granted—as if they were arrears of land-revenue due in respect of that land ;

(d) out of the property comprised in the collateral security (if any)—according to the procedure for the realization of land-revenue by the sale of immoveable property other than the land on which that revenue is due :

Provided that no proceeding in respect of any land under clause (c) shall affect any interest in that land which existed before the date of the order granting the loan, other than the interest of the borrower, and of mortgagees of, or persons having charges on, that interest, and, where the loan is granted under section four with the consent of another person, the interest of that person, and of mortgagees of, or persons having charges on, that interest.

(2) When any sum due on account of any such loan, interest or costs is paid to the Collector by a surety or an owner of property comprised in any collateral security, or is recovered under sub-section (1) by the Collector from a surety or out of any such property, the Collector shall, on the application of the surety or the owner of that property (as the case may be), recover that sum on his behalf from the borrower, or out of the land for the benefit of which the loan has been granted, in manner provided by sub-section (1).

(3) It shall be in the discretion of a Collector acting under this section to determine the order in which he will resort to the various modes of recovery permitted by it.

Order granting loan conclusive on certain points.

8. A written order under the hand of an officer empowered to make loans under this Act granting a loan to, or with the consent of, a person mentioned therein, for the purpose of carrying out a work described therein, for the benefit of land specified therein, shall, for the purposes of this Act, be conclusive evidence—

(a) that the work described is an improvement within the meaning of this Act ;

(b) that the person mentioned had at the date of the order a right to make such an improvement ; and

(c) that the improvement is one benefiting the land specified.

Liability of joint borrowers as among themselves.

9. Bills introduced into the Council of the Governor General for making Laws and Regulations, or published under Rule 22.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[Third publication]

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 10th October, 1883, and was referred to a Select Committee:—

No. 22 OF 1883.

A Bill to amend the Indian Ports Act, 1875.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend section 47 of the Indian Ports Act, 1875, so as to provide that the pensions or gratuities (if any) of persons employed in any port under that Act shall be charged to the Port Fund account of the port; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

XII of 1875.

Amendment of section 17 of the Indian Ports Act, 1875.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

IT has recently been ruled by the Government of India in the Finance Department that service in establishments paid from port funds managed by the Government is qualifying service for pension, provided that the port fund pays for such service. It has now been brought to notice by the Government of Bombay that section 17 of the Indian Ports Act, 1875, which regulates the accounts of port-dues, does not authorize provision for pensioning employés either by investment of part of the port funds, or by the purchase of pensions from Government, or otherwise. As it seems to the Government that, when it administers a port fund, it should have the power of ordering the payment of pensions out of that fund, the present Bill, which modifies section 47 of the Indian Ports Act so as to give the Government the desired powers, has been prepared.

EDUCATIONAL NOTICES.

Gilchrist Scholarships.

Amended rules for the Scholarships instituted by the Gilchrist Educational Trust.

[These Scholarships, like the Degrees and other Academical Rewards of the University of London, are open to women upon exactly the same conditions as to men.]

A SCHOLARSHIP of the value of £150 per annum, and tenable for four years, will be annually awarded to a candidate, born in India or Ceylon, who shall become eligible by competitive examination, and shall be desirous of prosecuting a course of academical study in Great Britain with a view to graduation in one of the Faculties of Arts, Science, Law, or Medicine, in the University of London, under the following conditions:—

1. Of the parents of each candidate one at least shall not be of pure European descent.

2. Every candidate must furnish proof satisfactory to the local authorities that he has completed his sixteenth year, and that his age does not exceed twenty-two years.

3. Every candidate must furnish proof satisfactory to the local authorities that in regard to personal character and social position he is qualified to be admitted to competition for a scholarship.

4. Candidates approved by the local authorities shall present themselves at the January Matriculation Examination of the University of London, which will be held simultaneously, under the direction of Government sub-examiners, at the three Presidential Capitals of India, and at the Royal College, Colombo, commencing on the second Monday in January.

5. The answers of the candidates, approved as aforesaid, will be forwarded, through the Governments of India and Ceylon respectively, to the Registrar of the University, who will cause them to be reviewed by the examiners and who will forward their report to those Governments, to be by them announced to the candidates.

6. The scholarship shall be awarded to the candidate whose aggregate of marks stands highest, provided that he passes either in the Honours or in the First Division. Such candidate shall have his choice whether he will pursue his curriculum of study in the University of Edinburgh or in University College, London.

7. The successful candidate will be expected to arrive in London, and to present himself to the Secretary of the Gilchrist Trust, not later than the first week in the October following his appointment. If a native of India, he will be provided by the Government of India with a free passage to England.

8. The scholarship shall be considered as commencing from the 1st of July following the award of the examiners; and shall be payable in quarterly instalments on the first days of October, January, April, and July.

9. Each scholar shall attend in every session at least three courses of lectures at the institution in which he studies, and shall transmit to the Secretary of the Gilchrist Trust, at the conclusion of each session, a certificate from each of the Professors whose lectures he has attended, stating that his diligence and conduct have been satisfactory. Should he not be able to produce such a certificate or should he be proved guilty of discreditable conduct elsewhere, he shall be considered to have forfeited his claim to the remaining instalments of his scholarship.

10. Each scholar shall be expected to present himself at the Intermediate Examination in one of the Faculties of Arts, Science, or Law, or at the Preliminary Scientific M. B. Examination, in the University of London, before the termination of the Second (Academical) year* from the commencement of his scholarship, unless excused from doing so by the Trustees; and if he do not so present himself (unless by permission of the Trustees), or if he fail to pass, he shall be considered as forfeiting his claim to the remaining instalments of his scholarship. After having passed this first examination, he will be expected to pursue his studies with the view of presenting himself at the next examination within two (Academical) years.

* Thus a candidate whose scholarship commences on the 1st of July 1884 would be considered as having fulfilled this condition if he pass the Intermediate L. L. B Examination in January 1886; or the Intermediate B. A., the Intermediate B. Sc. or the Preliminary Scientific M. B Examination in the following July.

11. A grant of Fifty Pounds will be made by the Trustees for the return passage of every scholar who shall succeed in obtaining his degree in the University of London. For every Indian scholar who may fail to obtain his degree a return passage will be provided by the Government of India.

12. The foregoing scheme shall be subject to revision from time to time, the Trustees reserving to themselves the power of altering the conditions of the scholarships, or of altogether withdrawing them, if they deem it expedient to do either. But no change will be made in such a manner as to affect the interests of candidates already appointed to scholarships, or in any case without twelve months' notice.

Simla, the 1st November 1883.

No. 265.—The following Revised Rules and Rates for Inland Telegrams are published for general information :—

RULES AND TARIFF FOR INLAND MESSAGES.

Rules and Tariff, relating to the transmission of Telegraph Messages in India, sanctioned by the Governor General of India in Council, with effect from the 1st December 1883.

GENERAL.

Rule 1.—The accuracy of messages is not guaranteed, and the Sender and Receiver must accept all risks arising from non-delivery, errors or delays.

Rule 2.—Telegraph Stations are divided into three classes, viz. :—

Class of office.	General working hours (local time).	Special working hours (local time) on Sunday, Christmas Day, New Year's Day, Good Friday, and the Queen's Birthday.
I.	Day and night ...	Day and night.
II.	7 A.M. to 9 P.M.* ...	7 to 9 A.M., and 4 to 9 P.M.
III.	10 A.M. to 5 P.M.* ...	7 to 9 A.M., and 4 to 6 P.M.

Exception in favour of emergent telegrams signed by competent authority.

In cases of life and death, or of extraordinary emergency, a message countersigned by the Chief Civil or Military Authority at a Station, or by any of the Authorities empowered to "clear the line" (see Rule 40), can be sent from any office at any time.

Messages should be legibly written.

Rule 3.—Senders of messages are advised to write their messages in an unmistakable and distinct hand.

ACCEPTANCE OF MESSAGES FOR TRANSMISSION.

Acceptance of messages at Post Offices.

Rule 4.—Messages are accepted at all Post Offices. Where the Post Office is unconnected by wire, the messages are despatched by first post "registered" to the nearest Telegraph Station without extra charge. Post Offices which accept and despatch messages by wire are called "Combined" Offices: Post Offices unconnected by wire are called "Receiving Offices."

Limit to length of messages.

Rule 5.—No message or messages of more than five hundred words can be sent at any one time by any private individual or firm, and no second messages by the same individual or firm till after the lapse of three hours, unless the lines be free and not required by any one else.

* These hours are subject to modification to suit local requirements.

Rule 6.—All messages must be legibly written in the Roman character or in Arabic figures: subject to the above limitation, messages may be sent in the vernacular, or any foreign language, or in cipher, if written in Arabic numerals.

Messages must be in the Roman character or Arabic figures.

At Telegraph and Post Offices in Stations other than the Presidency Towns, every assistance possible is afforded to natives in the translation of messages into English, and vice versâ.

Messages translated for natives.

Rule 7.—The body of the message must be preceded by the address (as defined in Rule 18). The true signature and address of the Sender must always be written at the foot of the message.

Form to be followed.

The Sender of a private message can always be called upon to prove that the signature attached to it is genuine.

Verification of signature to private messages may be insisted upon.

Rule 8.—The address must contain all the information necessary to ensure the delivery of the message at its destination, and the Sender in all cases supports the consequences of insufficiency of address. After the message is once despatched, it can neither be cancelled, completed, nor rectified, except by the despatch of a fresh paid message.

Full address necessary.

Rule 9.—Every interlineation, reference, erasure, or alteration of words must be authenticated by the Sender of the message, or by his representative.

Authentication of corrections necessary.

Rule 10.—Messages from places where there is no Telegraph Station should be tendered at the local Post Office with cash or with postage stamps, in which case the Post Master will grant a receipt for the amount, or they may at the option of the Sender be addressed to the nearest Government Telegraph Office by post registered, together with telegraph or postage stamps sufficient for their payment, in which case a receipt for the amount will be posted free to the Sender.

Messages sent by post to telegraph stations for transmission.

In the case of a message sent by post to a Telegraph Station with an insufficient number of stamps, the excess charge will be recovered from the addressee.

Treatment of messages received by post for transmission insufficiently stamped.

Rule 11.—Messages can be addressed to places where there are no Telegraph Stations. In such cases, the Sender must state (free) from what Telegraph Office delivery is to be effected.

Messages addressed to non-telegraph stations.

Example.—"To Sherghotty, Post Burhee."

No charge will be made for ordinary Inland postage, or for registration, but postal registration is compulsory in the case of messages which have to be posted in India to places beyond Indian limits, and in such cases both the postage and registration fees* must be prepaid by the Sender.

Rule 12.—With the following exception, all charges for messages must be prepaid in cash or in stamps:—

"Bearing" messages.

Messages are sent "bearing" from sea-ports when received for despatch by mail steamers or other vessels, but no such message, whether "prepaid" or "bearing," will be received for transmission until the name of the vessel has been made known. Bearing messages will not be delivered to the Addressees until after payment has been obtained.

Rule 13.—All charges on telegrams tendered at Government Telegraph Offices are prepaid in telegraph stamps, which are procurable at every Treasury and every Government Telegraph Station.

Use of stamps.

Telegraph stamps are double-headed, the object being that the upper half shall be returned on the receipt (whereby the Sender receives a guarantee that his message has not been suppressed for the sake of the stamps), and the lower half shall be affixed to the message as voucher to Government that it has been prepaid.

Form of stamp provides a guarantee to the Sender and to Government.

The Senders of messages should be careful to affix their telegraph stamps on the spaces left blank for the purpose on the message forms, the upper half on the receipt, the lower half on the message, and to see that the stamps are defaced with the office stamp which bears the name of the station and the date.

Stamps to be properly affixed to the forms.

Telegraph stamps cut in two, before being sent into a Telegraph Office, or which are in any way defaced, discoloured, or damaged, cannot be accepted.

Cut or defaced stamps cannot be received.

Application for the refund of the value of such stamps, accompanied by particulars of the way in which the stamps became damaged, may, however, be made to the Telegraph Check Office, Calcutta, which will ordinarily comply with the application when no doubt exists that the damaged stamps are genuine, and that the damage was not caused intentionally.

At "combined offices" (see Rule 4) telegrams can be prepayed in postage stamps.

Proper forms on which to write messages are available gratis at all Telegraph Stations and Post Offices, and Senders are requested to use these forms only.

Forms obtainable gratis at all stations.

Rule 14.—State messages from all public functionaries must be paid for in cash or in stamps prior to despatch; the rates are the same for State messages as those charged to private individuals. This Rule will be Charges on State messages.

* 8 annas.

relaxed in case of great emergency: whenever an 'urgent' State message is tendered for despatch under this permission, the Sender must take the necessary steps to ascertain the charges on it, and pay them into the Telegraph Office within 24 hours.

State messages take their turn for despatch with private, urgent, or deferred messages.

Rule 15.—State messages not marked "urgent" will be treated as "deferred" (see Rule 19) : they take their turn for despatch with "urgent" and "deferred" private messages according to the order in which they were tendered.

No unpaid messages to be despatched under penalty.

Rule 16.—No unpaid messages, except those specified in the Departmental Regulations, shall, on any account, be transmitted. A violation of this rule will subject the Signaller or Telegraph Master in charge of the station from which a message is improperly despatched to dismissal from the public service.

Objectionable messages to be refused acceptance.

Rule 17.—Telegraph Masters are required to refuse to transmit a message which may be of a decidedly objectionable or alarming character. Should the character of a message be open to doubt, the matter shall be referred to a Secretary to Government, if the message be tendered at the seat of Government, or the Chief Civil or Military Officer, if at a provincial station.

CHARGES.

Rule 18.—No charge is made for the transmission of the Address.

Free Address.

The "Address" includes names of stations from and to which the message is to be despatched, the bond fide names or designations* of the Sender and Addressee, and the latter's address. No other words can be transmitted unless paid for as part of the body of the message, and the officers of the Telegraph Department are authorized to omit from the address any words which are not essential to the correct delivery of the message.

If the Sender of a message desire his own address to be telegraphed, it must be included in the body of the message, and paid for.

Charge for a message.

Rule 19.—The following are the rates of charges for a message :—

(No charge is made for the transmission of the address)

	Local messages,—i.e., those tendered during the working hours of a Telegraph Office for transmission in ordinary course within a radius of six miles of a Central Government Telegraph Office.		Deferred messages,—i.e., those tendered during the working hours of a Telegraph Office for transmission at night and to be delivered at destination early on the following morning.		Ordinary messages,—i.e., those tendered during the working hours of a Telegraph Office for transmission and delivery in ordinary course.		Urgent messages,—i.e., those tendered during the working hours of a Telegraph Office for immediate transmission with precedence over ordinary messages.

Messages despatched to and from railway stations without extra charge

Rule 20.—A message can be sent from any Station of the Government Telegraph Department to any Railway Telegraph Station, or vice versâ, without additional charge.

APPLICATION OF CHARGES.

Rule 21.—The maximum length of a word is fixed at six syllables; the excess is counted as a word.

No unusual abbreviations or combinations permitted.

Rule 22.—Messages must not contain any unusual combinations, abbreviations, or constructions. Any word in common use, which, although requiring two words to express it, is generally recognized as one word, is charged as one word when so written; when the two parts are not joined by a hyphen or apostrophe, and when of, or less than, six syllables. "Halfpenny," "Twopence," "Threepence," &c., up to "Elevenpence," when written as a single word, count as one word only. "F. O. B.," "C. F. I.," "A. M.," and "P. M.," when written as separate letters, are each counted as two and three words, respectively, but when written "Fob," "Cfi," "Am," "Pm," as one word.

Words joined by a hyphen.

Rule 23.—Words joined by a hyphen are counted as so many separate words.

Words separated by an apostrophe.

Rule 24.—Words separated by an apostrophe are counted as so many separate words. (This rule does not apply to nouns in the possessive case, as "General's," "Charles'," "Brother's.")

* Name and designation cannot both be admitted, unless it would otherwise be obviously impossible for the Addressee to identify the Sender.

A message can only be sent in the name of one individual or firm.

Proper names, titles, &c.

Rule 25.—Proper names of towns and persons, names of places, streets, ships, titles, Christian names, prefixes, and qualifications, are counted for the number of words employed by the Sender to express them.

Every separate character, including an underline, charged as a word

Rule 26.—Every isolated character, whether letter or figure, is counted as a word. The same applies to an underline.

Signs of punctuation.

Rule 27.—Signs of punctuation, hyphens, apostrophes, inverted commas, parentheses, fresh paragraphs, are not counted or signalled, but decimal points, commas, bars of division, &c., used with figures, are each counted as a figure and signalled.

Charges for figures.

Method of counting figures.

Rule 28.—When numbers are expressed in figures, all the characters, figures, letters, or signs in each group are added together, the total divided by three, and the quotient, plus one for the remainder, if there be any, gives the number of words the group represents. Signs used to separate groups and letters added to figures to form ordinal numbers are counted each as a figure or letter; groups of letters not forming words (letter cipher) cannot be transmitted.

All words to be transmitted charged for.

Rule 29.—All that the Sender writes in his message to be transmitted to be included in the cost, but the Address of a message, as defined in Rule 18, will be transmitted without charge.

Date and time of receipt added by the Department and transmitted free

The day, hour and minute (Madras time) of receipt of a message into a Telegraph Office for despatch are in every instance added by the Department and telegraphed free of charge. Senders may, however, date their messages if they think fit, but the Sender's date, if given, will be charged for.

Multiple messages charged as separate messages.

Rule 30.—A message addressed to several persons, or to the same person in localities where delivery is to be effected by different offices, is charged for as so many separate messages.

Multiple messages charged as one message

Rule 31.—A message addressed to several persons in one locality, or to the same person at several places of residence in one locality, with or without transmission by post, is charged for as a single message; but a copying fee of four annas, independently of postage, if any, is charged for each destination after the first.

REPETITION OF MESSAGES.

Collation of message.

Rule 32.—The Sender of any message can require that it be repeated. In this case the different stations employed in its transmission collate it as it passes, repeating it to each other integrally.

Charge for collation.

Rule 33.—The charge for repeating is equal to half the charge for the message. A repeated message is indicated by the word "collated," which, to ensure the greatest accuracy, is telegraphed (free) both in the official instructions and as the first word of the text of the message.

ADVICE OF DELIVERY

Advice of delivery.

Rule 34.—Any Sender can require that a notice of the time at which his message is delivered be transmitted to him by telegraph. This advice of delivery may be addressed to him at any Station he may name.

Case of non-delivery

Rule 35.—If the message cannot be delivered, the return telegram indicates the circumstances which prevented delivery, and, if possible, gives the information necessary to enable the Sender to cause his message to reach its destination.

Priority of return-message.

The return-message has priority in transmission over "ordinary" messages.

Charge for advice of delivery

Rule 36.—The charge for an advice of delivery or non-delivery is one rupee.

PREPAYMENT OF REPLY.*

Rule 37.—The Sender of a message can prepay a reply, depositing for this purpose a sum not exceeding ten times the cost of his original telegram; but the message to which a reply is prepaid must not be addressed to more than one person. On depositing the corresponding sum, the Sender can add (free) the words "Reply paid," or Answer paid," and the amount to which he wishes the reply to be limited. The Terminal Station pays to the Receiver, in Telegraph or Postage stamps, or in money, the amount prepaid, leaving it to him to send his answer how, and when, and to what address he pleases, or not to send one at all. The reply, if sent, is considered in every respect as a fresh message.

In the case of a message to which a reply is prepaid addressed to a station where there is no Telegraph Office, the amount is forwarded to destination from the nearest Government Telegraph Office, not in Telegraph stamps, but by currency notes and Postage stamps in an insured cover, the Sender must accordingly prepay the postal insurance fees.

Reply deposits exceeding Rs. 2 in value cannot be received at or delivered from any Railway Telegraph Office, or received at any Postal Receiving Office (see Rule 4). Messages addressed to Stations on Railways to which replies exceeding Rs. 2 in value are prepaid are posted with currency notes and Postage stamps enclosed from the nearest Government

* The Sender of a State message addressed to a Government official may not prepay a reply. And in the case of a State message addressed to other than a Government official, any sum deposited by the Sender under this rule must be intended for no other purpose than to cover the cost of a return telegram.

Telegraph Office, direct to the addressee. In the case of such messages also, the postal insurance fees are payable by the Sender.

Should it be impossible to effect delivery of a "Reply paid" message, the Terminal Station sends a Service telegram to that effect to the Sender, and the amount deposited will be refunded on application being made to the Telegraph Check Office, Calcutta. The words "Reply paid" or "Answer paid" entitle the Addressee to receive the equivalent of the minimum charge only

It should be distinctly understood that it is not compulsory on the Addressee to send a reply. The duty of the Terminal Station consists simply in paying to him, in Telegraph stamps or in money, the amount prepaid, leaving him at liberty to do what he pleases with it.

DELIVERY.

Rule 38.—"Local" messages will be delivered free of charge within one mile, and other messages within five miles of a Telegraph Station. Beyond this distance messages will be sent by post without charge or by such other means as the Sender may arrange and pay for. Should the addressee of a message other than a "local" message) have left the Station to which it is addressed, it will, if returned unopened with definite instructions as to the new address, be retransmitted without extra charge.

Free delivery radius

If the Sender requests it, messages will be delivered open. In this case the words Deliver open must be included free in the body of the message.

The Telegraph Department may deliver "deferred" messages through the Post Office of the place of destination.

The messenger who delivers a message may be entrusted with the reply, provided he be not detained for this purpose more than five minutes. The fact of the reply having been given to the messenger, and the amount paid to him, should be mentioned on the receipt given for the original message

Rule 39.—Any Firm or Individual expecting to receive Inland or Foreign messages can register an abbreviated address at the Government Telegraph Office from which such messages have to be delivered Rules for registration of abbreviated addresses.

No abbreviated address can be accepted which has already been registered locally by another Firm or Individual

The fee for registration of each abbreviated address is Rs. 10 per annum, payable in advance on the 1st January in each year or Rs. 50 for all time, with a fine of Rs. 5 for every change of address. Abbreviated addresses are considered confidential.

The Department accepts no responsibility in respect of the delivery of any telegram having an abbreviated address if such address has not been registered.

CLEAR LINE MESSAGES.

Rule 40.—On emergent occasions of great importance, the public functionaries named below have the power to "clear the line," that is, to suspend the receipt and despatch of all messages until the one for which the line is "cleared" is passed on:—

(1)—The Governor General of India.
(2)—The Governors of Madras and Bombay.
(3)—Commanders-in Chief, India, Madras and Bombay.
(4)—Lieutenant-Governors of Bengal, North-Western Provinces and the Punjab.
(5)—Secretaries to the Government of India.

(9)—Commissioners of Sind and Peshawar.

(11)—Director General of Telegraphs in India.
(12)—The Maharaja of Patiala; from the Patiala Office only.

The messages so sent are, however, to be paid for, in cash or in stamps, as other State messages.

REFUNDS.

Rule 41.—No refund will under any circumstances be made for a State message of any class or for a "local" or "deferred" private message; and no refund will be made for an "ordinary" or "urgent" private message delivered wholly or partially in an unintelligible state, unless the extra charge for repetition has been paid by the Sender.

No refund given for State messages or for "local" or "deferred" private messages or for errors in uncollated "ordinary" or "urgent" private messages.

Rule 42.—If an "ordinary" or "urgent" private message be not delivered, or be subjected to serious delay through the fault of the Telegraph Department, the whole charge made for it will be returned to the Sender.

Conditions of refund in the case of "non-delivery or delay" of private messages

Rule 43.—Applications for refunds, as also all complaints respecting messages, should be addressed to the TELEGRAPH CHECK OFFICE, CALCUTTA. Such claims for refund should be made, under penalty of rejection, within two months from the date of the message; but this period is extended to six months in the case of a repeated message, or of a message for which a Reply or an Advice of Delivery has been prepaid. (When an overcharge has been made on an inland message through the neglect of the Telegraph employés, and when there exists no doubt whatever as to the justice of the claim, the amount overcharged will be repaid at once by the Telegraph Master.)

CANCELLATION OF MESSAGES.

Refund not admissible when a message is cancelled at the Sender's request.

Rule 44.—If the Sender of an inland message wishes to cancel it before transmission has commenced he can do so, but the charges upon it will not be returned when once the stamps are obliterated. If the message is in course of transmission, or has already been despatched, it can only be cancelled by a paid message from the Sender to the Telegraph Master of the Terminal Station. If in addition the Sender wishes to be informed by telegraph in what manner his request has been acted upon, he must deposit the cost of the return telegram.

OBLIGATION OF SECRECY.

Rule 45.—To secure secrecy as much as possible, all persons (including officers of the Department) not actually on duty are strictly prohibited from entering the Signal-room. Breach of this regulation renders an offender liable to a fine of Rs. 500 under Act I of 1876.

Penalties for divulging the contents of a message.

Rule 46.—Violation of secrecy on the part of any person in the Department will be punished by dismissal from office, forfeiture of arrears of pay, and a declaration in the official Gazette of the incapacity of the delinquent to serve the Government in any capacity. He will also be liable to the further punishment of fine, or to imprisonment (with or without labour) not exceeding three years, or to both.

It is a violation of secrecy to mention the fact that a message has been received or despatched by any particular person or firm.

COPIES OF MESSAGES.

Certified copies of messages obtainable by Sender and Receiver.

Rule 47.—The Sender and Receiver have a right to be furnished with certified true copies of any message sent or received by them; a fixed charge of four annas is made for every copy furnished. As no Telegraph Office keeps copies of messages longer than three days, applications for copies required after that time has elapsed should be made to the TELEGRAPH CHECK OFFICE, CALCUTTA.

Applications for copies must be made within six months of the date of the message. At the expiration of that period all message drafts are destroyed.

One anna must be enclosed for postage of the reply—failing which, it will be sent "bearing."

Application may be made, as above, by an interested party for the preservation of specified telegrams exchanged between other persons on the ground of pending or contemplated judicial proceedings. Such telegrams will be preserved for a further period of six months, at the expiration of which they will, in default of a renewed application, be destroyed.

Should the particulars furnished be insufficient to enable the Check Office to trace the telegrams at once, the estimated cost of the required search must be deposited by the applicant. It must be understood that the duty of the Telegraph Department in the matter is confined to making the search and preserving the telegrams if found. No information as to the result of the search will be furnished, and any telegrams answering the description given which may be found will only be produced on the order of a competent court of law or other competent authority.

PRESS MESSAGES.

Rule 48.—Bonâ fide Press messages, i. e., messages in the ordinary English language addressed to, and intended for publication in, a newspaper, can be despatched at the following rates:—

Urgent.—Two rupees for the first 32 words and four annas for every additional 4 words.

Ordinary.—One rupee for the first 32 words and two annas for every additional 4 words.

27	Gya „ 10 „	Nil	Weather—clear and cold. Prospects of crops very bad. Rice crop is lost and rubbee sowings are retarded. Prices steadily rising.

29	Durbhunga, „ 10 '83	Nil	Weather—getting cold. Paddy on high land nearly destroyed. Irrigation going on where facilities exist. Paddy on low land too partially affected. Sowing of rubbee crops partly obstructed on account of drought. Rain wanted. Prospects gloomy. Fever prevalent in the south. Prices rising.
30	Mozufferpore, „ 10 „	Nil	Weather—bright and rainless. Rice and rubbee crops are suffering for want of rain. The west wind has done much mischief to the standing paddy which is now in ear. Prices of food-grains rising. Fever prevalent.

31	Sarun, „ 10 „	Nil	Weather—fair; days hot, nights cool. Except in low lands, and where irrigation is practicable, the paddy crop has been entirely destroyed and is being cut as fodder for cattle. Rubbee sowings at a stand-still. No sign of rain. Prospects extremely bad. Prices rapidly rising. Common rice now sells at 12 seers per rupee, the price prevalent at this season in the famine year of 1873-74. Public health good.

	Gopalgunge .	Nil
32	Chumparun, „ 10 „	Nil	Weather bright and rainless. A fall of rain now will not materially affect the outturn of the aghani paddy, but it is much wanted to give moisture for rubbee sowings. Prices rising. Health good.
BHAGULPORE DIVN. 33	Monghyr, Nov. 10 '83	Nil	Weather—very warm for the time of year. Occasional clouds. Prospects of rice crop becoming more hopeless in consequence of the absence of rain. It is now feared that the average outturn in the southern portion of the district (the chief rice tract) will not be more than 4 annas. A sufficient fall of rain even now, however, would alter the prospects for the better. The prospects in the Begusarai sub-division, where rubbee is chiefly grown, and where the rain fall has been greater, are better.
	Begusarai ..	Nil
	Jamui ..	Nil
34	Bhagulpore, „ 10 „	Nil	Weather—cool and clear; no rain anywhere. Rice plants on high lands withering up and being cut as fodder; those on low lands still reported to be good. Prospects of late rice on high lands very bad. Rubbee sowings retarded for want of moisture in the land. Common rice selling at 12 and 13 seers per rupee. General health good.
37	Southal Pergha, „ 10 „	Nil	Weather—rainless; clear and hot in the day. Much upland paddy will yield nothing. Low land paddy will be as much as 11 annas in many places where irrigation has been resorted to. Rubbee prospects poor. Latest accounts represent the probable outturn of the rice crop in the Rajmehal Damun as only 4 annas of that of a normal year.

39	Pooree, „ 8 „	1·14	Weather—seasonable. Prospects of sarad crop generally good. Beali being harvested. Winter crops doing well. Public health good. Common rice selling at from 22 to 42 seers per rupee
	Khoorda ..	0·85
40	Balasore, „ 9 „	Nil	Weather—cool and seasonable. Rain cannot now be expected to do good if it were to come. Bhadrak sub division has a full crop; Soroh thana about a 12-anna crop; only the Balupal thana is bad. The Collector reckons on a 10-anna crop at least for the district all round. Public health generally good, but fever shews itself in the three northern thanas.
CHOTA NAGPORE. South-West Frontier Agency.
41	Hazaribagh, Nov. 9 '83	0·38	Weather—clear and cold. Paddy prospects not improved. The late rain that fell in places has aided the rubbee sowings; but there are tracts in which heavy rain is wanted. Prices same as in last week. General health good.
42	Lohardugga „ 10 „	Nil	Weather—clear and cool. Rubbee sowings ensured by recent rain Ten annas crop of winter rice expected in Palamow; eight annas in head-quarters sub-division. Price higher in head quarters; lower in Palamow Health good.

	Lohardugga .	1·69
43	Singbhoom, „ 9 „	0·11	Weather—seasonable; becoming cold. Winter rice has suffered from want of rain. Rain is also required for rubbee crops. General health good. Cattle-pox reported from several villages.
44	Manbhoom, „ 10 „	0·03	Weather—clear and cool. From 4 to 6 annas of the upland rice crop has probably been lost; of the low land crop it is hoped that not more than from 2 to 3 annas may have failed Recent rain has done much good, but the distribution is uncertain. Public health good.

METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL SUMMARY FOR THE MONTH OF OCTOBER 1883.

OCTOBER is the month of transition from the south-west monsoon to the north-east monsoon. The Bombay branch of the south-west monsoon current decreases rapidly in strength during the early part of September, and has usually no influence on the meteorology of Northern or Central India in October. The meteorological conditions in Bengal are in one respect similar to what they are in May or June. The sea winds which blow into it during the month of October come up as in May from the Bay of Bengal only, and the rainfall is therefore due only to winds blowing over and from the Bay. In other respects the conditions at the beginning and the end of the south-west monsoon are dissimilar. In October temperature is approximately uniform over Northern India, and decreases rapidly and unequally during the month. The main effect of decreasing temperature in Northern India is to produce a considerable amount of descending air motion, northerly winds and a rising barometer. The northerly winds which blow at that time, (i.e. during the north-east monsoon) near the earth's surface do not extend further northwards than the Himalayas, and probably originate there Hence they are of feeble intensity in Northern India, and extend southwards with the establishment of the north-east monsoon. They do not displace the south-west monsoon winds after a series of violent struggles as is occasionally stated in such works as Maury's Physical Geography of the Sea, neither does their setting in at the head of the Bay, and the continuance of the south-westerly winds at the entrance to the Bay, necessarily give rise to cyclones. The change from one monsoon to the other is not a struggle, but is the gradual decay of one action, and the subsequent establishment of the other. The south-west winds become less strong and gradually die away southwards, and suggest the appearance of a southward retreat. Immediately to the north light variable airs and calms prevail, which change into steady northerly winds further north. There is thus a region of calms and light airs usually interposed, and this travels southwards as the one set of winds decreases in strength, and the opposite increases and becomes more and more fully established. Finally, north-easterly winds, prevail over the whole of the Bay, usually before the end of November, when the north-east monsoon is fully established in India. The character of the retreat of the south-west monsoon will depend mainly upon its strength. If it has been weak, the south-west monsoon rains proper will terminate earlier than usual. If the south-west monsoon has been unusually strong, it will be later in retreating than usual, and will thus continue to give general rain in Bengal for some time in October The rainfall due to the continuation of south-west monsoon winds and conditions in Bengal usually continues until the 7th or 10th of October, and occasionally as late as the 15th of October. In the present year, as anticipated in last month's meteorological summary, no general rain accompanying south-west monsoon winds fell in Bengal after the 29th of September, which is hence the proper date of their termination. General rain due to the continuation of the south-west monsoon in October will evidently on the average decrease rapidly from the 1st of the month, and will be larger in amount in the neighbourhood of the coasts than in the interior, and will depend much less upon the neighbourhood of hills than in the earlier monsoon months.

There is a second cause or action which frequently gives rise to heavy rainfall in Bengal during the month of October. The meteorological conditions present in the Bay are such as to favour the formation of cyclonic disturbances. They differ considerably in extent and intensity, but occasionally, and under exceptional circumstances, are of great extent and intensity. They frequently advance northwards, and pass across the Bengal or Orissa coasts, and give heavy rain to the districts over which they progress. If they advance westwards across the Madras coast, they usually give rise to some atmospheric disturbance over the whole of the Bay. In consequence of this, at such times skies cloud over in Bengal, and occasional rain falls. The rainfall which occurs during the passage of a cyclone in Bengal is usually more local and larger than during rain-bursts of the south-west monsoon. It is frequently locally excessive along and near the line of march of the centre of the cyclonic disturbance. It is thus irregular in occurrence and capricious in character.

The preceding remarks indicate that the rainfall in Bengal during the month of October is due to two entirely different actions—the first, the continuance of the south-west monsoon conditions and rainfall; and the other, the occasional advance across the country of cyclonic disturbances originating in, and coming up from, the Bay of Bengal. The average distribution of rainfall for the month is thus less regular than for other months during the year, and the actual distribution in any one year is frequently very irregular.

Average distribution of rainfall—The lines of equal rainfall for October are much more irregular than for the preceding months. The following statement in which a few minor peculiarities in the distribution are neglected gives a fairly approximate view. The average rainfall in Behar (with the exception of the Purneah and North Bhagulpore districts) and in Chutia Nagpur (excluding the districts immediately bordering on South-West Bengal) varies from 2½ inches to 4 inches. The amount is least in the Gya district, for which it averages 2½ inches. It varies between four and six inches for the previous excepted districts, the western districts of Orissa, and the whole of Bengal, excluding the Julpigori district and a narrow strip extending along the coast, and cut off by a curved line running through Cuttack, Jajpore, Diamond Harbour, Port Canning, Perozepore, Patuakhally, Chandpur and Chittagong. Over this narrow coast area, the width of which varies from 20 to 60 miles, the average rainfall exceeds 6 inches and is greatest at False Point where it is 11·4 inches, and Saugor Island, where it is 10 inches.

Meteorological summary of the month.—The past month has been very abnormal. It has been marked by excessive pressure, great dryness of the air, and deficient rainfall. The ordinary south-west monsoon rains terminated on the 29th of September, on which day the last general rainfall accompanying ordinary south-west winds occurred throughout the Province The early termination of the rains thus deprived Bengal of one source of supply of October rainfall. Two cyclonic disturbances, or series of cyclonic disturbances, were generated in the Bay during the month. They were formed in the south of the Bay. They lacked concentration, and hence formed shallow and extensive barometric depressions. They advanced towards the west coast of the Bay. They affected the weather in Bengal, in the manner already explained, and gave it overcast skies, with light to moderate rain for brief periods. The first was generated about the 10th of the month, and crossed the Madras coast on the 14th. A small subsidiary or secondary disturbance advanced across the Bengal coast into East Bengal on the 13th. East Bengal received moderately heavy rain during the period of disturbance; light to moderate showers fell in North and South-West Bengal, and in Orissa. Behar and Chutia Nagpur were outside this disturbance, and received no rain. The second was generated in the south of the Bay during the last week of the month. Its centre crossed the coast in the immediate neighbourhood of Madras on the 2nd of November. It gave moderate rain to Orissa, and light showers in Chutia Nagpur and the adjacent districts of South Behar and South-West Bengal. The rainfall of the month in Bengal has thus occurred solely in connection with two distant cyclonic disturbances. The second source of rainfall in October, i.e. well developed cyclonic disturbances passing from the Bay over Bengal, has thus been conspicuously absent.

Pressure, which always rises rapidly at the termination of the rains, has, in consequence of the peculiar features of the month, been excessive during the month. The average excess for the month (excluding the doubtful stations of Gya and Durbhunga) ranges from ·03″ at Dacca to ·06″ at Hazaribagh It is apparently greatest for the North Behar stations at which the deficiency of rainfall is most marked. The early termination of the rains and consequent excessive pressure were followed by abnormally steady northerly winds. This, and the absence of sea winds, gave rise to unusual dryness of the air, and to deficient cloud amount. The average humidity for the month is 11 per cent. below the normal. At Hazaribagh, where the deficiency was most marked, the average humidity of the month is 46 as compared with the normal 66. The early commencement of the north-east monsoon in Bengal has affected the mean temperature less than the other elements of meteorological observation This was due to the high day temperature accompanying clear skies, and a dry atmosphere. The night temperature, on the other hand, was below the normal. The combination of these two opposite variations was to give slightly increased mean temperature in Chutia Nagpur and South-West Bengal, and normal mean temperature over the remainder of the Province.

The rainfall was confined mainly to East Bengal and Orissa, in which divisions an average fall slightly exceeding two inches was received. In the remaining divisions the average rainfall was less than an inch, and was least in North Behar. The following comparative table gives the more important facts of temperature and rainfall for each of the seven meteorological divisions:—

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL FOR THE WEEK ENDING THE 9TH OF NOVEMBER 1883.

It was pointed out in last week's report that the chief feature of importance in the meteorology of the preceding week was the formation of an area of shallow barometric depression in the south of the Bay. It crossed the Madras coast on the 2nd of November, and gave general and moderately heavy rain to a large portion of Southern India. It gradually filled up on the 3rd and disappeared on the 4th. Pressure at the same time increased rather rapidly in Bengal, and the barometer was nearly a tenth of an inch above its normal height on the 4th. Skies, which were clouded over the Province on the 1st, gradually cleared, and were free from cloud on the 4th. Cool northerly winds were also established over the Province during this period. The air hence became rapidly drier, and temperature (more especially the night temperature) decreased steadily. During the prevalence of fine weather in Northern India, the barometer is never absolutely steady. It oscillates slowly up and down, the period of the oscillations varying from two to four or five days. On the 4th, with the establishment of fine, clear, cool weather in Bengal, the barometer began to fall slowly. This continued until the 9th, when it began to rise again. Small areas of low pressure appeared to be forming on the 9th in Burmah and in the Punjab, but these have in no way up to the present (the 12th) affected the character of the weather in Bengal. A few showers of little or no importance fell on the 2nd and 3rd in Orissa, Chutia Nagpur and the adjacent districts of South-West Bengal, due to the slight disturbance in the Province which was dependent on the greater disturbance in the south of the Bay and Southern India. With those exceptions the week has been rainless.

The preceding remarks indicate the prominent features of the meteorology of the past week. In consequence of the combination of high pressure in the early part of the week, and low pressure on the 6th and 7th, the average pressure for the week varies slightly from the normal. It is very slightly below the average for Orissa and Bengal, and above it for Behar and Chutia Nagpur. North Behar appears to be characterized by excessive pressure compared with neighbouring districts. Temperature has been below the average at all stations except Chittagong. The deficiency in the mean temperature is most marked in Chutia Nagpur and South-West Bengal, for which it averages 2°. The past, like the preceding, week has been marked by unusual dryness of the air, and the absence of rainfall over nearly the whole of the Province.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the seven divisions:—

Saturday, the 3rd November 1883.—Pressure increased generally over the whole Province during the previous 24 hours. The rise varies from ·01″ at Hazaribagh to ·09″ in North Behar. Pressure was above the average over the Province, more especially at Purneah and Calcutta, where it was ·09″ above the normal. Temperature was generally below the average. The mean temperature of the past 24 hours was 5° in defect in Chutia Nagpur and at Gya, and 3° in South-West Bengal. Light northerly winds and calms prevailed. Sky was now clear over Behar and the greater part of North Bengal, where the air was also generally drier. It was overcast or heavily clouded in South and East Bengal, and in Orissa. Light showers fell at several stations in Orissa and Chutia Nagpur, and in the Burdwan, Baukoora, Beerbhoom, and Nuddea districts of South-West Bengal.

Sunday, the 4th November 1883.—Pressure again increased at the great majority of stations. The rise was greatest in Central Behar, where it averaged ·05″. Pressure was considerably above the average. Temperature decreased with the continuance of clear skies and northerly winds. The mean temperature of the past 24 hours was ½° below the normal in Behar, and generally above it by small amounts over the remainder of the Province. Light northerly to north-easterly winds obtained throughout Bengal and at the head of the Bay. Humidity decreased considerably in Behar, where the air was very dry. Skies were free from cloud in Behar and North Bengal, and were clearing rapidly in South Bengal and Orissa. Very light showers of no importance fell at one or two stations.

Monday, the 5th November 1883.—Pressure gave way at the majority of stations during the previous 24 hours. It increased slightly at several stations in North and East Bengal It was still above the average, more especially in Behar. Temperature was decreasing, except in Orissa The mean temperature of the past 24 hours was generally below the average, the deficiency being most marked at the North Behar stations, where it averaged 3°. Light to moderate north-east monsoon winds prevailed throughout the Province. The air was much drier in South-West Bengal and Orissa, and humidity was considerably below the average throughout the Province, except in East Bengal. The sky was free from cloud. No rain fell during the past 24 hours.

Tuesday, the 6th November 1883.—Pressure continued to decrease throughout the Province. The fall of the barometer was greatest in East and North Bengal, where it averaged ·04″. Pressure was hence slightly below the normal in East Bengal, but above it elsewhere, more especially in North Behar. Temperature was diminishing Temperature was everywhere below the normal, more especially in Behar and Chutia Nagpur, where the deficiency ranged from 2° to 5°. Light winds continued throughout the Province. They were westerly in direction at the Behar stations. Northerly winds with a westerly element prevailed in Orissa and at several of the Bengal stations. Humidity was hence very low over nearly the whole of the Province. The deficiency ranged from 10 to 20 per cent. in Behar and South-West Bengal. The sky was free from cloud at all stations.

Wednesday, the 7th November 1883.—The pressure changes of the preceding 24 hours were small and irregular. Pressure increased slightly in East and North Bengal and in Orissa, and fell at the majority of stations in the remaining districts. The distribution of pressure differed very slightly from the normal, except in North Behar, where it was in excess by amounts averaging ·03″. Temperature continued to decrease steadily. This was chiefly due to diminished night temperature. The mean temperature of the past 24 hours was below the normal at all stations, except Cuttack. The deficiency averaged 2° in South-West Bengal, East Bengal, North Behar and Chutia Nagpur, and was greatest at Hazaribagh, where it was 3·3°. Light to moderate cold-weather winds prevailed. The air was unusually dry over the whole Province, more especially in South Behar. The sky was cloudless.

Thursday, the 8th November 1883.—Pressure fell over the whole Province, and was considerably below the normal over the Province. The fall during the previous 24 hours was greatest in South-West Bengal, Chutia Nagpur, and South Behar, where it averaged ·07″. In the remaining districts it averaged ·05″. Pressure was below the normal by amounts averaging ·05″. Temperature decreased slightly, excepting in East Bengal and North Behar. The difference between the mean temperature of the past 24 hours and the normal was greatest at Calcutta and Gya, for which it was 4·8°. Winds were very light, more especially in Behar and Central Bengal. They were also less steady, more especially in Behar, where local airs from varying directions prevailed. The air was slightly drier generally in consequence of the continuation of northerly winds Skies were clear.

Friday, the 9th November 1883.—Pressure had again decreased over the Province. The fall of the barometer was nowhere large, and greatest in amount in Orissa and East Bengal, where it averaged ·03″. Pressure was approximately uniform in Bengal and the Bay, and was slightly lower on the east than on the west side of the Bay. It was considerably in defect in all districts, except North Behar. The average defect for the Province was ·1″. Temperature decreased in Orissa and South West Bengal, where the mean temperature the past 24 hours was from 2½° to 4½° below the normal. Elsewhere temperature was approximately normal. Winds were everywhere light. In Behar they were irregular in direction. In South-West Bengal and Orissa north to north-west winds prevailed, and in East and North Bengal north-east winds. The air was much drier than usual, and the sky clear in all districts.

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h., 10h., 16h., and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard Newman's No 86 formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The direction of the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

GENERAL REMARKS AND EXPLANATIONS BY THE TRAFFIC SUPERINTENDENT.

The total quantity of goods carried during the month of September 1883 aggregated maunds 3,19,975, as compared with maunds 3,43,904 carried during the corresponding period of 1882 and maunds 3,61,334 carried during the previous month, showing a decrees of a maunds 23 929 in one case and increase of maunds 41,359 in the other

Of the several increases and decreases, the following are the most prominent ones and worthy of separate explanation:—

INCREASES.

Price-goods ... ... Mds. 1,555

This is due to the extension of the line to Muzuffurpore.

Salt ... ... Mds. 31,248

This is due to traders having found it worth their while to send more grain to Calcutta by rail instead of by boat in the previous three months and having no boats to send back with salt from Calcutta.

Saltpetre ... ... Mds. 7,238

This is due to a smaller quantity than usual having been despatched during the early part of this half-year and to the steady demand in the Calcutta market.

Seeds ... ... Mds. 8,337

This is owing to a smaller quantity than usual having been carried last month.

DECREASES.

Food-grains ... ... Mds. 10,728

This is due to the large business done during the past two months.

Iron ... ... Mds. 1,775

Owing to large quantities of new machinery having been carried for Indigo Factories last year.

Lime and kunker ... ... Mds. 15,941

This is due to the approaching completion of civil buildings at Durbhunga, and there being no demand for metalling roads and to lime for the Hajeepore Extension having been worked up.

Railway material ... ... Mds. 10,239

This is due to the completion of the Western and Eastern Extensions of the Railway.

Other goods ... ... Mds. 10,239

This was due to a large quantity of timber having been carried last year for a contractor for the Patna Opium Agency, and store for the civil buildings and the Maharajah's palace at Durbhunga, nothing of the kind being required this year.

Section 3.—Places of Accommodation.

Places of accommodation in recruiting districts.

17. The establishment in the several districts of recruitment of places for the temporary accommodation of emigrants, previous to their despatch to the depôts of contractors, shall be regulated generally by the rules relating to such depôts, subject to such modification as the Magistrate of the district may with reference to the temporary nature of such accommodation consider necessary.

Inspection of places of accommodation by district officers.

18. The Magistrate of every district of recruitment shall, in respect of all places for the accommodation of emigrants within such district, exercise the powers vested in the Superintendent for the supervision of depôts. All such places shall be regularly inspected by the Magistrate, and by the officers authorized in that behalf by such Magistrate under the Act.

Responsibility of persons in charge of places of accommodation.

19. The sub-contractors, or recruiters in charge of places for the accommodation of emigrants, shall be responsible for any irregularities that may be committed in connection with the management of such places; and they shall keep such registers, and submit such reports and returns to the Magistrate having jurisdiction as he may require.

Section 4.—Depôt management.

Supervision of depôts by Superintendent.

20. The Superintendent, or his assistant, shall regularly visit every depôt when accommodating emigrants, and shall see that the provisions of the Act are fully carried out in the case of all labourers and their dependents arriving at such depôt, and that the terms of their engagement to work in the labour districts are thoroughly understood by them.

Supervision of depôts by Medical Inspector.

21. The sanitary state of the depôts shall be the special care of the Medical Inspector. He shall visit the depôts regularly, and see that all necessary precautions are taken against communicable disease; that the hospital and other medical arrangements at the depôts are sufficient; that all emigrants unprotected against small-pox are properly vaccinated, and that the depôt arrangements generally for the keep and health of emigrants are satisfactory from a medical point of view. At the close of every month he shall submit a report of his inspections in the prescribed form (No. 10) to the Superintendent.

Visitors' book for inspecting officers.

22. At each depôt there shall be kept a visitors' book, in which the Superintendent and the Medical Inspector shall enter their orders or remarks, and the dates of their visits. During such visits the contractor or his agent shall, without fail, place the depôt and hospital registers before the Superintendent and the Medical Inspector respectively for inspection, and shall on no account alter or correct any entries made therein without their knowledge and sanction.

Facilities for inspection of depôts.

23. Depôt gates shall be in charge of a darwan, and shall be open from 6 A.M. to 6 P.M. Every facility shall be given by the contractor and his employés to the inspecting officers when visiting the depôt at any time.

Compliance with orders of emigration officers.

24. All orders of the Superintendent and the Medical Inspector shall be carried out by the contractors and their employés on pain of cancellation of license, or loss of appointment respectively. Should a contractor consider that any order given to him by the Superintendent or Medical Inspector is unreasonable, he shall be at liberty to appeal against such order if passed by the Superintendent and Medical Inspector at Goalundo or Kusteah, to the Superintendent of Emigration, Calcutta, or if passed by the Superintendent of Emigration, Calcutta, to the Government of Bengal. Until, however, the order shall have been reversed by a higher authority it must be carried out.

Appointment of depôt agent.

25. If the contractor does not himself live in his depôt premises, he shall appoint, subject to the approval of the Superintendent, a proper person as his agent, who shall reside there constantly, and conduct the business on the contractor's responsibility. Every such agent shall be registered in the Superintendent's office.

Infringement of rules by contractor's agent.

26. Every contractor shall be responsible for any offence against the rules committed by his agent at any place in the same manner and to the same extent as though he himself had committed such offence.

Depôt registers and returns.

27. The contractor or his agent shall keep depôt registers in the prescribed forms (Nos. 11, 14, and 21 respectively), and shall punctually and accurately make the required entries therein. Monthly returns of accommodation and of sickness in depôt shall likewise be prepared in the prescribed forms (Nos. 12 and 13 respectively), and punctually forwarded to the office of the Superintendent by the 15th of the month following that for which they become due. Any default in these respects, or in the submission of prescribed returns generally when due, shall render the agent liable to loss of his appointment, and the contractor failing to adopt promptly the necessary remedial measures to cancellation of his license.

Appointment of depôt medical officer.

28. A resident medical officer to be licensed by the Medical Inspector shall be appointed by each contractor to his depôt, and his name shall be registered in the Superintendent's office. He shall be paid by the contractor, but shall be directly responsible to the Medical Inspector, who shall give him written instructions for his guidance. He shall not be dismissed without the consent of the Medical Inspector. He shall keep a hospital register in the prescribed form (No. 14), and shall, besides his other duties, assist in making out the monthly returns of sickness and mortality.

Responsibility of contractors in caring for emigrants.

29. The contractor, either directly or through his agent, shall be responsible for the good treatment and care of the emigrants, none of whom shall be discharged from the depôt without the permission of the Superintendent. He shall, moreover, be responsible to the Medical Inspector specially for the sanitary state of the depôt, and for the feeding, clothing, and medical treatment of all the emigrants accommodated therein.

Quality of clothing according to approved sample.

30. The clothing and blankets to be supplied to emigrants shall be according to scale, and of a quality equal to samples to be approved by the Superintendent and retained in his office.

Repairs of depôt sheds.

31. The sheds, hospitals, latrines, drains, &c., shall be constantly inspected, and any defects in them shall be immediately remedied. Mud-plastered walls shall be white-washed once a month.

32. On arrival of emigrants at the depôt, they shall be inspected by the contractor or his agent, and by the resident medical officer; their names shall be entered in the depôt register, and their arrival reported in the prescribed form (No. 15) in the forenoon of the next day to the Superintendent. Any casualty occurring in depôt shall be reported in the prescribed form (No. 16).

Procedure on arrival of emigrants in depôt.

33. The contractor shall ascertain that those sections of the Act which provide for the registration, and for the proper care and treatment of emigrants previous to their entering the depôt, have been complied with, and shall immediately thereafter submit a report regarding any recruiter, or other person in charge, who may be found to have infringed the law.

Irregularities of recruiters.

34. Excepting those whose state of health may prevent it, all emigrants shall be compelled to bathe on their arrival in depôt, and shall thereafter be decently and cleanly clothed according to the scale laid down in schedule A appended to the rules. Every article of clothing belonging to emigrants that is soiled, whether new or old, shall be thoroughly washed and dried before it is issued; and cast-off ragged clothes shall be gathered up and destroyed at once.

Clean clothing for emigrants.

35. A muster-roll of the emigrants in depôt shall be called every morning; and the resident medical officer, after careful examination, shall enter the names of the sick in his diary, which shall be countersigned by the contractor or resident agent.

Daily muster-roll of emigrants.

36. Emigrants shall wash their clothes at least twice a week when possible, and shall bathe daily. A liberal supply of soap shall be provided for the purpose.

Personal cleanliness of emigrants.

37. Emigrants shall not be permitted to wash their clothes and persons in the depôt tanks, but approved appliances for ablution purposes shall be specially provided on a suitable site so drained as to prevent the waste water from returning into the tank or other sources of water-supply. The water for all purposes shall be frequently examined by the Medical Inspector, and the contractor or his agent shall be held responsible for any failure in providing good, wholesome water.

Appliances for ablution purposes.

38. Emigrants shall be compelled to dust out and air their clothes and blankets daily, and shall not be allowed to remain in damp clothes.

Airing of emigrants' clothing.

39. Regular hours shall be set apart for cooking and feeding; and no cooking shall be allowed at any other time except for invalids, nor in any place except the cooking sheds, where alone emigrants shall feed and smoke.

Cooking and feeding arrangements.

40. The rations issued daily to each labourer and dependent in depôt shall be according to the scale laid down in Schedule B; and the meals and drinking water shall invariably be examined by the resident medical officer before being served out. When necessary, food suitable for infants and invalids (fresh milk, soup, sago, &c.,) shall be freshly prepared and regularly supplied throughout the twenty-four hours. Any neglect of infants or invalids on the part of the contractor, his agent, or resident medical officer, shall render such contractor liable to cancellation of license, or such agent or medical officer to the loss of appointment.

Daily inspection of meals by depôt medical officer.

41. After meals the resident medical officer shall see that the cooking sheds are carefully swept out, that all cooking utensils are thoroughly cleaned, and that no stale food is secreted either by the cooks or emigrants.

Cleaning of cooking utensils.

42. Excepting the hospital, latrines, drains, and receptacles for kitchen and other filth, which shall be kept constantly cleaned by the sweepers, the garden, sheds, and every part of the depôt shall be kept clean and in good order by the emigrants. The emigrants if they consent to work shall be regularly employed, but without fatigue, and kept as much as possible in the open air.

Employment of emigrants.

43. The peons on duty shall be constantly about the depôt and shall preserve order and cleanliness everywhere, especially during cooking and feeding and inspections. They shall see that no jungle or rubbish is permitted to accumulate in the depôt compound; that the spaces under and around the sleeping and other sheds are kept clean; and that the sweepers do their work regularly.

Cleanliness of depôt premises.

44. No cooking, feeding, or smoking shall be permitted in the sleeping sheds, which shall be kept thoroughly clean, well ventilated, and water-tight.

Prevention of other use of sleeping sheds.

45. The emigrants shall be properly distributed at night in their sleeping sheds, according to the number each shed is licensed to accommodate, and shall be prevented from crowding together.

Prevention of overcrowding in sleeping sheds.

46. Excepting locked lanterns hung in the dispensary, hospital, and at the entrance of every sleeping shed, and a light in the durwan's room, all lights and fires shall be put out by 9 o'clock at night.

Extinguishing of lights at night.

47. Excreta from the hospital or latrines, and filth of any description, shall not be buried within at least one thousand feet of any source of drinking water; nor be thrown into stagnant pools and nullahs, which may happen to be near the depôts.

Disposal of excreta.

48. The contractor or his agent shall arrange with the Vaccination Department for the vaccination of every emigrant unprotected from small-pox as soon as possible after admission into the depôt.

Vaccination of emigrants.

Treatment of sick emigrants.

49. Sick emigrants, excepting those suffering from cholera or other dangerously communicable disease, and otherwise provided for, shall not be sent to any other than the depôt hospital; nor be removed thence, nor from the depôt, without the written permission of the Medical Inspector.

Procedure on outbreak of serious communicable disease.

50. In the event of cholera or small-pox or other dangerously communicable disease appearing in the depôt, every labourer or dependent attacked shall immediately be sent to the authorized hospital for treatment, and the relatives of the affected persons, if any, not accompanying the patient, shall at the same time be placed in the segregation shed situated in an isolated part of the depôt compound, and shall not be removed thence without the written permission of the Medical Inspector. A report of the case shall then be submitted to the Medical Inspector, and within twenty-four hours the Superintendent shall be furnished with a descriptive statement, in the prescribed form (No. 17), of every emigrant sent to the authorized hospital, together with the reason for such removal. In the event of any emigrant sent to hospital dying or being permitted to return to the depôt, the death or re-admission of such emigrant shall be similarly reported to the Superintendent in form (No. 18).

Destruction of infected clothing.

51. Clothing, blankets, and mats that have been in contact with persons suffering from dangerously communicable disease (e.g. small-pox or cholera), hospital dressings, foul rags, and all combustible filth, shall be regularly and thoroughly burnt in a safe and suitable place, and in the presence of the resident medical officer. The segregation shed, immediately it ceases to be occupied, shall be carefully cleaned out and disinfected by fumigation or other efficient means.

Disposal of property of deceased emigrants.

52. On the death of any intending emigrant, the contractor, or agent, or medical officer shall immediately make an inventory of the property of such emigrant in a register in the prescribed form (No. 21), to be kept for the purpose, and shall forward such property as early as practicable to the office of the Superintendent for disposal. The claims made by relatives in depôt, if any, shall duly be communicated to the Superintendent, who shall, after making enquiry as to the heirs, dispose of the estate as circumstances may render necessary.

Procedure on contractors failing to provide contract.

53. Emigrants who are not engaged within thirty days of their arrival at any depôt shall be returned through the Superintendent's office to the districts where registered at the expense of the contractor, except when such emigrants elect to continue in such depôt in the hope of being ultimately engaged, or desire to be transferred to the depôt of some other contractor, or prefer to be discharged from the depôt; in which last case they shall, previous to discharge, be paid such compensation as may be ordered by the Superintendent. At the close of every month the contractor or his agent shall forward to the Superintendent's office a statement in the prescribed form (No. 22) of all the emigrants remaining in depôt over thirty days without execution of contract.

Disposal of rejected emigrants.

54. All emigrants that are declared by the Medical Inspector to be unfit to emigrate, and are finally rejected by the contractor or his agent, shall be returned through the Superintendent's office to the districts of registration at the expense of the contractor, unless they of their own accord insist on being discharged on the spot, when they shall be treated, save in respect of compensation in the same manner as emigrants for whom contractors fail to find employment.

Medical examination of rejected emigrants.

55. All rejected emigrants shall be examined by the Medical Inspector on the day that they are to be returned to their districts; and only those that are certified by him to be able to travel shall be forwarded to the Superintendent's office for disposal, while the rest shall be detained in depot under treatment until the Medical Inspector certifies to their being in a fit state to undertake the journey.

Application for execution of labour contracts.

56. When the employer or his agent has selected in any depôt the labourers required by him, a written application for the placing of such labourers on contract shall be sent by the contractor concerned or his agent to the Superintendent of Emigration at least one day before the date fixed upon for execution of contract.

Arrangements for examination of labourers.

57. Labourers intending to execute contracts, when placed before the Superintendent, shall have their copies of registration in their hands; and their blankets, clothing, and utensils, according to the scale prescribed in Schedule A, arranged beside them for inspection.

Knowledge and acceptance of terms by labourers.

58. The Superintendent, when placing labourers on contract, shall invariably satisfy himself that the employer or his agent has affixed his signature to all the contract papers, and that the labourers thoroughly understand and accept the terms and conditions of the contract they are executing. An abstract of every such contract shall be entered in a register to be kept by the Superintendent in the prescribed form (No. 19).

Medical inspection of contract labourers.

59. Labourers who have executed contracts shall be inspected by the Medical Inspector before despatch from the depôt with reference to their fitness to travel; and to that end a written application for such final inspection shall be forwarded by the contractor concerned or his agent to the Medical Inspector at least one day previous to the date of the intended despatch of such labourers to the districts for which engaged.

Section 2.—Fittings of Steamers and Flats.

Engineers and shipwright surveyors' certificates.

Situation of fittings of emigrant vessels.

84. All fittings shall be provided entirely on board that vessel which is to convey the emigrants to their destination; but, if necessary, and with the Medical Inspector's consent, the hospital may be provided on an upper deck of the adjoining flat or steamer, if it accompany for the entire journey.

Roofs of emigrant vessels.

85. The roof of every vessel shall be strong, watertight, and not less than five feet in height at its junction with the stanchions on either side. If of corrugated iron, the roof must not only be lined or thatched with matting, &c., as a protection against heat, but, on steamers, must also be fitted either with skylights or ridge-ventilators, which shall have a ventilating area of not less than ten superficial feet to every hundred emigrants, computed as in section 92 of the Act, accommodated on board, and shall be so constructed as to exclude rain and allow the free escape of heated air. In steamers of the daily mail service, the ventilating area may be reduced to not less than six superficial feet to every hundred emigrants.

Enclosure of deck space for emigrants.

86. The space measured off for emigrants shall be fitted along the sides of the vessel, with a boarding three feet high, rising from the planksheer of the vessel, and with thick and sound canvas curtains hanging from roof to deck, with ventilating space under the eaves, and fastening closely to the deck below. But from the months of October to March, both inclusive, the three feet boarding shall completely enclose the emigrants' deck space, and, besides the side curtains, there shall be similar curtains hung, one at each end of the deck, so as to convert the entire space allotted to emigrants into a thoroughly sheltered compartment, with ventilating spaces near the roof for the exit of heated and unwholesome air. This large compartment shall, moreover, be subdivided into three smaller compartments by a couple of intermediate curtains stretched right across the deck space, from one side of the vessel to the other; but these two curtains, instead of extending almost up to the roof, as those at the sides and ends must do, shall be raised to a height of six feet only, measuring from the deck upwards, the space above being left clear and open for the purposes of free ventilation. In steamers of the daily mail service, the height of the boarding may be reduced to not less than two feet nine inches, and such boarding may not be continued round the stern of the vessel; but a suitable removable curtain following the iron rail may be substituted therefore.

Protection of emigrants' deck space against wet.

87. The space for emigrants shall be protected also against spray from the paddle-wheels; otherwise the space opposite the paddleboxes on both sides of steamer, and on one side of a flat, if it is to be lashed alongside during the voyage, shall not be measured for the accommodation of emigrant passengers.

Casing of funnel.

88. In order to prevent the heat of the funnel from raising the temperature of the emigrants' deck, in all steamers, in which the space immediately over the engines is neither excluded and railed off, nor ventilated above by skylights or other means, that portion of the funnel between such passengers' deck and the roof shall be enclosed, at a distance of at least eighteen inches all round, by a strong wooden air-shaft or casing, which shall be carried through the deck at the lower end, and through the roof at the upper, so as to afford free exit above the roof for the body of warm air immediately surrounding the funnel. In steamers of the daily mail service, such wooden casing may be dispensed with, if the iron casing provided for exit of warm air is found to be sufficiently protective, but not otherwise.

Situation of hospital.

89. The space intended for hospital purposes shall be provided on the upper deck of the steamer or flat, and a canvas screen shall divide it off from the rest of the deck space.

Compartment for dispensary.

90. A suitable compartment, approved by the Medical Inspector, shall be set apart for a dispensary; and bamboos shall be fastened, fore and aft, along the central stanchions within the emigrants' deck space, in order to enable the emigrants to hang up their bundles and blankets for the day.

Railing in of unprotected openings.

91. All dangerously exposed places near hatches, ladders, bathing places, latrines, communication and landing stages, shall be securely railed in against accidents.

Embarkation and landing stages.

92. Embarkation, landing, and all communicating stages likely to be used by emigrants, shall be at least three feet wide, well fastened, and provided with hand-rails—a requirement that shall be strictly complied with whenever emigrants are to be embarked or landed. In steamers of the daily mail service, the width of the stages may not be less than two feet.

Cabooses for emigrants.

93. One or two fire-proof cabooses, fitted inside with brick and plaster, and sufficiently large to accommodate the full number of boilers, according to scale, shall be firmly secured in the after part of the vessel, and so placed as to prevent any risk of contamination from the hospital.

Iron tanks for drinking water.

94. Four iron water-tanks, each capable of containing four hundred gallons of water, shall be provided on board, and each such tank shall be fitted with at least three moderate-sized taps, of simple construction, capable of being secured against use when desirable, and with a padlocked iron cover, besides a canvas over-all to exclude dust, &c. A ship's force-pump, with hose complete shall also be provided for the exclusive purpose of supplying water to the tanks, and shall on no ground whatever, excepting an outbreak of fire on board, be otherwise used. These tanks shall be conveniently placed, and filled before the arrival of the steamer at the place of embarkation, with the best water available, for the exclusive use of the emigrants. The water of two of the tanks only shall be in use at the same time, the remaining two tanks being reserved as settling tanks. In steamers of the daily mail service, the tanks may be reduced to two, each capable of containing 200 gallons of water, and may be placed below, with a pump arrangement on deck, for the supply of water for drinking and looking purposes through three moderate-sized taps.

Troughs for washing purposes.

95. Every vessel licensed to carry emigrants shall be provided with a covered trough, fitted with at least six large and simple taps, placed at such distances apart as to admit of six persons abreast washing their clothes at the same time, and connected with a fixed pump for the constant supply of water therein. Two such troughs shall be provided when the number of emigrants to be carried exceeds three hundred, computed with reference to section 92 of the Act.

Arrangements for bathing of emigrants.

96. A sufficiently large and well protected space for bathing shall be set apart for the use of the emigrants, and shall be fitted with a suitable showerbath of simple construction, and capable of distributing the shower over a large area, with a moveable canvas screen, to be invariably used when women are bathing, and with a suitable pump for supplying water thereto, which may be utilized also for filling the trough.

Latrines for emigrants.

97. Latrines with doors in front shall be securely fitted as far aft as possible, and at some distance from the deck space for emigrants from their drinking water, and from the cooking places, &c., and in every compartment a metal vessel, secured by a chain, shall be provided for drawing river water for washing purposes. The inside of every compartment, as well as the metal vessel and chain, shall be painted with coal-tar—a process that shall be repeated at the close of every trip after the compartment has been thoroughly cleaned. In steamers of the daily mail service, three latrines may be provided in one of the sponson-deck houses, to be set apart exclusively for the purpose.

Size and number of latrines.

98. There shall be two separate sets of latrines for males and females respectively placed, if possible, on opposite sides of the deck, and each set shall consist of at least four compartments for the use of any number up to two hundred emigrants, and of one additional compartment for every hundred in excess of the first two hundred, reference in counting numbers being had to section 92 of the Act. In steamers of the daily mail service, the deck-house set apart for the latrines shall have at least three compartments for males and three compartments for females.

Lanterns.

99. Lanterns shall be hung up in their places ready for use.

Boats and life-buoys.

100. Two life-buoys shall hang over or near the stern of every vessel, and the boats shall be in good working order, and fitted with requisites for immediate use, when necessary. In steamers of the daily mail service, the number of buckets may be reduced to ten.

Provision of fire-engine and appliances.

101. All emigrant passenger vessels shall have on board a fire-engine, with a sufficiently long flexible hose, that would be capable of discharging water over every part of the vessel; fire-buckets, and all other appliances needful in case of fire. The fire-buckets shall be twenty in number, and they, as well as all other fittings, shall always be kept in a proper place, in good order, and be ready for use on the shortest notice.

Provision by master against carrying labourers.

(a) Stores, medicines, medical comforts, and cooking utensils in accordance with the requirements of Schedules B, C, and D.

(b) A medical officer licensed by the Medical Inspector or other officer so empowered.

(c) The establishment of attendants as prescribed in Schedule E.

114. On arrival at Goalundo, the master desiring a license shall make a written application to the Embarkation Agent, or other officer duly empowered by the local Government, and shall in such application state the following particulars:—

Master's application for license.

(a) Whether the terms for which the shipwrights and engineer surveyor's certificates were granted have expired, or will expire during the passage.

(b) Whether any accident to the vessel for which license is desired, or epidemic among the passengers, occurred during the previous trip.

(c) Whether the permanent fittings prescribed by the rules governing transport have been provided, and the requisite certificate of their approval obtained from the officer so authorized.

(d) Whether it is intended to carry labourers, and if so, whether the medical officer, the establishment of attendants, and the stores as prescribed in the rules and schedules have been provided.

(e) Whether the deck space intended for the accommodation of native passengers has been cleared of cargo; and the stores for labourers, if any, conveniently arranged for survey.

He shall at the same time be prepared for survey by clearing the whole or such portion of the deck space as may be intended for the accommodation of emigrant passengers; and, if labourers are to be carried, by having the prescribed provisions and other stores arranged conveniently for examination.

115. The Embarkation Agent or other officer as aforesaid, on receipt of the application for license, shall, in consultation with the Medical Inspector, hold the survey of the vessel's fittings and available space; and, if labourers are to be carried, of the requisite stores, at which both master and medical officer are to be present. The certificate of approval granted under Rule 80 shall be produced by the master at such survey; and the Embarkation Agent or other officer as aforesaid shall accept the permanent fittings as therein described, on satisfying himself that they have not since been altered or damaged. He shall also, in the event of the entire deck space being reserved for emigrant passengers, accept and enter in the prescribed form of license (form No. 30 or 31), which he may in his discretion grant to the master, the number such space is stated in the certificate to be capable of accommodating; but if only a part of such space be reserved, he shall, after ascertaining the number that may be accommodated therein, specify in the license such number only.

Survey of vessel's fittings and stores.

116. A special examination shall invariably be made by the Medical Inspector of any vessel in which much sickness has occurred on the voyage immediately preceding; and the license applied for by the master shall not be granted unless the master carries out such measures of cleaning, disinfecting, deck-caulking, &c., as the Medical Inspector may think necessary. If a vessel is found to be recurringly unhealthy for emigrants after material alterations and improvements have been made in her accommodation, a license shall be refused her.

Special examination of unhealthy vessels.

Grant of licenses on approval of arrangements.

117. After everything has been examined and approved, the master and the medical officer shall sign the prescribed provision and medical store lists and final landing statements (forms Nos. 32, 33, and 34 respectively), and when the Embarkation Agent is satisfied that all is correct, and that the master of the steamer has a copy of the Act and Rules, he shall license the vessel.

Location of all passengers on the same deck.

118. Free emigrants and passengers other than labourers may be accommodated on board the same vessel with labourers, and on the same deck, provided that the total number under conveyance does not exceed the maximum number specified in the license: but such passengers shall on no consideration be permitted to locate themselves within the spaces specially allotted for the use of emigrant passengers proceeding under the Act.

Exclusion of animals from the emigrants' deck.

119. Horses, pigs, and other animals shall not be allowed on the same deck with the emigrants. Vicious animals shall not be allowed on the same vessel with the emigrants.

Freedom of emigrants' deck from cargo.

120. Masters shall see that the deck space for emigrants is kept clear of cargo, &c., so long as emigrants are under conveyance, and that ladders, stages, &c., are safely secured and railed with a double railing.

Joint responsibilities of master and medical officer.

121. The master of an emigrant vessel and the medical officer in charge, whose professional training and capacity must be equal to that of an apothecary or Assistant Surgeon, shall conjointly be responsible for the care and good treatment of the emigrants during the passage. The medical officer shall strictly carry out the special instructions contained in the form (No. 35) delivered to him by the Embarkation Agent for his guidance.

Assistance of master to medical officer.

122. The medical officer shall insist upon the establishment specially entertained for attendance on the emigrants discharging their duties punctually and properly; and the master shall render all the assistance in his power to the medical officer, in order that he may maintain discipline on board, and conform strictly with all the requirements of the rules regulating transport.

Duties of establishment for emigrants.

123. Peons, garden-sardars, or other persons in charge of emigrants, shall obey the instructions of the master and the medical officer, and shall immediately report to them any neglect of duty or occurrence of disease, or accidents or disagreements affecting the emigrants. The master and the medical officer shall thoroughly investigate the matter under report as soon as possible thereafter.

Appointment of watchers for hospital.

124. Peons and sardars shall have their day and night duties fairly divided and clearly defined. When there are sick emigrants in hospital, peons, sardars, and topasses shall be deputed to hospital duty, so that the sick may constantly be cared for; and the attendants on duty shall be regularly relieved by others in rotation. Careful night-nursing of the sick by the attendants shall be strictly insisted on, and looked to by the medical officer.

Destruction of objectionable articles found with emigrants.

125. As soon after the embarkation as possible, the emigrants shall be comfortably berthed, and their bundles searched for any indigestible food, grain, or old rags they may have contrived to take with them, all of which shall be thrown overboard. This precaution shall receive repeated attention throughout the passage.

Protection of emigrants against interference by crew.

126. The emigrants' deck space shall not be encroached upon in any way by either crew or passengers other than emigrants, nor shall they be permitted to interfere with the emigrants. The topasses shall sweep the decks morning and evening and after every meal, and shall keep them always clean and dry.

Cleaning of emigrants' deck.

127. The decks shall be cleaned by the emigrants daily; but shall be washed only when weather, time, and other circumstances permit, the emigrants being landed or accommodated on another deck till their deck is thoroughly dry.

Disinfection of latrines.

128. The latrines shall be constantly cleaned and disinfected, and occasionally fumigated. Attention shall also be paid to the cleanliness and disinfection of the bed-pans when in use.

Promotion of ventilation of emigrants' deck.

129. Whenever the weather permits, the side curtains shall be raised to admit of free perflation of air, and under all circumstances thorough ventilation shall be promoted by every available means.

Disposal of emigrants' blankets.

130. The emigrants on rising in the morning shall, after well shaking them, fold and sling their blankets out of the way.

Daily mustering of emigrants.

131. The emigrants shall be mustered every morning, and examined by the medical officer. Those who are well shall, weather permitting, bathe daily, and wash their clothes at least twice a week.

Airing of emigrants' clothing.

132. Emigrants' clothes, mats, and blankets shall be aired and put in the sun as often as possible, especially after damp weather.

133. Rations shall be issued daily by the medical officer according to the scale prescribed in schedule B, and sufficiently early to admit of the food being prepared for distribution punctually at 9 o'clock in the forenoon and 4 o'clock in the afternoon; and all such issues, as well as those of medical comforts, shall immediately thereafter be entered by such officer in the prescribed provision and other lists, and certified by him and the master concerned. Boiling rice in bad water shall not be permitted; and when the food is ready, the medical officer shall invariably satisfy himself as to its being properly cooked, and shall see that it is fairly distributed. Stale food shall not be kept by either cooks or emigrants; and all utensils shall be cleaned out and shewn to the medical officer after each meal. Motherless infants and invalids shall have suitable and freshly prepared food (milk, soup, sago, &c.) ordered for them every three or four hours.

Attention to emigrants' food by medical officer.

134. In the event of any pilfering of stores being detected, immediate enquiry shall be made by the medical officer and master, and the offender prosecuted at the first convenient station arrived at thereafter.

Prosecution for theft of stores.

135. A constant supply of good drinking water shall be kept up in the tanks. These shall be used alternately, the water in each being allowed to settle after the addition of alum in the proportion of six grains to the gallon; and every effort shall be made to prevent emigrants from drinking the river water fresh drawn from the side of the vessel. The water shall be pumped directly into the tanks from the river in mid-stream, and clear from all possible risk of pollution from the latrine, &c.

Drinking water for emigrants.

136. Emigrants on board steamers and flats shall not be allowed to draw water from the river over the sides of the vessels, and thereby to incur the risk of accidents.

Protection against emigrants drawing river water.

137. The master of every steamer towing a flat and the medical officer in charge shall strictly prohibit all emigrants or other native passengers from crossing over from one vessel to another; and, with this object in view, shall not permit communicating stages between the vessels to be placed where they favour ready intercourse. Any communicating stages that may be absolutely necessary for the use of the officers and crew shall be constantly watched, in order to prevent accidents and the spread of disease.

Prevention of passengers from crossing over to another vessel.

138. The emigrant passengers as a rule shall not be required to labour during the passage, but in exceptional cases of urgent necessity only such of them as are considered by the medical officer to be well fitted for work may be employed, provided that such work is free from extraordinary risk to life, and that the master supplies those so employed with extra rations at the rate of two and a half chittacks of rice and half a chittack of dâll for each man per diem. The emigrants should always be encouraged to occupy their time with reasonable amusements.

Engagement of labourers in work.

139. They shall be properly arranged at night, and prevented from crowding together: and padlocked lanterns shall burn all night in the dispensary, and near latrines and gangways.

Distribution of emigrants at night.

140. The master of every licensed vessel, on arrival at every place where a Magistrate is stationed, shall report to such Magistrate the number of passengers and crew on board, the general state of their health, and the number of deaths that occurred on the passage; and omission to do so shall entail prosecution or refusal of license to carry emigrants thereafter.

Intimation of vessel's arrival at each station to Magistrate.

141. The master or the medical officer shall place the way-bill (form No. 38) of the vessel received from any Emigration Agent before the inspecting officers at each station, in order that they may enter their remarks on the several points indicated in such way-bill.

Remarks in vessel's way-bill by inspecting officers.

142. The master and the medical officer shall furnish to inspecting officers all necessary information, and shall afford them every facility for the satisfactory discharge of their duties under the provisions of the Act and rules.

Facilities for inspection of vessels.

143. After the last official inspection at the place of final debarkation, the master or medical officer shall forward the vessel's way-bill, in original, together with the medical diary, cholera register, and issue lists of provisions and medical comforts relating to the emigrants embarked at Goalundo to the Emigration Agent at that place for his remarks, and for transmission to the Superintendent of Emigration, Calcutta, for submission of the way-bill with his remarks to the local Government.

Disposal of vessel's way-bill after last inspection.

144. Emigrants shall not be permitted by the master to land finally at any place excepting that named in the vessel's way-bill as their destination, save under circumstances of necessity provided for in the Act and rules.

Landing of emigrants as per vessel's way-bill.

145. The master of a licensed vessel at the close of every trip shall forward to the Emigration Agent at Dhubri for information and transmission to the Superintendent of Emigration at Calcutta a mortality return in the prescribed form (No. 39) shewing the deaths that occurred during the trip among the crew and passengers other than emigrants under the Act.

Section 5. Medical Officers.

Keeping of medical diary and ordinary journal by medical officer.

146. Every medical officer proceeding in charge of emigrants shall keep a medical diary in the prescribed form (No. 37), as well as a journal of the principal events of the passage, and shall write them up daily and carefully. He shall, moreover, on arrival at every inspection station place the above documents before the inspecting officers for their initials against the latest entry. Every death shall be reported immediately to the master of the steamer, who, if there be no relatives on board entitled thereto, shall take over charge of any property or money left by the deceased, and shall deliver the same to the Magistrate at the next station, or at the last place of debarkation for disposal.

Liability of medical officers to dismissal.

147. Every medical officer proceeding in charge of emigrants shall, in case of misconduct or neglect of his duties, or of the requirements of the rules regulating transport, be liable to dismissal on the requisition of any Medical Inspector or other officer so empowered.

Regulation of change of diet by medical officer.

148. All extra food and any change in diet shall be regulated by the medical officer only on his own responsibility.

Utilization of deck of flat in case of epidemic.

149. In the event of an epidemic of dangerously communicable disease occurring on the passage, the master, if required by the medical officer, shall give up the upper deck of an available flat for the better distribution of the emigrant passengers.

Treatment of sick emigrants.

150. Emigrants suffering from slight illness may be attended in their berths; but all serious cases shall be treated in hospital. Patients attacked by cholera or small-pox, or other dangerously communicable disease, with all that belongs to them, shall be instantly and thoroughly isolated from the healthy; and the family or batch in which such disease occurred shall be kept on another deck, or as far apart as possible from the rest of the emigrants without exciting alarm.

Measures of disinfection of deck.

151. Places originally occupied by emigrants removed on account of communicable disease shall be instantly cleaned, and the deck shall be thoroughly scraped and scrubbed with hot sand and disinfecting powder, and, if circumstances admit, fumigation with burning sulphur shall also be carried out.

Measures for prevention of an epidemic.

152. Besides the immediate isolation and treatment of the first case of dangerously communicable disease, every precaution shall be taken to prevent an epidemic, strict attention being paid to premonitory symptoms, general and personal cleanliness, careful disinfection and disposal of excreta, disinfection and destruction of infected articles, free ventilation, and care of the healthy. On the occurrence of cholera a register of the cases shall be kept in the prescribed form (No. 36).

Destruction of infected clothing.

153. All clothes, blankets, mats, &c., that have been in any way in contact with those suffering from serious communicable disease, or have been soiled, or are suspected of infection or impurity, shall be burnt on shore in the presence of the medical officer, who should take special care to have them burnt invariably to leeward; or thrown overboard, whenever burning is impracticable.

Section 6—Country boats.

Appointment of head manjee.

154. When emigrants are to be conveyed to any labour district in boats, an intelligent head manjee shall be selected by common consent of the others and appointed by the Embarkation Agent to exercise general control over them in keeping the boats together, preserving order, and assisting the medical officer or other persons in charge during the passage. The appointment of a head manjee, however, shall not lessen the responsibility of each individual manjee. Under the law each one shall be personally liable for every offence or neglect of duty.

Appointment of medical officer when emigrants exceed fifty souls.

155. If the number under conveyance in a fleet of boats exceeds fifty emigrants the despatchers of such emigrants shall conjointly provide a medical officer—duly licensed by the Medical Inspector or other officer so empowered—to take charge of the boats, and to supply the medicines that may be required for the treatment of the sick during the passage.

Observance of rules for steamers when applicable to boats.

156. A medical officer or other person proceeding in charge of emigrants in boats shall be guided by the rules relating to steamers, so far as they are applicable to boats.

Samples of emigrants' stores for examination.

157. In the case of boat despatches, the contractor or his agent shall place samples of the stores intended for the emigrants before the Embarkation Agent in time to admit of his examining and approving of them prior to holding the final survey of stores on board.

Grant of license after approval of arrangements.

158. After everything required under the Act and Rules has been approved, the manjee and the medical officer or other person in charge shall sign the provision lists; and when the Embarkation Agent is satisfied that every requirement has been met, and that the head manjee in charge of the flotilla has a copy of the Act and Rules, he shall license the boats.

Description of boats for emigrants.

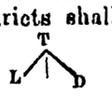
159. Boats for the conveyance of emigrants shall be of uniformly moderate size, and strong and water-tight, and shall be provided with side windows having moveable jhamps. The machan or plank decks, masts, sails, oars, rudders, and all other requisites for the efficient management of boats shall be in thoroughly serviceable order; and all bamboo machan decks shall be matted.

Increase of roof for additional accommodation not ordinarily allowable.

160. No temporary addition to the size of the roof shall be allowed as a plea for carrying more persons than the boat was originally intended to accommodate, unless there be ample space, and the additional accommodation is in every respect satisfactory.

Hospital boat.

161. A moderate-sized boat shall be selected for a hospital; but if it be insufficient to provide the prescribed hospital space, two or more similar sized boats according to requirement shall be selected in preference to a large one for facility of movement. They shall be particularly well ventilated, fitted with plank decks, and subject to the same general conditions as the rest of the boats. Emigrants' stores of whatever kind shall on no account be placed in any hospital boat, which shall be distinguished from the passenger boats by a red flag prominently placed.



Medical officer's boat.

162. A small and swift boat shall be provided for the medical officer in charge and medical stores. The medical officer shall always be near the hospital boat, and a call for him from any passenger boat shall be signalled by the waving of a white cloth. The Embarkation Agent shall see that simple means of rapid communication are understood by all before they start.

Boats for emigrants' stores.

163. The strongest and driest boats, lined with dunnage, shall be selected for the conveyance of the stores for emigrants, and the manjees of the boats shall be held responsible for the proper care of such stores.

Marking of boats passed for emigrants.

164. All boats approved for the transport of emigrants to the labour districts shall be marked and numbered (stencilled in paint) thus:—

on the bow, stern, or other prominent part, and the mark and number shall invariably be entered in each boat's license.

Lanterns.

165. Each boat shall be provided with a strong and serviceable lantern.

Report of accidents to boats to nearest Magistrate.

166. In the event of any of the boats being disabled by accident, the medical officer or other person in charge shall report such accident, or any other untoward circumstance, to the Magistrate at the nearest civil station, so that remedial measures may be taken and assistance rendered as soon as possible.

Control of boats by medical officer.

167. The medical officer shall endeavour to keep the boats forming the flotilla together, and shall keep the hospital boat following the fleet. He shall take care that the boats are not changed, and that the hospital boat is used only for the purpose intended.

Measures on outbreak of dangerously communicable disease.

168. In the event of seriously communicable disease occurring on the passage, the sick shall be removed to the hospital boat and the healthy shall be landed and made to bathe and wash their clothes, while the boat including its bilge is being thoroughly cleaned and disinfected. The emigrants shall not be allowed to re-enter their boat till everything is clean and dry about them.

General supervision by medical officer.

169. Besides constant attention to the sick, the medical officer shall see that the boats and their bilges are kept clean; that the emigrants are generally clean and well cared for; that foul or infected villages or places are avoided, and that at night the boats are not fastened to any defiled or unwholesome bank.

Disposal of surplus stores.

170. But this shall be done only after such stores have been examined by the inspecting officers, and checked by means of the provision issue statement filled in by the medical officer or other person in charge on the passage, and certificates to this effect shall be signed by the medical officer or other person in charge and the Debarkation Officer. The medical officer or other person in charge shall not take part in the sale of surplus stores, nor have any interest whatever in the proceeds of such sales, or in the transmission of such proceeds to the contractors concerned. Any infringement of this rule by the medical officer or other person in charge shall render him liable to dismissal and non-employment thereafter.

EDUCATIONAL NOTICES.

The 20th November 1883.—The following correspondence and regulations for the Matriculation Examination of the University of London are published for general information.

A. P. MACDONNELL,
Offg. Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal.

No. 105P., dated India Office, London, the 20th September 1883.

From—Her Majesty's Secretary of State for India,
To—His Excellency the Most Hon'ble the Governor-General of India in Council.

I FORWARD herewith a packet of Regulations for the Matriculation Examination of the University of London, transmitted to this office by the Clerk to the Senate of the University, in order that candidates for the Gilchrist Indian Scholarship in the divisions of the Bengal Presidency may be informed of the requirements of that examination.

2. I take this opportunity of forwarding a copy of a letter received from the Secretary to the Trustees of the Gilchrist Educational Trust, in which it is stated that, owing to the very limited competition among natives of India for the Gilchrist Scholarships provided for their benefit, the Trustees have decided to admit candidates from Ceylon to compete with those of India for the single scholarship of £150 per annum to be henceforth annually awarded.

Dated 21st August 1883.

No. 4, dated Broad Sanctuary, London, the 21st August 1883.

From—W. B. CARPENTER, Esq., Secretary to the Trustees of the Gilchrist Educational Trust,
To—Her Majesty's Secretary of State for India.

GILCHRIST EDUCATIONAL TRUST.

Trustees:

CHARLES HOLLAND, ESQ., M.D., F.R.S. | ROBERT VERITY, ESQ., M.D.
SIR JOHN BOWRING, LL.D., F.R.S. | WILLIAM BURNLEY HUME, ESQ.
GEORGE GROTE, ESQ., D.C.L., F.R.S.

Secretary:

W. B. CARPENTER, ESQ., M.D., F.R.S.

Standing Counsel:

F. H. BOWRING, ESQ.

Solicitors:

MESSRS. F. J. AND G. J. BRAIKENRIDGE.

I HAVE the honour of informing you that in consequence of the very limited competition among natives of India for the Gilchrist Scholarships provided for their benefit (only a single candidate having appeared at the last examination, although there were then two scholarships each of £100 per annum), the Trustees have decided to admit candidates from Ceylon to compete with those of India for the single scholarship of £150 per annum to be henceforth annually awarded in accordance with my previous communication to you.

In making the increase to the annual stipend of the single scholar, the Trustees desire to place him beyond the necessity of supplementing their allowance from private resources. They have no doubt that, with due economy, the sum of £150 per annum will suffice to meet the necessary expenses of their scholar's maintenance and education during his residence in this country.

RESOLUTION ON THE REPORT ON THE CENSUS OF BENGAL TAKEN ON THE 17TH FEBRUARY 1881.

FINANCIAL DEPARTMENT—STATISTICS.

Darjeeling, the 17th November 1883.

RESOLUTION.

READ—

The Report on the Census of Bengal taken on the 17th February 1881, by J. A. Bourdillon, C.S.

Read also—

The Report on the Census of the Town and Suburbs of Calcutta, by H. Beverley, C.S.

The second complete census of the Province of Bengal was taken on the night of the 17th February 1881, rather more than nine years after the first census of 1872. The Report, which is now submitted by Mr. Bourdillon, gives an account of every stage of the operations, from the appointment of the Census Committee of July 1877 to the conclusion of the actual enumeration and the compilation of the returns. It contains in the form of 31 elaborate tabular statements the whole of the immense mass of statistical information that has been collected, together with careful and closely-reasoned dissertations on every point of interest which they disclose. As a contribution to the statist history of this Province, it cannot fail to be of the highest value. It posse marked literary excellence; while the wealth of information which it pres on every branch of the subject testifies to the high administrative ability, to the industry and acumen of its author.

2. The second and third volumes of the Report respectively contain twenty-one tables prescribed by the Supreme Government for use through the whole of India, and ten other subsidiary statements, of which some w prescribed for Bengal by the Census Commissioner, and some were prescribed the Local Government. Volume I is divided into two parts. The first conta an account of the machinery by which the census was taken. The second is report properly so-called, and contains the observations and deductions wh Mr. Bourdillon proposes to make from a study of the statistical tables, a from a comparison of them with the census returns of other countries, and w those of the previous census of Bengal. To this part is attached an appen containing copies of the more important circulars, forms, and instructic issued in connection with the census, details of expenditure, certain subsidia tables, and other miscellaneous papers. Part I of the Report, which deals w the enumeration, compilation, and expenditure on account of the cens might perhaps have been dealt with in somewhat greater detail; b Mr. Bourdillon was doubtless apprehensive lest his report, already sufficient voluminous, should be swollen to undue dimensions by the inclusion matter not absolutely necessary, and the Lieutenant-Governor is not prepar to say that he has not exercised a wise discretion in confining the subjecti portion of the report within the smallest possible compass.

3. The general lines on which the Census of Bengal was taken were la down in this Government Circular No. 4, dated 6th February 1880. T duty of superintending the operations in each district was entrusted to t district officer. Each thanna was divided into a convenient number of circl varying in size according to local circumstances. Each circle was similarl sub-divided into ten or more blocks. The officer in charge of each circl known as the circle supervisor, was provided with a tracing of the distri map supplied by the Boundary Commissioner, and a list of the survey villag within his circle. He then went carefully over the area under his charg checking and comparing his list of villages upon the ground, entering a new villages and hamlets which he found, including those cases where group of houses surveyed as part of an existing village had since grown to b separate villages or tolahs with distinct names of their own, referring all suc new villages and all distinct groups of houses to the survey mouzahs withi which they were situated, noting where old villages had disappeared, an where changes of names had occurred, and generally taking care to produce complete record of the state of things then existing. This being done, tw registers were prepared for every thanna—one, Register A, giving the survey villages according to the Boundary Commissioner's list, and the other, Regitse B, giving the villages actually inhabited at the time according to the corrected records of the circle supervisors. The Deputy Superintendent speaks in the highest terms of the value of the comparison thus instituted. The Boundary Commissioner's lists are based on fiscal considerations, and deal with the units of the Land Revenue administration. They are not, and are not intended to be, a record of inhabited villages at the present time. They were found to differ widely from existing facts, and Mr. Bourdillon shows that the endeavours made to reconcile the discrepancies, and the minute enquiries to which they gave rise, were the means of bringing to light numbers of hamlets, small villages, and isolated groups of houses which might otherwise have escaped enumeration. Register B contains a complete record of the inhabited villages in existence in February 1881. At the next census this register, which has been carefully preserved, will be adopted, like the Boundary Commissioner's lists on the present occasion, as the standard to which the state of things then existing should be referred; and by this means the operations of 1891 will, it is hoped, be carried out with less difficulty and still greater accuracy than those of 1881.

4. The village lists having been prepared, and carefully checked according to existing circumstances, enumerators were appointed to each block. In November 1880 the census schedules, 10 millions in number, the form of which had been settled by the Government of India, were distributed. Each enumerator was then required to prepare a register showing each individual house comprised within his block, and to affix to each house a serial number. In the beginning of January 1881 a preliminary enumeration of the people was made, and the census schedules were filled in with the required particulars for all permanent residents of each block. During the interval that elapsed between the completion of this preliminary enumeration and the 17th February, the entries in the schedules were carefully checked by the supervising officers, and all possible errors were eliminated. Finally, on the night of the 17th February, each enumerator visited every house in his block, compared the state of things then found with the entries made at the preliminary enumeration, and made the necessary erasures, additions, or alterations as the circumstances required. In a few localities—the Sonthal Pergunnahs, the Chittagong Hill Tracts, and parts of Chota Nagpore, Julpigoree, and Darjeeling—it was impossible, for special reasons, to make the final check at night, and in these places it was made on the following morning. Special arrangements were also made for the enumeration of boats, both on inland waters and along the coasts; for the counting of the population on railways, both resident and travelling; for the census of persons in camp, collected at fairs, travelling by roads, or without a home; for the enumeration of cantonments; for jails, hospitals, and other public institutions; and for the census of the Sunderbuns. Special arrangements were also made for the census of the Town and Suburbs of Calcutta, which were placed under the charge of Mr. H. Beverley as Special Census Officer. Mr. Beverley, whose experience in the Bengal Census of 1872, and the Calcutta Census of 1876, rendered his services of exceptional value, has submitted a separate report dealing with the special features presented by the population of the metropolis. This report was noticed in the Resolution on the Administration of the Calcutta Municipality during 1881, and will be further referred to where necessary in the course of the present review. It is in every way worthy of Mr. Beverley's literary power and rare statistical capacity.

5. The schedules, when properly checked and arranged, were forwarded to the head-quarters of the districts to which they belonged, and were there rapidly examined and totalled. The rough total thus obtained showed the population of the Province to be 68,850,747. When the detailed compilation had been carried out, it was found that the true figures for the population of the Province were 69,536,861, so that between the first and the corrected total there was a difference of 686,114 persons in favour of the latter.

6. The compilation of the returns was carried out in three large central offices, situated at Calcutta for Bengal, Dinapore for Behar and Chota Nagpore, and Cuttack for Orissa. This process was a most arduous and difficult task. The information contained in the original schedules was first abstracted into sets of forms, known as working registers, one set of seven registers for each village. The contents of these working registers were then tabulated in forms known as village tables, one set of seventeen for each thanna. In these village tables the unit was the village, and they contain in a compact form the fullest information concerning the population of every village in each district of Bengal. They have been carefully preserved, and are deposited at the head-quarters of the districts to which they belong. They constitute a source of information of the highest value to local officers for a great variety of purposes, a source which will not be available in any of the other provinces of India, in all of which, the Lieutenant-Governor understands, the village tables were destroyed when no longer required for the immediate purposes of the census. Finally, the totals of the village tables were compiled into the final forms prescribed by the Government of India, twenty-one in number. These tables, as already stated, are contained in Volume II of the report. The compilation was carried out by a vast army of clerks, whose numbers at one time reached the high figure of 4,463. The utmost care was exercised to secure absolute accuracy in the returns. Between eac stage of the work an elaborate check was applied; every mistake was carefull sifted out and set right, after reference to the original schedules; and th most rigid precautions were adopted to prevent the possibility of any discr pancy between the several returns. The value of this check cannot, th Lieutenant-Governor thinks, be over-estimated. Its necessity was sufficientl established by the number of errors which it served to disclose and correc Mr. Bourdillon thus records his opinion of the result:—"The result has bee most satisfactory. A certain percentage of error is of course inseparable fro every census compilation; but I believe that on the present occasion it i infinitesimal; that the figures in the village tables and final forms are a almost perfect reproduction of the facts recorded in the original schedules that the time, labour, and money expended in checking has been far mor than repaid by the accuracy and general accord of all the tables, and, unles the abstracting establishment elsewhere was more competent and less dis honest than it was in Bengal, I find it difficult to place very great confidenc in the figures of any province where the checking was not equally minute."

7. So vast an undertaking as the census of nearly 70 millions of peopl was necessarily costly. The total expenditure incurred on the Census o Bengal was Rs. 8,55,647-5-11. Of this amount, Rs. 1,87,921 was expended or the preliminary operations, that is, in making preparations for the census, and in carrying out the actual enumeration. The balance, which amounts to Rs. 6,67,725, represents the expenditure incurred in compiling the returns and publishing the Report and statements. The greater part of the preliminary expenditure, or rather more than a lakh of rupees, represents the cost of printing and paper. The greatness of this sum, and the enormous number of the forms used, serve in some measure to illustrate the magnitude of the undertaking. The number of forms used was—

Ordinary enumerators' schedules, in seven languages ..	9,434,500
Schedules for boat population	257,000
Other miscellaneous schedules	52,650
Boat tickets	484,000
Railway passengers' check-tickets	20,000
Appointment certificates for enumerators	319,000
Registers A and B	22,000
Total ..	10,589,150

8. The expenditure on the actual enumeration would have been considerably higher than it was, but for the fact that the census was for the most part taken by unpaid agency. Of the 14,015 supervisors and 192,382 enumerators who were employed upon the work, only 72 of the former and 1,323 of the latter were paid for their services. In Calcutta and the Suburbs, it was found impossible to secure the services of a sufficient number of men who would do the work gratuitously, while in the Chota Nagpore Division, and in the Sonthal Pergunnahs, the backward state of education compelled the importation of competent men from outside. The expenditure under this head amounted to Rs. 19,137, of which Rs. 10,375 was incurred in Calcutta and Rs. 8,761 in the mofussil. In some districts difficulty was experienced in obtaining the gratuitous services of competent enumerators, but it is hoped that at the next census much assistance will be rendered by the local authorities now in process of establishment.

census, excluding the contributions from Feudatory States, amounts to Rs. 8,47,298. Calculated on a population of 69,536,861 persons, this sum gives a rate of a little more than two pie a head, or rather more than five persons completely censused for one anna. The cost per 1,000 persons has been Rs. 12-2-2, and the Deputy Superintendent points out how favourably this compares with the expenditure in England, where the cost per 1,000 was £5-9-0 in 1841, £5-4-0 in 1851, £4-15-5 in 1861, and about £5-4-2 in 1871.

10. The demeanour of the people during the census operations was for the most part all that could be desired. In the less advanced parts of the Province some excitement prevailed, especially in the Sonthal Pergunnahs, where the superstitious fears of the people, fomented by interested agitators, led to some show of resistance to the civil authorities. The judicious arrangements made by the Deputy Commissioner, Mr. W. B. Oldham, however, reduced the opposition to a minimum, and on the arrival of a detachment of troops the disturbances immediately ceased. In the remoter parts of Pooree, also, some slight resistance was experienced. It was not to be expected that the objects of a census should be readily intelligible to the semi-civilized masses of the people, and in every part of the Province, even in the neighbourhood of the chief towns, the wildest rumours prevailed. It seems strange that the experience of the census of 1872 should not have sufficed to allay suspicion; but, singularly enough, the great majority of the country people do not appear to have retained any distinct recollection of the former census. One reason of this may have been the limited nature of the information then required. In 1872 the particulars required were for each person—

1. Age (divided into two periods under or over 12 years).
2. Sex.
3. Religion or caste.
4. Race or tribe.
5. Occupation.
6. Infirmities.

In 1881 the enumerator's schedule contained columns for the following:—

1. Age (to be given as exactly as possible).
2. Sex.
3. Conjugal condition.
4. Religion.
5. Caste or sect.
6. Birthplace.
7. Mother-tongue.
8. Degree of education.
9. Occupation.
10. Infirmities.

The general attitude of the people was, however, submissive, and it was not found necessary to have recourse to the penal provisions of the Census Act in more than an insignificant number of cases. The Lieutenant-Governor considers that this result is highly creditable to the tact and care of the district officers and other officials who were employed in carrying out the details of the arrangements.

11. Mr. Bourdillon speaks with justifiable confidence of the remarkable advance made in the accuracy of the census operations. He says: "The census just taken is certainly much more correct than that of 1872, just as it is to be expected that the census of 1891 will be more accurate than that of 1881." Three principal causes are assigned for the improvement. These are the more careful scrutiny of the village lists, and the preparation of the village registers; the elaborate numbering of the houses; and the checking of the entries made at the preliminary enumeration. Each of these measures was adopted for the first time at the recent census, and there can be no question that all three, and especially the first, were of great efficacy in securing accuracy. There is, moreover, internal evidence in the figures themselves to show that it has actually been secured. "The figures on every subject accord very closely with the conclusions drawn by experienced observers from known facts. Wherever there has been any discrepancy, it has given way on closer inspection, or a probable and simple explanation has been found." These remarks, which are extracted from the Report, are understood by the Lieutenant-Governor to refer to the accuracy of the general enumeration, and, as such, they are not, in Mr. Rivers Thompson's opinion, open to question. There is reason to believe that in points of detail the information afforded by the returns is not in all respects reliable. Mr. Bourdillon has drawn attention to several such points. The line of life, as mapped out according to the recorded ages of the population, presents violent and unnatural variations which cannot be in accordance with the re facts. Some concealment of unmarried women of marriageable age h undoubtedly taken place; while the details of castes and occupations are many cases open to doubt. These, however, are not errors which it w possible to avoid by better arrangements. They were due to the ignoran and inaccuracy of the people themselves, or, perhaps, in a few cases, of t enumerators. But in all the salient and important points which form t principal object of a census, the accuracy is remarkable, and the total amou of error that has crept in, while absolutely small, is relatively almost inapp ciable, and does not sensibly detract from the accuracy of the gene enumeration.

12. In the body of the Report Mr. Bourdillon has discussed wi great fullness of detail and amplitude of illustration the numerous questio which present themselves on a consideration of the facts recorded in the tabul returns. Many of the conclusions which he has drawn appear to be sound a well supported by evidence. Some, however, must be regarded as at le open to question, and as it would be impossible within the limits of a Gove ment Resolution to make any adequate review of the arguments on whi they are based, or to give a satisfactory idea of their relative importance a probability, it does not seem advisable to enter upon any lengthened consid ation of them. It will, in the Lieutenant-Governor's opinion, be sufficient give a brief account of the more important facts which the figures obtain at the recent census may be taken to have established, without dwelling mu upon the more recondite propositions or those which must still be regard as open to controversy.

13. The total area included within the Lieutenant-Governorship Bengal is 193,198 square miles, of which 70,430 square miles belong to t Province of Bengal, 44,139 square miles to Behar, 26,966 square miles Chota Nagpore, 9,053 square miles to Orissa, and 36,634 square miles to t various Feudatory States. The balance, which amounts to 5,976 square mil represents the unsurveyed area of the Sunderbuns. The total population this vast area as enumerated on the 17th February 1881 is 69,536,861, whi does not fall far short of the population of France and the United Kingd added together. The following table shows the distribution of the populati according to divisions :—

Division and Province.	Population.	Percentage.
Burdwan Division	7,393,954	10·63
Presidency ditto	8,204,912	11·79
Rajshahye ditto	7,733,775	11·12
Dacca ditto	8,700,939	12·51
Chittagong ditto	3,574,048	5·13
Total of Bengal ..	35,607,628	51·20
Patna Division	15,063,944	21·66
Bhagulpore ditto	8,063,160	11·59
Total of Behar ..	23,127,104	33·25
Chota Nagpore	4,225,989	6·07
Orissa	3,730,735	5·36
All Bengal ..	66,691,456	95·90
Feudatory States	2,845,405	4·09
GRAND TOTAL ..	69,536,861	100

The most populous district is Mymensingh, which contains 3,051,8 inhabitants. Durbhunga comes next with 2,683,447, while seven other d tricts, Mozufferpore, Midnapore, Sarun, Gya, Dacca, Rungpore, and Nud each contain a population exceeding two millions. Seven districts o contain less than three-quarters of a million inhabitants each. These Bogra, Maldah, Howrah, Julpigoree, Singbhoom, Darjeeling, and the Chi gong Hill Tracts, the last-named of which closes the list with a total 101,597. The average density of the population of the entire Province is 371·41 persons to the square mile. The density, as might be expected, varies enormously in different districts and in different parts of the same district. In Bengal Proper it is 505·57 persons to the square mile; in Behar 523·96; in Orissa 412·10; in Chota Nagpore 156·72; while in the Feudatory States it is only 77·67. The most densely populated rural district is Howrah, where the village density is 1,130 persons to the square mile. Mr. Bourdillon remarks that this "is a population which hardly answers the description of true rusticity, being composed in large part of the inhabitants of the crowded villages which cluster round the large mills and factories of the Howrah district, or line the river banks and form the outer fringe of the great Suburb of Howrah, though outside the pale of the Municipality." This is not quite correct. The whole of the river bank from Seebpore in the south to the northern boundary of the district is within municipal limits, and throughout the district the thanna average nowhere falls below 1,027. Next to Howrah in regard to density of rural population come Sarun with 843, Mozufferpore with 824, Durbhunga with 763, Hooghly with 737, and Dacca with 713. The most thickly peopled rural area is that of the Moonsheegunge sub-division in Dacca, where the population averages 1,278 to the square mile and contains a Hindoo community of old traditions and high culture which has produced many of the most distinguished servants of Government. Apart from the urban population, 17 districts have a population of 500 or more to the square mile. Twenty-two districts, together with the Cooch Behar State, have a density of less than 500 and more than 200; while only six districts and the remainder of the Feudatory States have a density of less than 200.

14. The remarkable paucity of towns and large villages in Bengal has long been known, and is conspicuous in the present returns. The total urban population of the Province is only 3,664,229, which is less than the population of London alone. The percentage of urban to total population is only 5·26, the corresponding figures for England being 66·6, for France 31·06, and for the United States 22·5. Bengal contains eleven towns with upwards of 50,000 inhabitants, 22 towns with from 20,000 to 50,000 inhabitants, and 63 towns with from 10,000 to 20,000 inhabitants. The population of Calcutta (433,219), together with the Suburbs (251,439) and Howrah (105,575), which are really a part of the metropolis, is 790,233, and exceeds that of any town in the United Kingdom except London. Next come Patna with 170,654 inhabitants, Dacca with 79,076, and Gya with 76,415. No other town in Bengal contains as many as 70,000 inhabitants. The number of villages with less than 5,000 inhabitants each is 264,523, with a total population of 65,558,430, the average population of a village being only 247·83. The boat population, under which term are included only those persons who were actually living in boats on the 17th February 1881, and not those who obtain their livelihood from the sea or rivers, was 309,336. The number of houses in Bengal is returned at 11,645,383, of which 11,036,774 were occupied and 608,609 unoccupied at the time of the census. This number gives an average of 6·30 persons to each occupied house, as against 5·75 at the census of 1872 in 10,903,435 houses. This average varies very little throughout the Province outside the limits of Calcutta, where it is 12·54. Special attention was given on the present occasion to the definition of a "house," and the Deputy Superintendent believes that a very high degree of uniformity was attained.

15. After deduction of the figures for the Province of Assam, which has since been formed into a separate administration, the population of Bengal, as ascertained at the census of 1872, was 62,705,718. The increase in 9 years would therefore appear to have been 6,831,143, or 10·89 per cent. The total population in 1881 was composed of 34,625,591 males and 34,911,270 females, the excess of the latter being 285,679. In 1872 this excess amounted to only 22,986. The recorded increase has been at the rate of 10·47 per cent. among males, and at the rate of 11·30 per cent. among females. Part of the total increase is clearly due to omissions and defects in the former census. This is proved by the enormous apparent increase which has taken place in the more thinly populated parts of the Province, an increase which, if real, "implies a fertility of which the human race has hitherto not been considered capable, or an immigration which has no parallel except in the history of Californian townships." Thus, the recorded increase is at the rate in the Chota Nagpore Division of 34·26 per cent.; in the Feudatory States of 28·06; in Darjeeling of 63·84; in Julpigo of 38·90; and in the Chittagong Hill Tracts of 45·95. In none of these area the proportion of children under 10 years of age remarkably above the avera and it is known that (with the exception of Darjeeling and Julpigoree) non them are replenished by immigration. This conclusion is corroborated by careful census which was made of parts of the Durbhunga and Mozufferpore tricts immediately after the famine of 1874 and about two years after the previ census. The enumeration was most carefully made, and resulted in apparent increase which was a physical impossibility within the time. A gr part of the recorded increase, however, is undoubtedly real. The district Backergunge, in spite of the cyclone of 1876, and the epidemic of cholera the cold-weather of 1876-77, shows a small increase. One division only, t of Burdwan, shows an absolute decrease, the numbers having fallen fr 7,604,661 in 1872 to 7,393,954 in 1881, or by 2·77 per cent. This decre which is shared by all the districts of the division, except Howrah Bankoorah, is clearly attributable to the effects of the Burdwan fever, ravages of which from 1864 to 1874 are well known. Strangely enou the district of Nuddea, which has of late years earned for itself an unenvia reputation for fever, shows an increase of 11·31 per cent., which is above provincial average. The Deputy Superintendent is driven to infer that this district the census of 1872 cannot have been taken so well as was suppo at the time. The town of Calcutta shows a trifling increase of 3,684 over figures of 1876, and the Suburbs a decrease of 5,710. This result has b discussed at length by Mr. Beverley, and has been already commented on the Resolution on the Calcutta Municipality for 1881.

16. Mr. Bourdillon has entered at some length into the subject of registration of vital statistics in Bengal, and has sought to deduce from a co deration of the census returns, and other established facts, an approxim standard rate of births and deaths. That the recorded numbers of births deaths in this Province are far beneath the true figures has always b recognized, but the Lieutenant-Governor looks to a great improvement un the operation of the system of Union Committees, which is to be the b of the Local Self-Government scheme in Bengal. Meanwhile all that can said with any confidence is that the average urban death-rate of 29·80 repor between 1872 and 1881 is certainly below the truth; that the true url death-rate is probably higher than the true rural death-rate, though difference is not so great as it is in countries where the conditions of town are more complex; and that the general birth-rate is vastly understated at 21 per mille. Mr. Bourdillon estimates that the true birth-rate of the Provi is about 45, and the true death-rate about 34 per mille, the latter vary from 36 or 37 in towns to 31 or 32 in rural tracts, and he calculates tha the census of 1891 the population of Bengal will somewhat exceed $77\frac{1}{4}$ millio His conclusions, though interesting and instructive, are based on a vari of considerations, some of which are confessedly little more than conjectu While others, proceeding as they do upon a comparison between the avowe inaccurate figures of 1872 with the fairly accurate figures of 1881, must to some extent unsound; and the Lieutenant-Governor does not think t any useful purpose would be served by subjecting them to detailed examinat here.

17. The tables which deal with religious belief distribute the populat of the Province among nine principal religions, as follows:—

Religion.		Males.	Females.	Total.
Hindus	..	22,578,544	22,874,262	45,452,806
Sikhs	..	304	245	549
Mahomedans	..	10,855,771	10,848,953	21,704,724
Christians	..	67,715	60,420	128,135
Buddhists	..	78,555	77,254	155,809
Brahmos	..	470	318	788
Jains	..	1,174	435	1,609
Jews	..	514	545	1,059
Parsees	..	117	39	156
All others	..	1,042,427	1,048,799	2,091,226
Total	..	34,625,591	34,911,270	69,536,861

Subsidiary tables also show further details of which the figures under "All others" are made up, under five chief heads, thus—

Religion.	Males.	Females.	Total.
Sonthals	443,107	440,831	883,938
Kols	299,806	314,057	613,863
Other Western aborigines	236,378	233,244	469,622
Eastern aborigines ..	45,257	43,142	88,399
Others and unspecified ..	17,879	17,525	35,404
Total ..	1,042,427	1,048,799	2,091,226

In the census of 1872 great difficulty was experienced in defining the term "Hindu" with any approach to accuracy; and the same difficulty also presented itself in 1881, though in a somewhat smaller degree. The figures entered under the heads of Sikhs and Jains are manifestly incorrect, and appear to prove what was first suggested by an inspection of the original schedules, viz. that many members of these religions have returned themselves as Hindus, of the Sikh or Jain caste. Somewhat similar remarks apply to the figures for Brahmos also; while an inspection of the statements of Hindu castes shows large entries under the heads of Sonthal and Kol. It is probable, however, that no more correct returns could have been obtained without an enormously disproportionate expenditure of labour and money.

18. Of the entire population of the Province, 65·36 per cent. are Hindus, 31·21 per cent. are Mahomedans, ·18 per cent. are Christians, and ·22 per cent. are Buddhists; the followers of all other religions making up 3·01 of the whole. The proportions of increase or decrease since the census of 1872 among the chief religions are—

Religion.	Increase + or decrease — Number.	Percentage.
Hindus	+5,456,231	+13·64
Mahomedans	+2,145,472	+10·96
Christians	+ 37,072	+40·71
Buddhists	+ 75,202	+93·29
All others	—244,154	—10·43

The increase shown under Mahomedans and Christians is considered to be real. That under Buddhists is almost wholly confined to the districts of Chittagong, the Chittagong Hill Tracts, and Darjeeling, and is for the most part due to more accurate enumeration. The decrease under "All others" may be attributed to the inclusion under Hindus of large numbers of persons who at the previous census had been shown as aborigines, this cause producing a corresponding apparent increase under Hindus. No change of importance has occurred in the distribution of any of these religions since 1872. Hindus form more than 90 per cent. of the population in Orissa, more than 80 per cent. in the Patna, Burdwan, and Bhagulpore Divisions, and more than 70 per cent. in Chota Nagpore and the Tributary States. They are least numerous in the Chittagong Division, where they form only 28·48 per cent. of the whole. The Mahomedans are most numerous in the Chittagong, Dacca, and Rajshahye Divisions, in each of which they are more than 60 per cent. of the whole, and are least numerous in Orissa, where they are only 2·29 per cent. The Patna and Bhagulpore Divisions together contain only one-seventh of the total number of Mahomedans. Of the total population of the Town and Suburbs of Calcutta, 428,692, or 62·6 per cent., are Hindus; 221,013, or 32·2 per cent., are Mahomedans; and 30,478, or 4·4 per cent., are Christians. Three sects of Mahomedans have been shown in the returns, viz. Sunnis 20,964,657, Shiahs 262,293, and Wahabis 2,144. The unspecified number as many as 448,679. The figures for Wahabis are clearly incorrect, and this is further corroborated by their distribution. They are almost entirely confined to Moorshedabad and Pubna; while Patna, which was long the centre of the Wahabi movement, numbers only 27 confessors.

19. The progress made in the spread of Christianity during the last nine years is one of the most interesting facts brought out by the census just taken.

In 1872 the number of persons returned as Christians was 91,063, while i 1881 this number had increased to 128,135, showing an advance of 37,072, 40·71 per cent. Mr. Bourdillon gives reasons for thinking that a large part this increase is due to conversions from heathendom, rather than to immigr tion from Europe. This is doubtless the case in some parts, but Mr. Bourdill has made some mistakes in regard to the figures and he has overlooked son very important conclusions to which they point. He refers to a passage Mr. Beverley's Report on the Census of 1872, in which he states that one-half the total number of Christians were "Europeans or East Indians," and as the were, without Assam, 91,063 (not 91,603) Christians, Mr. Bourdillon plac Mr. Beverley's estimate of non-Asiatic Christians at 46,000. He then refe to the number of non-Asiatic Christians found in 1881 (which was 40,686, n 40,726 as stated by him). He considers that there cannot have been such decrease, and he therefore reduces the 1872 estimate of 46,000 for "Europea and East Indians" to 39,000 for "Christians other than Natives of India This would make the total number of Native Christians in 1872 to have be 52,063, and as there were 86,306 Christian "Natives of India" in 1881, the would be an increase in this class of 34,243 In reality, however, the ca would arithmetically appear to be stronger even than Mr. Bourdillon puts i because he has not sufficiently examined Mr. Beverley's figures. The observ tion made in the body of Mr. Beverley's report was qualified by a reference the tables, and General Statement VB attached to the Report for 1872 shows tha outside Assam, there were 42,109 "Non-Asiatics" and "Mixed races," ar 48,130 "Native Christians" It would thus appear that there has been a increase among the Native Christians of 38,176. There is, however, reas for doubting if the increase has been so large. Mr. Bourdillon disposes of th figures for Europeans and Eurasians with the remark that "the number of Eur pean immigrants is certainly not less than it was, and everything tends to sho that the Eurasian population multiply rapidly." The returns, however, call f further examination. Omitting the figures for Cooch Behar, which were n shown in the 1872 tables, we find that, whereas the number of Europea shows an increase from 19,191 in 1872 to 24,189 in 1881, the number Eurasians show a decrease from 20,195 to 14,702. The figures are—

	Europeans.		Eurasians.
	1872.	1881.	1872.	1881.
Bengal	14,164	20,481	18,394	13,075
Behar	3,287	3,010	1,477	1,192
Orissa	239	428	271	270
Chota Nagpore... ...	1,501	270	53	165
Total ...	19,191	24,189	20,195	14,702

There can be no doubt that the number of Eurasians has not really decrease and that the figures for Other races must include many of this class. Mr. Bou dillon seems to suggest that the prevailing tendency is to claim pure Europe parentage. A scrutiny of the figures, however, will show that this view cann be maintained. The return of pure Europeans in the 24-Pergunnahs, the Suburb and Calcutta shows an increase from 11,107 to 17,383, and it is probable th this has been contributed in part by the incorrect inclusion of Eurasian But this will go a very short way to explain the phenomenon, as the reductic in the number of Eurasians in this tract is only from 10,362 to 9,581. Hooghly and Howrah an increase in the number of Europeans from 798 to 1,0 has been accompanied by an increase from 557 to 892 in the number Eurasians. In Behar there is a simultaneous reduction in the numbers bo of Eurasians and of Europeans. In Chota Nagpore the number of Europea shows a falling off, probably due to the withdrawal of the European Regime from Hazaribagh. It is in the figures for the Dacca and Chittagong distric that the true explanation is to be sought, and it will be seen that the circu stances which explain the falling off in the number of Eurasians explain al some of the apparent increase in the number of Native Christians. The Dac district, which showed 5,638 Eurasians and 1,883, Native Christians in 187 showed only 841 Eurasians, but 7,710 Native Christians in 1881. In Chittagong the Eurasians have apparently decreased from 896 to 99, while the Native Christians have apparently increased from 42 to 736. In these two districts the poorer classes of Eurasians differ little in their habits of life and association from the natives around them, and there can be no doubt that in the last returns the great majority of them have been shown as Native Christians. It is also probable that some of the poorer Eurasians in the 24-Pergunnahs, the Suburbs, and Calcutta have been similarly treated. Here, as has been already stated, there has been an apparent decrease of 781 under this class, while simultaneously there has been an increase of 1,775 under the head of Native Christians. It is thus very doubtful whether the apparent increase in the number of Native Christians from 27,446 in 1872 to 36,647 in 1881 represents any important increase in the number of conversions. It is only in the Sonthal Pergunnahs (2,718 against 180) and Chota Nagpore (39,832 against 14,226) that there is undoubted evidence of the spread of Christianity. The various sects of Christians have not been very carefully returned in the census schedules, and the numbers given under each are in many cases misleading. No less than 20,436 out of the total of 128,135 are entered as "Sect not stated." There is reason to believe that at least half of these are Lutherans of Lohardugga; but it is not possible to apportion the remainder among the different sects with any degree of accuracy.

20. The division of the persons who were not included among any of the nine chief religions into Sonthals, Kols, other Western Aborigines, Eastern Aborigines, and Others was made under the special orders of the Government of Bengal. The classification is not scientifically accurate, and is based on considerations of practical convenience. Besides those who have returned themselves as professing the Sonthal and Kol religions, there are a number of others who have been shown as Hindus by religion and Sonthals and Kols by caste. These number respectively 203,264 and 257,803, and bring up the total numbers of these tribes to Sonthals 1,087,202 and Kols 871,666. Of the 469,622 persons who have been shown as Other Western Aborigines, the great bulk, or 362,561, were returned in the census schedules as Poithaliks, which is a vague term meaning "idolator," used by the Orissa enumerators to denote persons not belonging to the recognized religions. The Eastern Aborigines include Garos, Manipuris, Kukis, and other hillmen of the northern frontier, Meches and Assamese from the Assam Valley, and Tipperahs, Reangs, and other hillmen from the Chittagong and Tipperah hills.

21. The number of persons returned as single, married, and widowed is as follows:—

	Single.	Married.	Widowed.	Total.
Males	16,098,605	16,991,966	1,374,184	34,464,755
Females	10,331,811	17,040,095	7,397,647	34,769,553

And the percentages of each class among 100 of the population are—

	Single.	Married.	Widowed.
Males	46·71	49·30	3·98
Females	29·71	49·00	21·27

The corresponding percentages in the case of the United Kingdom and France are for males 61·95, 34·06, and 3·97, and for females 57·90, 33·00, and 9·08 respectively. These figures throw into high relief the marked difference that exists between the East and West in all questions of conjugal condition. In Bengal marriage is twice as common among females and half as common again among males as in Europe; while the number of widows is more than twice as great as in Europe. These figures "show that the people of Bengal, unchecked by any prudential considerations, marry their daughters at the earliest possible age, and, as a matter of course, that the discrepancy of age between husband and wife makes many widows, and that their re-marriage is virtually unknown."

22. An inspection of the tables which show conjugal condition in conjunction with age leads to many interesting conclusions. Out of every 100 boys below the age of ten years, rather less than four are married; while the number of married girls of the same age is 11. From 10 to 20 years of age 71 boys in 100 are still bachelors; while out of 100 girls of the same age, 76 are married and 4 are widows, only 19 being still unmarried. In the third decade the remarkable result is apparent that in every 100 women from 20 to 30 years of age there is only one who has not been given in marriage. Practically, it may be said that almost the whole female population is transferred from the single to the married state before their 20th year. Matrimony is not so common among the male population; men are married for the most part between the ages of 20 and 30, and the proportion of married men is greatest between the ages of 30 and 39, when it amounts to 90·23 per cent. of the whole. From this time the proportion of married men dwindles very gently, and the percentage of widowers approximates closely to that of European countries. Taking the earliest marriageable age to be 10 years, and excluding all persons below that age, we find that of the total number of bachelors of 10 years old and upwards 54·12 are between the ages of 10 and 15 years, and about 25 per cent. between 15 and 20 years; while of the unmarried women of marriageable age, 78·88 per cent. are under 15 years, and 10·71 per cent. below 20. These figures show that while the great majority of the girls marry before the age of 15, only one-fifth of the boys are married at that age, and only one-fifth are married before they are 20.

23. The numbers of the married in every 100 persons between 10 and 15 years of age in each of the chief religions are—

	Males.	Females
Hindus	23·35	66·59
Mahomedans	9·90	68 59
Christians	4·19	14·87
Buddhists	3·16	23·03
Aboriginals	9·55	26·12
All religions ..	18·50	65·74

The practice of early marriage of boys is therefore far more prevalent among the Hindus than among members of any other religion; while both Hindus and Mahomedans marry their daughters at a very early age. Out of every 100 women of 20 to 30 years of age, 98·80 are or have been married, and of every 100 married or widowed women 30 years of age, 11·51 were married before they were ten years old, 69·25 between 10 and 20 years, and 18·04 between 20 and 30 years of age. Of the men under 40 years of age who either are or have been married, only 3·91 per cent. were married before they were 10 years old, 24·62 per cent. between 10 and 20, 50·50 per cent. between 20 and 30, and 15·96 per cent. at the comparatively mature age of between 30 and 40. The mean age of married males in Bengal is 36·97 years, and the mean age of married females 28·68. Each husband is therefore on an average eight years older than his wife. This circumstance helps to account for the comparatively large proportion borne by males to females in the total population. The average difference of age in England between husband and wife is only about $2\frac{1}{2}$ years. The mean duration of married life is not widely different in Bengal from that found to exist in Europe, being 15·77 years against 15·15. The total number of married men in Bengal is 16,991,966; while the number of married women is about 50,000 greater. This gives a proportion of 1,002 wives to every 1,000 husbands, which is a margin much too small to justify any theory of general or widespread polygamy. Among Hindus there is actually an excess in favour of the married men, which is due to immigration of married males. Among Mahomedans the proportion is 1,033 wives to every 1,000 husbands. A considerable part of this excess is due to the fact that in the districts of Eastern Bengal, where the Mahomedans form a large majority of the population, numbers of sailors, who are all of this religion, were absent on their avocations on the night of the census. This excess is particularly observable in the returns of Chittagong (1,266), Noakholly (1,081) and Dacca (1,079), all of which supply men to the mercantile marine. Mr. Bourdillon infers that polygamy, though existent, is practised only to a very small extent by the Mussulman population of Bengal.

24. A curious feature of the returns is the progressive increase in the number of children living at each of the first four years of life. The number of infants under one year of age was 1,611,449; the number returned as one year old was 1,679,504; two years old, 2,130,034; three years old, 2,548,457; and four years old, 2,220,142. The causes assigned for this are—first, the exceptional healthiness and general prosperity of the years 1876 and 1877; and, second, the ignorance and inaccuracy of natives in all matters connected with their ages, which have led them in numbers of cases to declare the age of very young children to be "three or four years." The Lieutenant-Governor regards the latter of these as the more probable explanation, though the first-named may also have had some influence. Another noticeable point is the strange fluctuations in the numbers for each quinquennial age-period after the first four years of life. It appears that the age-period 25—29, which contains the popular age 25, is abnormally large, and that for the rest each period which contains a round number, such as 40—44, 50—54, &c., is, contrary to expectation, more numerous than the period which immediately precedes it. The explanation is unquestionably to be found in the well known inaccuracy with which ages are always stated by natives. Similar variations are to be found in the returns of all the provinces of India.

25. Mr. Bourdillon conclusively shows that the figures for the age-periods from 5 to 9, and 10 to 14 are not reliable. This is established by a comparison of the proportions of males to females at those two age-periods, with the corresponding proportions at other periods of life. It appears that while the females exceed the males in each year of life up to 4, the proportion is suddenly and violently reversed in the age-periods from 5 to 9 and 10 to 14. Among children below 5 years of age, there are on an average 93·91 boys to 100 girls; but in the next two quinquennial periods this proportion rises to 106·66 and 125·28 respectively, falling again to its normal rate of 98·06 in the period from 15 to 19. The reason of the change is that these two periods include the five years from 8 to 13 during which almost all native girls are given in marriage. The presence in a family of unmarried girls of marriageable age is regarded as a disgrace, and has, in Bengal, as in other Provinces and at other censuses, occasioned both some concealment of women, and some under-statement of their ages. Mr. Bourdillon is of opinion that the omissions amount to about ½ per cent. of the total number of females under 15 years of age. The mean age of the population of Bengal is 24·99, that of males being 24·49 years and of females 25·49. The mean age in England is 26·4 years, and the cause of the lower mean in this Province is to be found in the high birth and death rates which prevail in Bengal.

26. The question of caste has been very briefly dealt with in the Report, Mr. Bourdillon being rightly of opinion that it did not come within the proper domain of his work to attempt any exhaustive treatment of so large a subject, the interest of which was, moreover, rather ethnological than statistical. In connection with an admirable system proposed by Mr. Ibbetson, who has conducted the Punjab census, the Lieutenant-Governor contemplates the institution of a series of detailed and comprehensive enquiries into this interesting and important subject, which has not yet found any adequate exponent in Bengal.

27. According to the census returns, 65 castes or tribes have upwards of 100,000 representatives in this Province. The Gowalla or cowherd caste heads the list with 3,992,949 members, including the Gops of Bengal, the Ahirs of Behar, and the Gours of Orissa; next come the Brahmins, with 2,754,100, and the Kaibarthas with 2,100,379. Koches and Chandals each number more than a million-and-a-half; while eight more castes, the Kayasths, Rajputs, Chamars, Telis, Kurmis, Koeris, Dosadhs, and Babhans in the order named each claim upwards of one million members. Besides these more numerous castes, no less than 265 smaller ones are shown in the tables, in addition to several so-called castes and clans of doubtful position. The heading "Others" includes many persons who have described themselves by nationality only, as Bengali, Punjabi, &c., and others who have given the name of their occupation in lieu of their caste, such as Sikalgar, Dafali, and Shikari. Thirty castes, including all those of general utility, "whose services are indispensable to that microcosm the Bengal village," have representatives in every division of the Province. Many others, however, are extremely local, some of them having more than 60 per cent of their whole number within the limits of a single division. Thus the large majority of Bhumijs, Kharwars, Sonthals and Kols (so-called) are to be found in Chota Nagpore. Orissa has almost a monopoly of Chassas Kandaras, Karans, Khandaits and Pans. Rajputs, Babhans, Chamars, Dosadhs Binds, Nuniyas, and Gareris are chiefly concentrated in Behar; while of Koches Pods, Bagdis, and Sadgops but few are found outside Bengal Proper. The relative proportion of males and females in the various castes, to which a high degree of importance attaches in provinces where female infanticide or polyandry is suspected to exist, is of little practical interest in Bengal. It is however, of some significance that the proportion of males to females is lowest among such castes as the Rajputs, Brahmins, and Babhans, who are most sensitive on the subject of their women; who marry their daughters at an exceptionally early age, and who should therefore show a high proportion of males; and upon whom the suspicion of withholding information rests most heavily.

28. Among the points upon which information was required for the first time at the recent census were statistics of birth-place and mother-tongue. It was at one time thought that information as to nationality could be gathered with great accuracy by an inspection of the recorded entries for birth-place and language combined, together with the evidence afforded by the names of individuals. In practice, however, this was found to be impracticable, and the main use to which the information has been put is to illustrate the conditions of immigration and emigration in Bengal. For this purpose, however, the returns are, as Mr. Bourdillon points out, incomplete. In the first place, they cannot of necessity include persons who had emigrated from Bengal, and were found in other parts of India on the night of the census. These persons appear in the returns of other provinces, which give no details of the districts from which strangers come. In the second place no information is to be gathered from the returns as to those internal movements of the people which are of a temporary or periodical character. The subjects of immigration and emigration are, therefore, illustrated in an imperfect way by the Census Tables, which accordingly lose a great part of their interest.

29. Out of the 69,536,861 persons found in Bengal on the night of the census, only 790,777, or 1·14 per cent., had been born outside the Province. Of these, 487,059 had been born in other Provinces of British India; 93,110 in the remainder of Asia; and 12,298 in Europe. The birth-places of 197,485 persons were not traceable. Mr. Bourdillon observes that "there is probably no country in the world whence emigration is so scanty, and in which the persons born outside its limits bear so small a proportion to the whole body of its inhabitants." Of the 93,110 immigrants from other parts of Asia, 85,011 are natives of Nepal, and the great bulk of the remainder are from Bhutan, Thibet, and Sikkim. The majority of these are found on the tea-plantations of Darjeeling and Julpigoree, and in Chumparun. Of the immigrants from other Provinces of India, the North-Western Provinces claims 351,933, or over three-fourths of the whole, the males and females numbering respectively 214,498 and 137,435. The greater part of the remainder are from Assam and the Central Provinces. The total number of Bengal-born persons found in the other chief Provinces of India on the night of the census was 615,286, of whom 328,312 were males and 286,974 females. Of these, 76,909 males and 136,720 females were found in the North-Western Provinces, 126,856 males and 94,400 females in Assam, and 79,746 males and 23,115 females in British Burmah. Mr. Bourdillon infers from the equality in numbers of the Bengal women received from and sent into the North-Western Provinces that these transfers are mostly due to inter-marriages among the people of the border districts. The absence of district details renders it impossible to establish this proposition, which seems intrinsically probable, and which affords a simple explanation of the singular fact that women appear to leave the districts of their birth much more than men. Among the Provinces of Bengal, the Feudatory States have the highest proportion of immigrants, who amount to 17·97 per cent. Bengal comes next with 5·91, owing principally to the influences of Calcutta and Darjeeling. Chota Nagpore has a percentage of 3·27, Behar of 1·63, and Orissa of 1·52. The highest percentage of foreigners is naturally found in

Calcutta, where they amount to no less than 70·25 per cent. of the whole population of the town. The figures for emigration from the several districts and Provinces would have been instructive, but, unfortunately, no district details are available for emigrants beyond the limits of Bengal itself, without which the figures would be useless.

30. Of the various languages recorded in the census schedules, it appears that Bengali is the mother-tongue of 36,416,970 persons, or more than half the entire population of the Province. Hindi, Hindustani, and Urdu are spoken by 24,799,081, or 35·65 per cent., and Uriya by 5,450,818, or 7·83 per cent. The Kolarian languages, Sonthali, Kol, Munda, and Bheel, have been shown as spoken by 2,149,133 people; while English is stated to be the mother-tongue of 37,640 persons.

31. The poverty of the results of the attempt to collect information concerning the occupations of the people is one of the least satisfactory features of the recent census. The importance of the subject in all its bearings on the social condition and physical and moral progress of the people can hardly be overrated; yet it would scarcely be too much to say that the statistics compiled in 1881 have not made any addition to the knowledge obtained in 1872. No expenditure of time and trouble was spared by the Bengal census officers, and Mr. Bourdillon considers that at least one-third of the total cost of preparing the census tables must be debited to this single subject; and it is therefore the more disappointing to find so inadequate a result. The returns, in fact, so far as their details are concerned, appear to be of little or no value. The causes of this unfortunate state of things appear to be two. The first and most important is the enormous difficulty that was experienced in securing definite entries in the original schedules. Special attention was given to the point in the instructions issued to the enumerators, but in spite of every effort the number of vague descriptions that were met with precluded the possibility of an accurate classification. Entries, such as "service," "shop-keeping," and the like, abounded on every page of the schedules, and baffled every attempt at sub-division of occupations. Although it was the particular desire of the Census authorities and of Government that the different classes of cultivators should be separately shown, this object has been completely defeated by the return of 11,264,942 males, or 86 per cent. of the whole sub-order of agriculturists, as "cultivators" only without any further specification.

32. Even, however, had the entries in the original schedules been all that was desired, the value of the returns would have been greatly impaired by the system of classification under which it was necessary to show them. The classification which was adopted was based on that devised by Dr. Farr in the English Census of 1871. It divides all occupations into 6 classes—Professional, Domestic, Commercial, Agricultural, Industrial, and Indefinite and Non-productive. These classes are again sub-divided into 18 Orders, 82 Sub-orders, and 487 Main heads. Every occupation entered in the schedules was required to be referred to one or other of these Main heads, and as these had been selected with a view to the circumstances of England, it is easy to see that they must in many cases have been very unsuitable to those of Bengal. Although, however, the paramount necessity of securing uniformity throughout India led the Government of India to give the preference to Dr. Farr's classification, an attempt has been made by Mr. Bourdillon in a subsidiary table to show the occupations of the Province arranged on a system more in accordance with local conditions. This table is intelligible and interesting, but it contains figures for the entire Province only, without showing district details.

33. The following table shows the distribution of the population of Bengal among the 6 principal classes:—

Occupations.	Males.	Females.
Class I—Professional	624,538	57,117
Class II—Domestic	943,015	245,525
Class III—Commercial	1,136,014	195,423
Class IV—Agricultural	13,332,557	1,957,675
Class V—Industrial	2,651,132	1,900,181
Class VI—Indefinite and Non-productive ..	15,830,331	30,466,119
Total ..	34,517,587	34,822,040

It thus appears that 66·76 per cent. of both sexes belong to the Indefinite and Non-productive Class. If from this proportion be deducted the percentage of children under 10 years of age, who are too young to work, and of persons over 60 years, who are too old, it appears that among those capable of active work, 21·24 per cent. of the men and 51 58 per cent. of the women are without specific employment. This percentage, however, in the case of women includes those who are employed upon domestic and household duties. This Class includes also the great body of general labourers who form between 10 and 11 per cent. of the population. Of the remainder of the population, more than two-thirds is absorbed by the Agricultural Class, which comprises more than half of the persons capable of active work in each division. It is most universal in the Rajshahye and Dacca Divisions, where the population is largely Mahomedan. It is least common, as might be expected, in the Presidency and Burdwan Divisions. "So universal is the pursuit of agricultural operations that even in the urban population they employ the greater proportion of individuals." Next come general labourers, servants and personal attendants, "persons who buy or sell, keep or lend money or goods of various kinds," "persons working and dealing in textile fabrics and dress," carriers and bearers, and "persons working and dealing in food and drink." Among the rural population, agriculture stands first, claiming more than five times as many followers as the next on the list, General labourers.

34. Among Hindus, 49·28 per cent. of the population capable of work are engaged in agriculture, 13 per cent. are unemployed (among whom must be counted the many Hindu scholars above 10 years of age), 11·40 per cent. are general labourers; while 5·54 per cent. are attendants and domestic servants. Among Mahomedans, on the other hand, the proportion of agriculturists reaches the high figure of 62·81 per cent. The Lieutenant-Governor cannot but think that one reason for this remarkable result, which is not referred to in the Report, is the absence of many Mahomedan sailors and boatmen from their home on the night of the census. The members of this religion are also numerous among "persons engaged in the conveyance of men, animals, and goods," and among "persons engaged in breeding and keeping animals," and among weavers and manufacturers of textile fabrics. Of the whole female population of the Province, 83 per cent. have been returned as unemployed. The remainder are distributed among 288 separate occupations, only 42 of which claim more than 10,000 followers. Cultivators number 1,675,843 and general labourers 1,371,577. It is, however, impossible to say how far the women entered under these heads are really breadwinners themselves, and how far they are merely the wives of breadwinners. Nine other occupations claim more than 100,000 followers each; these are recorded as grain-huskers, thread-spinners, vagrants, cultivators (combining agriculture with some other occupation), maidservants, shop-keepers, agricultural labourers, fishmongers, and cotton-cloth weavers. The occupations of women are, however, even less trustworthy than those of men, and the Lieutenant-Governor does not think that the returns of either will repay minute examination.

35. An attempt to collect statistics of the spread of education was made for the first time in Bengal in the census of 1881. The whole population was classified under the following heads—

1. Under instruction;
2. Not under instruction, but able to read and write;
3. Ditto ditto, and not able to read and write;

and the numbers recorded in each class are as follows:—

Sex.	Under instruction.	Not under instruction.
		Able to read and write.	Not able to read and write.
Males ..	1,009,999	1,991,583	31,480,486
Females ..	35,760	61,449	34,788,686
Total ..	1,045,759	2,053,032	66,171,663

Mr. Bourdillon believes that in Behar and Chota Nagpore, where the language of the schedules was Hindi or Urdu, some error may have crept in, and that some persons who should have been shown as learners in the first class have been brought into the educated or second class. The total amount of error is, however, considered to be trifling. It thus appears that taking both sexes together, out of every 1,000 persons in the Province only 15 are under instruction, and 29 more are able to read and write; while no less than 955 are altogether illiterate. Of males 912 in 1,000 are illiterate against 997 females. The Lieutenant-Governor regrets to observe that Bengal compares unfavourably with other Provinces of India with regard to education and stands only fourth on the list, the Central Provinces being first, Madras second, and Bombay third. Excluding children below the school-going age, which may be taken to be 5 years, and omitting females among whom education in Bengal is almost non-existent, it appears that out of every 1,000 persons, 34 are learning, 67 can read and write, and 898 are ignorant. Among Hindus these proportions become 38, 79, and 882 respectively and among Mahomedans 28, 45, and 928. This demonstrates what was already known to be the case, that the standard of education is much higher among the Hindus than among Mussulmen. Judged by the census figures, education has made most progress in the Burdwan Division, where the number of wholly illiterate persons is 8,028 in 10,000. The Presidency and Chittagong Divisions come next, with 8,442 and 8,414 respectively. The lowest on the list are the Feudatory States, with 9,548, Chota Nagpore with 9,539, Bhagulpore with 9,486, and Patna with 9,383. The small progress of education in Behar which these figures indicate is much to be regretted. The educational standard is, as might have been expected, much higher among Christians than among any other class. Out of every 10,000 Christian men and boys 5 years old and upwards, only 5,245 are wholly illiterate, 3,464 are able to read and write, and 1,289 are under instruction. Favourable as these proportions are when compared with those of Hindus and Mahomedans, they nevertheless indicate the existence of much ignorance among the Native Christians in spite of the efforts of Mission schools. If the proportion of persons of school-going age be taken to be 15 per cent. of the whole, as is usually done in European countries, it appears that out of every 100 boys in Bengal who might be at school, only about 20 are actually under instruction. In the different Provinces the numbers are, Bengal 26·54, Behar 10·55, Orissa 27·20, Chota Nagpore 9·03, and the Feudatory States 8·30. In Madras the percentage rises to 22·47 and in Bombay to 21·65. In the Punjab, however, which stands next to Bengal, it is only 9·45, in the Central Provinces 8·79, and in the North-Western Provinces 8·65. In the United Kingdom the corresponding proportion is as high as 86·36 per cent. Even more deplorable is the condition of female education, and no words can add force to the following extract from the Report:—"In every 10,000 Hindu women and girls only 9 are at school, and only 16 can read and write, leaving 9,975 who are entirely illiterate. The condition of the Mahomedan female population, however, is worse, for in every 10,000 of them only 7 are learning and 10 can read and write; so that 9,983 have no learning whatever." This is not the place for an examination of the general educational policy of the State; but it may be mentioned that no effort is being spared by this Government to promote the advance of primary education, and that the grant for primary schools has been increased by a lakh of rupees in each of the past three years, and now stands at Rs. 7,00,000. The Director of Public Instruction bears evidence to the good results which have begun to declare themselves, and which may still be anticipated. "Throughout Orissa, and in the Burdwan and Chittagong Divisions, the system has expanded with extraordinary rapidity, and the number of pupils in primary schools of organized instruction varies in these Divisions from 25 to 29½ per 1,000 of the population. In the Presidency and Dacca Divisions the proportion of pupils to population falls to 13 and 10 per 1,000; but in both Divisions, and especially the latter, a further great extension of the system may be looked for."

36. The following table shows the number of persons who were found to be afflicted with each of the four great bodily and mental infirmities:—

Infirmities.	Numbers.			Proportion in 10,000.
	Males.	Females.	Both sexes.	Males.	Females	Both sexes.
Insane	18,336	12,399	30,735	5	3	4
Blind	47,086	50,264	97,350	13	14	14
Deaf-mutes	52,813	32,053	84,866	15	9	12
Lepers	42,283	14,240	56,523	12	4	8
Total ...	160,538	109,565	270,103	45	30	38

The proportion of the insane in Bengal is very small compared with that found in most European countries, but is borne out by the returns of other Provinces of India. There is reason to believe that some concealment has taken place in the case of each of the above infirmities, except, perhaps, in that of blindness. On the other hand the proportion of deaf-mutes is abnormally high, and the Deputy Superintendent inclines to the opinion that the figures returned under this head include a certain proportion of persons who are deaf only. Insanity is most prevalent in the Rajshahye Division, where the population is largely Mahomedan, and where ganja and its preparations are produced and extensively consumed. Blindness appears to be most common in the Patna and Bhagulpore Divisions, and least prevalent in Chittagong and Dacca. No explanation of this is suggested in the Report, except that the districts of Behar, where vaccination has made but little progress, are most exposed to the ravages of small-pox. Deaf-mutism also is found most frequently in this Province, and is least common in Chittagong and Dacca. Leprosy, by which term only black leprosy, the more virulent form of the disease, is meant, is by far most common in the Burdwan Division, where lepers number as many as 19 per 10,000 of the population. This division is followed at a long interval by Orissa, with a proportion of 12, and Rajshahye and the Feudatory States with 9 each. The affection is least common in Chittagong. There is no doubt that concealment of lepers has occurred to a very considerable extent and Mr. Bourdillon believes that for every leper that has been returned there are at least three persons in whom the disease has been more or less fully developed, but who have escaped enumeration. The interest of the subject is medical rather than statistical.

37. The whole of the census operations of the Province, with the exception of the Town and Suburbs of Calcutta, were from first to last in charge of Mr. Bourdillon, to whom the Lieutenant-Governor's cordial thanks are due for the ability, energy and unflagging zeal with which, for upwards of three years, he has devoted himself to the execution of this great undertaking. Mr. Bourdillon bears conspicuous testimony to the valuable assistance rendered to him by Mr. E. N. Baker, now Under Secretary to this Government and Baboo Komodonath Mookerjee, the Superintendent of the Cuttack Office. Mr. Rivers Thompson desires to place on record his high sense of the services rendered by the district officers of Bengal, without whose hearty co-operation and vigilance the swarming population of this great Province could not have been numbered with such signal success.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

COLMAN MACAULAY,

Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

Rainfall, Weather, and State and Prospects of the Crops.

Statement showing Rainfall, Weather, and State and Prospects of the Crops in the different Districts of Bengal, as reported to Government during the week ending the 17th November 1883.

No.	District, and date of return.	Rainfall at Sudder Station in inches.	Character of the weather, state and prospects of the crops, and state of health at date.
	BENGAL.
	Western Districts.
Burdwan Div. 1	Burdwan, Nov. 17 '83	Nil	Weather—cool and dry. Yield of amun will be about one-third of a full crop. Rubbee crop will be bad.
Burdwan Div. 2	Bankoora, „ 17 „	Nil	Weather—cool and clear. The crops have now reached that stage at which no improvement nor further deterioration is expected, and are now ready for the sickle The tract round Sonamukhi in the Bishenpore sub-division and thana Onda in the Sudder sub-division appear to be worst, but taking the district as a whole, the estimate of 8 annas all round, taking bad lands with good, will prove correct. If rain should fall now the cold-weather crop might be saved. Public health good.
Burdwan Div. 3	Beerbhoom, „ 17 „	Nil	Weather—rather warm for the season. Outturn of amun crop on high lands expected to be much below average. Price of rice still rising. Public health fair.
Burdwan Div. 4	Midnapore, „ 17 „	Nil	Weather—seasonable. Prospects of crops generally unfavourable. Fever still prevalent in the Sudder and Ghatal sub-divisions.
Burdwan Div. 5	Hooghly, „ 17 „	Nil	Weather—seasonable. Prospects of crops bad. (2) That in the following Municipalities births and deaths were reported to have occurred at the highest rates:—

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Therm and from observations made at 6h., 10h., 16h., and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verifi Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard Newman's formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables compu Meteorological office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The direction of the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograp

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

36. Emigrants shall wash their clothes at least twice a week when possible, and shall bathe daily. A liberal supply of soap shall be provided for the purpose.

Appliances for ablution purposes.

37. Emigrants shall not be permitted to wash their clothes and persons in the depôt tanks, but approved appliances for ablution purposes shall be specially provided on a suitable site so drained as to prevent the waste water from returning into the tank or other sources of water-supply. The water for all purposes shall be frequently examined by the Medical Inspector, and the contractor or his agent shall be held responsible for any failure in providing good, wholesome water.

Airing of emigrants' clothing.

38. Emigrants shall be compelled to dust out and air their clothes and blankets daily, and shall not be allowed to remain in damp clothes.

Cooking and feeding arrangements.

39. Regular hours shall be set apart for cooking and feeding; and no cooking shall be allowed at any other time except for invalids, nor in any place except the cooking sheds, where alone emigrants shall feed and smoke.

Daily inspection of meals by depôt medical officer.

40. The rations issued daily to each labourer and dependent in depôt shall be according to the scale laid down in Schedule B; and the meals and drinking water shall invariably be examined by the resident medical officer before being served out. When necessary, food suitable for infants and invalids (fresh milk, soup, sago, &c.,) shall be freshly prepared and regularly supplied throughout the twenty-four hours. Any neglect of infants or invalids on the part of the contractor, his agent, or resident medical officer, shall render such contractor liable to cancellation of license, or such agent or medical officer to the loss of appointment.

Cleaning of cooking utensils.

41. After meals the resident medical officer shall see that the cooking sheds are carefully swept out, that all cooking utensils are thoroughly cleaned, and that no stale food is secreted either by the cooks or emigrants.

Employment of emigrants.

42. Excepting the hospital, latrines, drains, and receptacles for kitchen and other filth, which shall be kept constantly cleaned by the sweepers, the garden, sheds, and every part of the depôt shall be kept clean and in good order by the emigrants. The emigrants if they consent to work shall be regularly employed, but without fatigue, and kept as much as possible in the open air.

Cleanliness of depôt premises.

43. The peons on duty shall be constantly about the depôt and shall preserve order and cleanliness everywhere, especially during cooking and feeding and inspections. They shall see that no jungle or rubbish is permitted to accumulate in the depôt compound; that the spaces under and around the sleeping and other sheds are kept clean; and that the sweepers do their work regularly.

Prevention of other use of sleeping sheds.

44. No cooking, feeding, or smoking shall be permitted in the sleeping sheds, which shall be kept thoroughly clean, well ventilated, and water-tight.

Prevention of overcrowding in sleeping sheds.

45. The emigrants shall be properly distributed at night in their sleeping sheds, according to the number each shed is licensed to accommodate, and shall be prevented from crowding together.

Extinguishing of lights at night.

46. Excepting locked lanterns hung in the dispensary, hospital, and at the entrance of every sleeping shed, and a light in the durwan's room, all lights and fires shall be put out by 9 o'clock at night.

Disposal of excreta.

47. Excreta from the hospital or latrines, and filth of any description, shall not be buried within at least one thousand feet of any source of drinking water; nor be thrown into stagnant pools and nullahs, which may happen to be near the depôts.

Vaccination of emigrants.

48. The contractor or his agent shall arrange with the Vaccination Department for the vaccination of every emigrant unprotected from small-pox as soon as possible after admission into the depôt.

Treatment of sick emigrants.

49. Sick emigrants, excepting those suffering from cholera or other dangerously communicable disease and otherwise provided for, shall not be sent to any other than the depôt hospital; nor be removed thence, nor from the depôt, without the written permission of the Medical Inspector.

Procedure on outbreak of serious communicable disease.

50. In the event of cholera or small-pox or other dangerously communicable disease appearing in the depôt, every labourer or dependent attacked shall immediately be sent to the authorized hospital for treatment, and the relatives of the affected persons, if any, not accompanying the patient shall at the same time be placed in the segregation shed situated in an isolated part of the depôt compound, and shall not be removed thence without the written permission of the Medical Inspector. A report of the case shall then be submitted to the Medical Inspector, and within twenty-four hours the Superintendent shall be furnished with a descriptive statement, in the prescribed form (No. 17), of every emigrant sent to the authorized hospital, together with the reason for such removal. In the event of any emigrant sent to hospital dying or being permitted to return to the depôt, the death or re-admission of such emigrant shall be similarly reported to the Superintendent in form (No. 18).

Destruction of infected clothing.

51. Clothing, blankets, and mats that have been in contact with persons suffering from dangerously communicable disease (e.g. small-pox or cholera), hospital dressings, foul rags, and all combustible filth, shall be regularly and thoroughly burnt in a safe and suitable place, and in the presence of the resident medical officer. The segregation shed, immediately it ceases to be occupied, shall be carefully cleaned out and disinfected by fumigation or other efficient means.

Disposal of property of deceased emigrants.

52. On the death of any intending emigrant, the contractor, or agent, or medical officer shall immediately make an inventory of the property of such emigrant in a register in the prescribed form (No. 21), to be kept for the purpose, and shall forward such property as early as practicable to the office of the Superintendent for disposal. The claims made by relatives in depôt, if any, shall duly be communicated to the Superintendent, who shall, after making enquiry as to the heirs, dispose of the estate as circumstances may render necessary.

Procedure on contractors failing to provide contract.

53. Emigrants who are not engaged within thirty days of their arrival at any depôt shall be returned through the Superintendent's office to the districts where registered at the expense of the contractor, except when such emigrants elect to continue in such depôt in the hope of being ultimately engaged, or desire to be transferred to the depôt of some other contractor, or prefer to be discharged from the depôt; in which last case they shall, previous to discharge, be paid such compensation as may be ordered by the Superintendent. At the close of every month the contractor or his agent shall forward to the Superintendent's office a statement in the prescribed form (No. 22) of all the emigrants remaining in depôt over thirty days without execution of contract.

Disposal of rejected emigrants.

54. All emigrants that are declared by the Medical Inspector to be unfit to emigrate, and are finally rejected by the contractor or his agent, shall be returned through the Superintendent's office to the districts of registration at the expense of the contractor, unless they of their own accord insist on being discharged on the spot, when they shall be treated, save in respect of compensation in the same manner as emigrants for whom contractors fail to find employment.

Medical examination of rejected emigrants.

55. All rejected emigrants shall be examined by the Medical Inspector on the day that they are to be returned to their districts; and only those that are certified by him to be able to travel shall be forwarded to the Superintendent's office for disposal, while the rest shall be detained in depot under treatment until the Medical Inspector certifies to their being in a fit state to undertake the journey.

Application for execution of labour contracts.

56. When the employer or his agent has selected in any depôt the labourers required by him, a written application for the placing of such labourers on contract shall be sent by the contractor concerned or his agent to the Superintendent of Emigration at least one day before the date fixed upon for execution of contract.

Arrangements for examination of labourers.

57. Labourers intending to execute contracts, when placed before the Superintendent, shall have their copies of registration in their hands; and their blankets, clothing, and utensils, according to the scale prescribed in Schedule A, arranged beside them for inspection.

Knowledge and acceptance of terms by labourers.

58. The Superintendent, when placing labourers on contract, shall invariably satisfy himself that the employer or his agent has affixed his signature to all the contract papers, and that the labourers thoroughly understand and accept the terms and conditions of the contract they are executing. An abstract of every such contract shall be entered in a register to be kept by the Superintendent in the prescribed form (No. 19).

Medical inspection of contract labourers.

59. Labourers who have executed contracts shall be inspected by the Medical Inspector before despatch from the depôt with reference to their fitness to travel; and to that end a written application for such final inspection shall be forwarded by the contractor concerned or his agent to the Medical Inspector at least one day previous to the date of the intended despatch of such labourers to the districts for which engaged.

(b) If the batch proceeds to Káchár or Sylhet, the person in charge must place the emigrants, with this way-bill, before the Embarkation Agent or Magistrate at the place of embarkation, and also before the Magistrate or Sub-divisional Officers of all stations passed on the way, where such officers are readily accessible, and also before the debarkation officer at the place of their final landing; or should this not be possible, then, without fail, before the Magistrate of the district or sub-division in which the garden where the labourers are to work is situate, who will, after endorsing his remarks on the way-bill and filling in abstract, return it to the person in charge of the batch, for delivery to the employer. After perusal and entry of casualties on the journey to garden, the employer must return the way-bill to the Magistrate of the district or sub-division, who, in turn, should forward it to the Embarkation Agent or Magistrate concerned in the embarkation, for information and transmission to the Superintendent of Emigration at Calcutta.

3. Calcutta route to Chittagong.—If the batch proceeds to Chittagong or Chittagong Hill Tracts, the person in charge must place the emigrants, with this way-bill, before the Magistrate at the place of disembarkation, who will, after endorsing his remarks on the way-bill and filling in abstract, return it to the person in charge of the batch, for delivery to the employer. After perusal and entry of casualties in the journey to garden, the employer must return the way-bill to the Magistrate of the district or sub-division, who, in turn, should forward it to the Superintendent of Emigration at Calcutta for information.

4. Treatment of emigrants on the journey.—The person in charge must take every care of the emigrants during the journey. He must give them a cooked meal before they start; and if the journey is likely to occupy more than six hours, he must distribute biscuits and sugar in the proportion of two biscuits and one ounce of sugar to each emigrant of, and above, ten years of age, and one biscuit and half an ounce of sugar to each emigrant under the age of ten years; and if more than eight hours, dry provision must be supplied, such as choora, sutto, and the like, in such quantity as may be determined by the Superintendent of Emigration or other authorized officer. It must be seen that the clothing provided is worn by the emigrants whenever the weather renders such a precaution necessary. At the close of every day's march, or of a train journey, the emigrants must be properly housed, and provided with a cooked meal and wholesome supply of water for drinking and ablution purposes.

5. Any special instructions.—

6. Obedience to instructions.—The instructions on the way-bill must be strictly complied with, and any failure to do so, or ill-treatment of any emigrant, will render the person in charge of the batch liable to punishment under the provisions of section 153 of Act I of 1882, or, in case he is a sardar, to refusal of certificate thereafter.

CHAPTER IV.

TRANSPORT.

Section 1.—General Rules.

Supervision of embarkation depôts.

80. The Medical Inspector at every place of embarkation shall see that the embarkation depôts are kept in proper order, and shall exercise the same powers in respect of them as are exercised in respect of depôts by Medical Inspectors, reporting, for the information of the Superintendent concerned, any failure of contractors or their employés to attend to his orders. Water and conservancy arrangements shall receive special attention.

Measurement of deck space.

81. Exclusive of hospital, gangways, ventilating hatches, and space for crew and attendants, and in respect of boats for rowing and bailing out, properly sheltered deck space shall be provided on board steamers, flats, or boats at the rate of ten superficial feet to each emigrant, computed with reference to section 92 of the Act, during the months of November, December, and January, and of twelve superficial feet for the remaining months of the year. In steamers of the daily mail service, besides suitable and available space on main deck, fore and after cabins also may be measured for the accommodation of emigrants, at an increased rate per emigrant of twelve and fourteen superficial feet respectively.

Measurement of hospital space.

82. Hospital space shall be provided for five per cent. of the total number of emigrants to be carried, computed with reference to section 92 of the Act, but such space shall be allotted at double the rate allowed for healthy adults, viz. twenty or twenty-four superficial feet to each statute adult, according to season, making reasonable allowance for space occupied by other requirements.

Section 2.—Fittings of Steamers and Flats.

Engineers and shipwright surveyors' certificates.

Situation of fittings of emigrant vessels.

84. All fittings shall be provided entirely on board that vessel which is to convey the emigrants to their destination; but, if necessary, and with the Medical Inspector's consent, the hospital may be provided on an upper deck of the adjoining flat or steamer, if it accompany for the entire journey.

Roofs of emigrant vessels.

85. The roof of every vessel shall be strong, watertight, and not less than five feet in height at its junction with the stanchions on either side. If of corrugated iron, the roof must not only be lined or thatched with matting, &c., as a protection against heat, but, on steamers, must also be fitted either with skylights or ridge-ventilators, which shall have a ventilating area of not less than ten superficial feet to every hundred emigrants, computed as in section 92 of the Act, accommodated on board, and shall be so constructed as to exclude rain and allow the free escape of heated air. In steamers of the daily mail service, the ventilating area may be reduced to not less than six superficial feet to every hundred emigrants.

Enclosure of deck space for emigrants.

86. The space measured off for emigrants shall be fitted along the sides of the vessel, with a boarding three feet high, rising from the planksheer of the vessel, and with thick and sound canvas curtains hanging from roof to deck, with ventilating space under the eaves, and fastening closely to the deck below. But from the months of October to March, both inclusive, the three feet boarding shall completely enclose the emigrants' deck space, and, besides the side curtains, there shall be similar curtains hung, one at each end of the deck, so as to convert the entire space allotted to emigrants into a thoroughly sheltered compartment, with ventilating spaces near the roof for the exit of heated and unwholesome air. This large compartment shall, moreover, be subdivided into three smaller compartments by a couple of intermediate curtains stretched right across the deck space, from one side of the vessel to the other; but these two curtains, instead of extending almost up to the roof, as those at the sides and ends must do, shall be raised to a height of six feet only, measuring from the deck upwards, the space above being left clear and open for the purposes of free ventilation. In steamers of the daily mail service, the height of the boarding may be reduced to not less than two feet nine inches, and such boarding may not be continued round the stern of the vessel; but a suitable removable curtain following the iron rail may be substituted therefore.

Protection of emigrants' deck space against wet.

87. The space for emigrants shall be protected also against spray from the paddle-wheels; otherwise the space opposite the paddleboxes on both sides of steamer, and on one side of a flat, if it is to be lashed alongside during the voyage, shall not be measured for the accommodation of emigrant passengers.

Casing of funnel.

88. In order to prevent the heat of the funnel from raising the temperature of the emigrants' deck, in all steamers, in which the space immediately over the engines is neither excluded and railed off, nor ventilated above by skylights or other means, that portion of the funnel between such passengers' deck and the roof shall be enclosed, at a distance of at least eighteen inches all round, by a strong wooden air-shaft or casing, which shall be carried through the deck at the lower end, and through the roof at the upper, so as to afford free exit above the roof for the body of warm air immediately surrounding the funnel. In steamers of the daily mail service, such wooden casing may be dispensed with, if the iron casing provided for exit of warm air is found to be sufficiently protective, but not otherwise.

Situation of hospital.

89. The space intended for hospital purposes shall be provided on the upper deck of the steamer or flat, and a canvas screen shall divide it off from the rest of the deck space.

Compartment for dispensary.

90. A suitable compartment, approved by the Medical Inspector, shall be set apart for a dispensary; and bamboos shall be fastened, fore and aft, along the central stanchions within the emigrants' deck space, in order to enable the emigrants to hang up their bundles and blankets for the day.

Railing in of unprotected openings.

91. All dangerously exposed places near hatches, ladders, bathing places, latrines, communication and landing stages, shall be securely railed in against accidents.

Embarkation and landing stages.

92. Embarkation, landing, and all communicating stages likely to be used by emigrants, shall be at least three feet wide, well fastened, and provided with hand-rails—a requirement that shall be strictly complied with whenever emigrants are to be embarked or landed. In steamers of the daily mail service, the width of the stages may not be less than two feet.

Cabooses for emigrants.

93. One or two fire-proof cabooses, fitted inside with brick and plaster, and sufficiently large to accommodate the full number of boilers, according to scale, shall be firmly secured in the after part of the vessel, and so placed as to prevent any risk of contamination from the hospital.

Iron tanks for drinking water.

94. Four iron water-tanks, each capable of containing four hundred gallons of water, shall be provided on board, and each such tank shall be fitted with at least three moderate-sized taps, of simple construction, capable of being secured against use when desirable, and with a padlocked iron cover, besides a canvas over-all to exclude dust, &c. A ship's force-pump, with hose complete shall also be provided for the exclusive purpose of supplying water to the tanks, and shall on no ground whatever, excepting an outbreak of fire on board, be otherwise used. These tanks shall be conveniently placed, and filled before the arrival of the steamer at the place of embarkation, with the best water available, for the exclusive use of the emigrants. The water of two of the tanks only shall be in use at the same time, the remaining two tanks being reserved as settling tanks. In steamers of the daily mail service, the tanks may be reduced to two, each capable of containing 200 gallons of water, and may be placed below, with a pump arrangement on deck, for the supply of water for drinking and looking purposes through three moderate-sized taps.

Troughs for washing purposes.

95. Every vessel licensed to carry emigrants shall be provided with a covered trough, fitted with at least six large and simple taps, placed at such distances apart as to admit of six persons abreast washing their clothes at the same time, and connected with a fixed pump for the constant supply of water therein. Two such troughs shall be provided when the number of emigrants to be carried exceeds three hundred, computed with reference to section 92 of the Act.

Arrangements for bathing of emigrants.

96. A sufficiently large and well protected space for bathing shall be set apart for the use of the emigrants, and shall be fitted with a suitable showerbath of simple construction, and capable of distributing the shower over a large area, with a moveable canvas screen, to be invariably used when women are bathing, and with a suitable pump for supplying water thereto, which may be utilized also for filling the trough.

Latrines for emigrants.

97. Latrines with doors in front shall be securely fitted as far aft as possible, and at some distance from the deck space for emigrants from their drinking water, and from the cooking places, &c., and in every compartment a metal vessel, secured by a chain, shall be provided for drawing river water for washing purposes. The inside of every compartment, as well as the metal vessel and chain, shall be painted with coal-tar—a process that shall be repeated at the close of every trip after the compartment has been thoroughly cleaned. In steamers of the daily mail service, three latrines may be provided in one of the sponson-deck houses, to be set apart exclusively for the purpose.

Size and number of latrines.

98. There shall be two separate sets of latrines for males and females respectively placed, if possible, on opposite sides of the deck, and each set shall consist of at least four compartments for the use of any number up to two hundred emigrants, and of one additional compartment for every hundred in excess of the first two hundred, reference in counting numbers being had to section 92 of the Act. In steamers of the daily mail service, the deck-house set apart for the latrines shall have at least three compartments for males and three compartments for females.

Lanterns.

99. Lanterns shall be hung up in their places ready for use.

Boats and life-buoys.

100. Two life-buoys shall hang over or near the stern of every vessel, and the boats shall be in good working order, and fitted with requisites for immediate use, when necessary. In steamers of the daily mail service, the number of buckets may be reduced to ten.

Provision of fire-engine and appliances.

101. All emigrant passenger vessels shall have on board a fire-engine, with a sufficiently long flexible hose, that would be capable of discharging water over every part of the vessel; fire-buckets, and all other appliances needful in case of fire. The fire-buckets shall be twenty in number, and they, as well as all other fittings, shall always be kept in a proper place, in good order, and be ready for use on the shortest notice.

Prevention of passengers from crossing over to another vessel.

138. The emigrant passengers as a rule shall not be required to labour during the passage, but in exceptional cases of urgent necessity only such of them as are considered by the medical officer to be well fitted for work may be employed, provided that such work is free from extraordinary risk to life, and that the master supplies those so employed with extra rations at the rate of two and a half chittacks of rice and half a chittack of dâil for each man per diem. The emigrants should always be encouraged to occupy their time with reasonable amusements.

Engagement of labourers in work.

Distribution of emigrants at night.

140. The master of every licensed vessel, on arrival at every place where a Magistrate is stationed, shall report to such Magistrate the number of passengers and crew on board, the general state of their health, and the number of deaths that occurred on the passage; and omission to do so shall entail prosecution or refusal of license to carry emigrants thereafter.

DEPOSIT.
When the amount bid is less than Rs. 1,200 per chest, Rs. 200 per chest.
On bids of Rs. 1,200 and upwards, but less than Rs. 1,600 per chest, Rs. 300 per chest.
On bids of Rs. 1,600 and upwards, but less than Rs. 2,000 per chest, Rs. 400 per chest.
And so on, Rs. 100 being added to the deposit for every bid additional, to the extent of Rs. 400.

6.—The said promissory notes shall be absolutely payable in any event, and the amount thereof shall be absolutely forfeited upon such default as before mentioned, and the amount thereof shall not go or be credited in reduction of any loss on re-sale or expenses thereby incurred, but shall be recoverable whether such re-sale shall be had or not, or whether there shall be a loss on such re-sale or not.

7.—The Promissory Notes taken on the day of sale under the fifth condition, if remaining unredeemed at 3-30 P.M. of the fifth day following the day of sale, or 1-30 P.M. if the last day falls on a Saturday, will be placed in the hands of the Solicitor to the Government for realization in such manner as to him shall seem fit.

8.—No tender of money, Bank of Bengal Receipts, or public securities, on account of opium upon which the prescribed deposit may not have been made before the prescribed time in clause 5 on the fifth day following the day of sale, will be afterwards accepted. Provided always that money so subsequently tendered may be taken in payment of the said Promissory Note, but such acceptance of money shall in no way entitle the payer thereof to any right to delivery of the lot or lots in respect whereof the said note was given, or to any of the rights of a purchaser thereof, or release the payer from liability for any unpaid balance of such notes or from the additional liability for the loss and expenses of such re-sale as provided for in clauses No. 5 and No. 6.

9.—The opium advertised for sale shall be paid for not later than by 3-30 P.M. of the fifteenth day from the day of sale, provided it does not fall on a Saturday; if it falls on a Saturday, the opium must be paid for by 1-30 P.M.; and in case any lots of such opium shall not be so paid for and adjusted, then the cash deposit made under the fifth condition, any public securities that may have been deposited on account of such lots or chests, shall be forfeited, and the opium shall be disposed of on account of Government at such time and in such manner as the Board of Revenue shall think fit; and the first purchaser shall further be required to make good all expenses and any loss or difference of price between that obtained at the re-sale and the amount at which the opium was first purchased, forfeiting all advantages that may arise from such re-sale, and the liability for the loss or difference of price and expenses shall be in addition to, and wholly independent of, the amount of the deposit so forfeited.

10.—Purchasers taking out certificates or orders for the delivery of opium after making full payment as above prescribed, shall have the option of naming the number of lots of their purchase, which they may desire to be included in each certificate or order; and it is to be clearly understood that the certificates or orders so taken out shall be considered final, and not afterwards changeable for other certificates or orders authorizing the delivery of single lots, or of a different number of lots or chests, whether more or less, than the number of lots or chests originally required to be included in each certificate or order.

11.—No deposit of public securities under the fifth of the present conditions will be received in this office except from the party recorded as the purchaser in the sale-book, or his authorized agent. The receipt for deposit of public securities will be granted only in the name of such purchaser, and the securities so deposited will be returned when payment in full has been made by the said purchaser or his order.

12.—The officer superintending the sale on the part of the Government is empowered to reject, at his discretion, the bid of any individual, unless such individual shall on demand tender at the time a deposit either in Government of India Notes, Bank of Bengal Receipts, or Government Securities, a sum equal to the amount for which a Promissory Note would otherwise be taken under the fifth of these conditions.

13.—With a view to prevent fictitious biddings designed to obstruct the sale, it is hereby notified that the officer of Government superintending the sale shall be competent, at any time during the sale, to withdraw any unsold lot, and immediately to put it up again for sale at a maximum upset price, diminishing the same gradually until a bid is obtained; and the first bonâ fide bidder for a lot after it has been offered for sale in the mode here described shall be held and declared to be the purchaser of the said lot, and the officer of Government superintending the sale shall also be competent to dispose, in the same manner, of as many of the subsequent lots as he may think proper, provided always that no lot shall be sold below the minimum price of Rs. 800 specified in the second of these conditions.

14.—The purchaser of any lot shall have the option of naming and purchasing in immediate succession, at the same price and under the same conditions, any number of lots of the same Agency opium not exceeding altogether twenty-five lots, provided always that there remain a sufficient number of lots of the opium to complete the said twenty-five.

15.—In the event of any dispute or difference touching or concerning any matter or question arising out of the sale of the opium included in this notification, or adjustment of the account thereof, the same shall and may be tried and decided in the High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal.

16.—The following papers will be exhibited for inspection on the day of sale, or may be seen previously to that date by personal application at the office of the Board of Revenue:—No. 1, certificate of the opium advertised for sale; No. 2, report of the examination of such opium.

17. The public are hereby informed that in providing the investment of the opium manufactured at the Patna factory and the opium manufactured at the Ghazeepore factory for the year 1882-83, the same precautions have been taken as those which have been observed during past years to have the drug procured and sent down in a pure state, to have only the prescribed quantity of leaves used in forming the cakes, and to have the due proportion of opium put into each cake. An account of the weight of the drug when packed at the Patna and Ghazeepore factories, and a statement of the average weight of the chests, indiscriminately taken, for the purpose of comparison, from the despatches on arrival at Calcutta, may be seen on personal application at the Office of the Board of Revenue.

18. The public are hereby informed that the opium manufactured at the Patna factory in season 1882-83 consists of opium made at consistences of 73°, 74°, and 75°, and that the opium manufactured at the Ghazeepore factory in the same season consists of opium made at consistences of 70°, and 75°. The consistence of the opium which will be sold each month will be mentioned in the sale notification of that month.

19. Any further information respecting weight or quality of the opium advertised for sale that may be desired by parties connected with the trade will, as heretofore, be furnished to them on personal application at the office of the Board of Revenue. But, in accordance with established usage, under no circumstances will the Board of Revenue entertain or recognize any claim to compensation for loss from any alleged deficiency of weight, abstraction of opium, or adulteration of the drug, which may be preferred on reference to chests after the sale and delivery of the opium for shipment.

20. It is hereby further notified that under the 6th Article of the Convention between Great Britain and France, dated the 7th March 1815, quoted below, the Agents in India of the French Government, or persons duly appointed by them, are entitled to demand that out of the quantities of opium manufactured at the Patna and Ghazeepore factories declared as above for sale at the twelve sales of the year 1884, there shall be delivered to them, at the average of the particular sale or sales to which the opium so applied for may belong, a quantity not exceeding in the aggregate 300 chests, and the Agents of the French Government must make requisition specifying the quantity of opium required by them at any particular sale within thirty days from the advertisement of such intended sale: provided, however, that the Agent of the French Government may make such requisition for the whole quantity within thirty days from the publication of this notification. If the Agent of the French Government shall not make the requisition for opium within the time above mentioned, the entire quantity of about 47,550 chests of opium manufactured at the Patna and Ghazeepore factories, as above estimated, will be brought to sale in the usual manner; and if they shall make application for a quantity of opium to be delivered to them out of the quantity advertised for sale at each or any of the twelve sales above-mentioned, but shall not pay for it within the prescribed period of payment, the Government of Bengal reserves to itself the right of disposing of the opium which the French authorities may so fail to pay for, either by increasing the quantity reserved at the sale next ensuing after the date fixed for payment, or by selling such opium, or any portion of it, at any subsequent monthly sale in addition to the quantity which in this advertisement is approximately mentioned as the quantity to be sold at such sale; or by selling such opium at a sale to be held expressly for the purpose.

Article of the Convention above referred to.

"Article VI.—With regard to the trade in opium, it is agreed between the high contracting parties that at each of the periodical sales of that article there shall be reserved for the French Government, and delivered upon requisition duly made by the Agents of His Most Christian Majesty, or by the persons duly appointed by them, the number of chests so applied for, provided that such supply shall not exceed three hundred chests in each year, and the price for the same shall be determined by the average rate at which opium shall have been sold at every such periodical sale, it being understood that if the quantity of opium applied for at any one time shall not be taken on account of the French Government by the Agents of His Most Christian Majesty within the usual period of delivery, the quantity so applied for shall nevertheless be considered as so much in reduction of the three hundred chests hereinbefore mentioned. The requisitions for opium, as aforesaid, are to be addressed to the Governor-General at Calcutta within thirty days after notice of the intended sales shall have been published in the Government Gazette."

RESOLUTION ON THE CALCUTTA ZOOLOGICAL GARDENS FOR 1882-83.

REVENUE DEPARTMENT—MISCELLANEOUS.

Calcutta, the 26th November 1883.

RESOLUTION.

READ —

The Report of the Committee for the Management of the Calcutta Zoological Gardens for the year 1882-83.

THE Gardens have now been established for nine years, and they have been since their creation one of the most popular, as well as useful, public institutions of the metropolis. The progress made in their general improvement and their present condition reflect much credit on the Committee of Management and the Honorary Secretaries who have from time to time had direct charge of them. The necessity for such an institution was first recognized in 1875, and the site at Alipore was acquired by the Government at a cost of two lakhs of rupees. The Government also contributed Rs. 5,000 towards the cost of laying out the grounds and erecting the requisite buildings, and large donations were received from the nobility and gentry of the province and other parts of India for the same purpose.

2. The Gardens were intended to provide recreation, instruction, and amusement for all classes of the community; to facilitate scientific observation of the habits of animals, more especially those peculiar to tropical climates; to promote the science of zoology by the interchange, import, and export of animals; and to encourage the acclimatization, domestication and breeding of animals, and improve the indigenous breed of cattle and farm-stock. These objects they have fulfilled, with the exception of the last, and, with regard to this, measures are now being taken to introduce cattle from Australia for the improvement of the native breed. A grant of Rs. 3,500 was made by this Government to the Committee in the past year, to enable them to procure four young elephants from the Government Kheddahs for despatch to the Melbourne Acclimatization Society in exchange for Australian cattle of good stock, and with these the Committee will be able to start operations for breeding purposes on the plot of land made over to them some time since at Begubari. Already the arrangements have been nearly completed for the laying out of these grounds and for the construction of the necessary sheds and paddocks.

3. The Committee of Management, composed of official and non-official gentlemen, was appointed at the close of 1875, and the Government defrayed the cost of the Gardens up to a monthly limit of Rs. 200 until the year 1877, when, with the consent of the Government of India, they were taken over as a Government Department. Their position has since been that of an institution managed by a Committee appointed by, and subject to the orders of, the Government, and aided to a maximum extent of Rs. 20,000 a year from Provincial funds, the balance of the expenditure being met from contributions received from the public, gate-money, and miscellaneous receipts. The Government of India has, however, lately approved of proposals for an alteration in their constitution, to which effect will shortly be given. The donors and subscribers will then form themselves into a Society to carry out the purposes of the Gardens, the members being recognised as Fellows of the Zoological Society of Bengal; and the management will be vested in a Committee consisting of four members appointed by the Society, several ex officio members, and any other gentlemen whom the Government may nominate.

4. The total income of the Gardens during the past year amounted to Rs. 41,149 against Rs. 45,612 in 1881-82. The report shows a considerable falling off in the donations and subscriptions, these having amounted to only Rs. 1,500, against Rs. 10,850 in 1880-81, and Rs. 6,400 in 1881-82. The income from this source is necessarily precarious, and the large amounts received in former years cannot be continuously expected, although, it is hoped, the receipts will still be often much larger than they were in the past year.

5. In October 1883 a uniform entrance fee of one anna was introduced for all days of the week except Sunday evenings, when the charge is eight annas in place of the former charge of one rupee. The wisdom of this change is evidenced by the fact that during the first half of the year, when the old rates were still in force, the number of visitors fell off to the extent of 5,556, while during the second half, with the reduced rates, the number increased by 10,887, as compared with the corresponding period of the previous year. The popularity of the Gardens with the native community continues to increase, and the number of visitors paying the one-anna fee has risen from 82,185 in 1880-81, and 109,759 in 1881-82, to 120,463 in 1882-83. The total income at the turn-stile fell off by Rs. 1,539-8 during the past year, owing chiefly to smaller receipts from visitors paying the higher entrance fee; but this loss will doubtless be soon made up by a further increase in the visitors paying the one-anna fee, the Committee having now placed it within the power of the poorest to visit the Gardens at all hours of the day, except Sunday evenings. The fluctuations in the receipts of the past year under other heads do not call for remark.

Among the recent improvements, the most notable is the enclosure of the Gardens by iron railings at a cost of Rs. 7,884-8, which was met from a special grant assigned for the purpose by the Government.

6. The Committee's management of the Gardens during the year was, as usual, careful and efficient, and the Lieutenant-Governor thinks it especially satisfactory that, notwithstanding the smaller receipts from donations, subscriptions, and entrance fees, the accounts closed with a credit balance of Rs. 2,885, after payment of an initial debit balance of Rs. 1,314 in addition to the charges of the year.

Ordered that a copy of this Resolution be forwarded to the Honorary Secretary to the Committee of Management, Zoological Gardens, Calcutta.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

A. P. MACDONNELL,

Offg. Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

RESOLUTION ON THE REPORT ON THE ADMINISTRATION OF THE LICENSE-TAX FOR 1882-83.

FINANCIAL DEPARTMENT—LICENSE-TAX.

Calcutta, the 26th November 1883.

RESOLUTION.

READ—

The Report on the administration of the License-tax for 1882-83.

Read also—

The Report for 1881-82 and the Resolution recorded upon it.

No changes were made during the year under review in the system under which the license-tax is assessed and levied in Bengal. The number of special assessors was 47 against 46 in the previous year, one having been appointed for Noakholly, where the assessment in 1881-82 had been unduly low. Four special assessors were employed in Calcutta, and one in each of the districts of the Province, except Darjeeling and Singbhoom. The services of the assessor were allowed in five districts for eight months; in one for seven months; in six for six months; in one for five months; in 11 for four months; in 13 for three months; in one for two and a half months; and in four for two months. Nine of the assessors were of the rank of Sub-Deputy Collector, while the officer specially appointed to revise the assessment of the city of Patna was a Deputy Collector of the fourth grade. The instructions conveyed in paragraph 2 of the Resolution recorded last year were generally carried out, and the issue of notices was made on the basis of the corrected assessment lists of the previous year, as soon as possible after the expiry of the period allowed by sections 16 and 17 of the Act. The Board have also issued instructions, in accordance with the orders of Government, directing district officers to take in hand the revision of the assessment lists before the close of the year for which they have been in force, in order that the issue of notices and the collection of the tax may begin as soon after the opening of the year as possible. Towards the close of the year under review arrangements were made to relieve the assessors, as far as possible, of the duty of hearing or enquiring into objection cases. This work will in future be mainly performed by the sub-divisional officers and the Deputy Collectors at head-quarters. These arrangements were introduced too late in the year to produce much effect in 1882-83, but it is hoped that in the current year they will, by setting free a larger portion of the assessors' time, enable them to devote more attention to the work of new assessments.

2. The attention of the Board has been given to the provisions of the law under which no person may be assessed in more than one of the provinces of India, or in more than one district in a single province. Cases have come to light in which, mainly in consequence of concealment by the assessees, these provisions have been overlooked, and the Board are of opinion that it should be made compulsory on assessees to declare either on their first application for a license under section 6 of the Act, or on their assessment should they neglect to make such application, the several places where they have branch firms. This matter has formed the subject of correspondence between the Lieutenant-Governor, the Board, and the Chief Commissioner of the Central Provinces, and it has now been decided that, when a license is issued in such a case, the Collector shall grant a certificate to the person assessed, and shall simultaneously send a copy to the Collector of any district in which the licensee is known to have a branch business.

3. Out of a total number of 248,130 villages, 27,081, including 619 streets in Calcutta, were visited by the assessing officers, against 31,901 in the previous year. This falling off is attributable to the orders under which it was directed that the work of the assessors should be commenced where it left off in 1881-82, and that no attempt should, as a rule, be made to exhaustively revise the assessment of whole districts. Of the villages visited, 26,814 were found to contain assessees. Only 2,150 villages are said to have been visited by officers of the regular executive staff, against 4,824 in the previous year. The Board, however, point out that district and sub-divisional officers frequently keep no record of the number of villages in which enquiries are made during their cold-weather tours, so that the number of villages visited by officers, other than assessors, is not adequately represented by the figures returned. In the Dacca Division, where only 90 villages are said to have been visited by the permanent officers, compared with 663 visited last year, the Board have rightly directed the attention of the Commissioner to the subject. A creditable outturn of work is shown by the officers (other than assessors) of Singbhoom, Midnapore, Durbhunga, Chumparun, Chittagong, Noakholly, Tipperah, Khulna, Hooghly, and Backergunge. An insufficient number of villages is said to have been visited by assessors in the districts of Burdwan, Bankoora, Khulna, Julpigoree, and Maldah. In the first two districts, however, the work appears to have been well done in the selected areas, and the general results in Maldah are also good.

4. The gross number of assessments, including double entries, amounted to 81,185, as compared with 82,664 in the previous year. If double entries are eliminated, the gross number of persons assessed is shown to be 76,903. Of these 6,616 were exempted on objection, and 448 others on appeal, leaving 69,841 persons on the list of assessees on the 30th June 1883, as compared with 68,873 in 1881-82. The outstanding balance on 30th June 1882 was Rs. 12,590, and of this the greater part had to be remitted, the number of persons finally assessed in 1881-82 being only 68,103. The following table shows the number of assessees in each class in each of the last two years:—

	Tax assessed.	Number of Assessees.

These figures show that there was a falling off, as compared with 1881-82, of 33 assessees in class I, of 27 in class II, and of 27 in class III. The Lieutenant-Governor does not think that this is in accordance with the real course of trade during the year, and he fears that remissions may have been granted without sufficient cause, to the detriment of the revenues of the State.

5. If the population of Bengal is taken at 66½ millions, one person in every 951 paid the tax, the average incidence being Re. 1 to every 46 persons. If Calcutta be excluded, the average incidence was Re. 1 to every 64 persons. The incidence was highest in the following districts:—

Calcutta	1 person to Re. 1 of tax.	24-Pergunnahs	35 persons to Re. 1 of tax.
Darjeeling	18 persons „	Bogra	38 „ „
Howrah	25 „ „	Bhagulpore	38 „ „
Maldah	32 „ „	Monghyr	42 „ „

The average incidence in each division was:—

Bhagulpore	49 persons to Re. 1 of tax.	Burdwan	66 persons to Re. 1 of tax.
Dacca	59 „ „	Patna	74 „ „
Rajshahye	53 „ „	Chittagong	79 „ „
Presidency (omitting Calcutta)	61 „ „	Chota Nagpore	82 „ „
		Orissa	93 persons to Re. 1 of tax.

The lowness of the incidence of the tax in Patna, compared with that in the Bhagulpore, Rajshahye, and Burdwan Divisions, has been noticed in previous years. The Commissioner of Patna now writes thus:—"I would beg to submit that the population of the districts comprised in the Patna Division are more agricultural than perhaps those of the districts of any of the divisions mentioned above, and the proportion of persons carrying on any business, trade, or dealing to the general body of the people is much smaller here than in the divisions where the people are more advanced and have ceased from agriculture for trade." The Lieutenant-Governor admits the force of these considerations, which have all along never been lost sight of. The real question for consideration is, as was stated in the Resolution recorded last year, whether or not the municipalities of Patna and Behar have been properly assessed. The operations of the special assessor appointed for these municipalities were not begun until December 1882, and could have no effect on the assessment of the year under review; but Mr. Rivers Thompson thinks that, in view of the number of times that the attention of the local officers has been called to the subject the increase of Rs. 130, or ·4 per cent., which is reported over the assessment of 1881 82, is inadequate.

6. The number of objections lodged was 22,697, or 29·5 per cent. of the gross number of assessments made, the corresponding percentage in 1881-82 being 33·5. In 13,811 cases the assessments were upheld, in 2,267 they were modified by the transfer of the objector to a lower class, and in 6,616 cases the assessments were cancelled. The successful objections thus numbered 8,883, or 39 1 per cent. of the total number of petitions filed. In the previous year the corresponding figure was 39 per cent. The proportion of objections to assessments was highest in Cuttack (65·07 per cent.), Balasore (59·6), Pooree (56 05), Moorshedabad (48·8), Shahabad (45·8), Furreedpore (43·4), Rajshahye (43·4), Pubna (41·6), Bogra (40 9), and Sarun (40·4). The total number of appeals, including references to the Commissioner in Calcutta, where the Collector is only empowered to hear objections, was 2,063, against 2,406 in 1881-82. In 1,323 cases the assessment appealed against was upheld, in 261 it was modified, and in 448 cases the appellants were entirely exempted from payment of the tax. The right of appeal was most largely exercised in Cuttack, Calcutta, and Balasore. In Cuttack this was due to the improper proceedings of the special assessor appointed for the Killa of Banki, the greater part of whose assessments were subsequently reduced or cancelled. In the entire province, out of 76,903 assessments, 7,061, or 9·1 per cent., were cancelled on objection or appeal, and 2,531, or 3·2 per cent., were modified. This result, though poor in itself, and disappointing in the fifth year of the administration of the tax, compares favourably with the figures in the previous year, when out of 77,101 persons assessed, 8,228, or 10·6 per cent., were entirely and 2,848 were partially exempted. The number of appeals pending on June 30th was 28, against 139 in the previous year. The number of applications to Commissioners under section 21 of the Act was 66, exclusive of those in Calcutta. Of these, 44 were rejected, 6 were granted in part, and in 10 cases the assessments were cancelled. Six cases were pending at the close of the year. The majority of the references were made in the Bhagulpore, Orissa, and Patna Divisions.

7. The following table shows the demand, remissions, collections, and balance up to the end of June for each of the last two years :—

There was thus a reduction in the gross demand of Rs. 1,37,750 as compared with 1881-82. The comparative accuracy of the assessment is shown by the large reduction, amounting to 30 per cent., in the sums remitted before realization, and in the sums refunded. Remissions and refunds together amounted to Rs. 3,02,550. Of this sum, however, Rs 1,10,360 was re-assessed by the transfer of the assessees to some other class, the actual remissions and refunds thus amounting to only Rs. 1,92,190. Of this amount Rs. 1,61,865 was remitted before realization, and Rs. 30,325 was refunded after realization. The amount remitted or refunded under the operation of the rule under which a person is liable to be taxed in only one place in British India was Rs. 25,960. The net remissions and refunds therefore amounted to Rs. 1,66,230, or 10·1 per cent. of the gross demand of Rs. 16,30,300. There was a falling off in the total receipts from the tax up to the 30th June 1883 of Rs. 9,495, or ·6 per cent. The decrease is attributed partly to the transfer of certain assessments to Bombay and the North-Western Provinces, where the rules are more favourable to the higher classes, and partly to the two following causes:—viz. (1) the general depression in trade, and (2) the further revision of the assessments of the previous year. The Board are of opinion that, taking the province generally, the assessments have, on the whole, been made with sufficient scrutiny and care, and may be accepted as satisfactory. The Lieutenant-Governor finds it difficult to accept this view. Bengal pays much less in the shape of license tax in proportion to its population than the Punjab, Central Provinces, or North-Western Provinces, and very much less than Bombay; and it is scarcely open to question that were a perfect assessment possible, it would be found to yield a far larger revenue than 14 lakhs of rupees. It is difficult to believe that a yearly decrease in the proceeds of the tax really indicates anything but increased familiarity with the means of evading payment.

8. There was a falling off in the net receipts in five divisions, viz. Patna (3·4 per cent.), Bhagulpore (2·2), Presidency (2·2), Chota Nagpore (1·9), and Burdwan (·7). A decrease occurred in 24 districts, ranging from ·2 per cent. in the 24-Pergunnahs to 11·1 per cent. in Khulna. These districts were:—

In Khulna the falling off is attributed by the Board to the inadequacy of the work done by the special assessor, who visited only 30 villages during the two months he was employed. In Jessore, where 797 villages were visited by the assessor, the decline is attributed by the Collector to the depression of the sugar trade, and to the gradual rectification of the over-assessments of previous years. Certainly the number of successful objections was very large in this district. In Nuddea the depression is mainly due to the general stagnation of trade caused by the continued prevalence of epidemic fever. In Calcutta the collections up to 30th June 1883 amounted to Rs. 4,04,000, against Rs. 4,10,326 in the previous year. There was an increase of 475 in the total number of assessees owing to a large number of new assessments in the three lowest classes, but the increase in the demand due to this source was more than counterbalanced by the extensive reductions in the three highest classes. "The falling off is ascribed by the Collector partly to the licenses having been taken out in other districts or provinces, and partly to the general depression in trade." The Board notice with satisfaction that the collections in Calcutta were completed before the end of June 1883.

9. Particular attention has been paid by the Board to the assessment of the Patna Division. The four districts of Durbhunga, Shahabad, Mozufferpore, and Sarun all show a decrease, ranging from 9·7 per cent. in Durbhunga to 5·4 per cent. in Sarun. Very full explanations have been submitted by the local officers, with the general result of showing that the reduction is due to a real falling off in trade, and not to imperfections in the assessment. In Durbhunga the amount paid by money-lenders fell by Rs. 1,460, that paid by grain-dealers by Rs. 3,226, and that paid by dealers in agricultural produce by Rs. 2,490. On the other hand, there was a rise in the amount paid by shop-keepers (Rs. 1,560), dealers in piece-goods (Rs. 1,340), and dealers in cloth (Rs. 800). The Collector of this district remarks:—"The Maharajah of Durbhunga and his brother, the Maharaj Kumar of Bachour, both lend money on interest. They are not taxed because they are not money-lenders by trade. But they compete with the men who are money-lenders by trade." This observation is not quite clear and the Board will be requested to enquire into the circumstances referred to by the Collector. In Shahabad the reduction chiefly occurred among money-lenders, dealers in agricultural produce, and dealers in piece-goods. The Collector observes that the assessing officers are quite aware of the importance of maintaining this source of revenue, and have neglected no means of doing so, and that it is not probable that any considerable number of persons really liable have altogether escaped taxation, or have been inadequately assessed. In Mozufferpore, where the decrease amounted to Rs. 2,138, or 5·5 per cent., it is stated to have occurred chiefly in the cases of bankers, contractors, grain-dealers, and dealers in animals and piece-goods. In Sarun the falling off is attributed by the Collector to the further revision of over-assessments made in 1880-81. The assessment of that year, which was largely above that of 1879-80, seems to have erred largely on the side of excess. Mr. Quinn, the present Collector, is an officer of large experience of Sarun and of the Patna Division, and the Lieutenant-Governor cannot but attach much weight to his opinion, that there are no sufficient reasons for believing that the district is now under-assessed. The explanations given by the district officers have been endorsed by the Commissioner and the Board, and are accepted by the Lieutenant-Governor.

10. In the Burdwan Division a decrease took place in Hooghly, Bankoora, Howrah, and Burdwan. In the first-named district this is said to be due chiefly to the careless way in which the work of the special assessor was done, many persons having been omitted who should have been made amenable. In Bankoora the decrease is attributed to the depression in the lac trade, and in the operations of the money and grain-lenders. In Burdwan and Howrah no clear explanation is given. In the Chota Nagpore Division the falling off, which was small, was shared by Lohardugga, Manbhoom, and Singbhoom. In the first-named district, where it was most considerable, it was due to the total stoppage of the sleeper trade, owing to the East India Railway Company having decided to use iron instead of wooden sleepers. Cattle-disease is also said to have been unusually prevalent in this division, and to have affected the profits of the pack-bullock traders. In the district of Mymensing, where extensive reductions and remissions had been made by the sub-divisional officer of Atia, a careful local enquiry was made by the Collector, who, in the result, satisfied himself of the justice and propriety of the Assistant Magistrate's action. The reduction was principally due to the fall in the price of salt, and to the general scarcity of money in consequence of the low prevailing price of jute and rice. In Tipperah, where the work of revision and assessment was carefully done, a decrease in the yield of the tax was caused by the fall in the price of food-grains, consequent on the abundant harvest of last year.

11. In the following 21 districts the receipts exceeded those of 1881-82 :—

The increase in Orissa, which was shared by all the districts of the division, was the result of the greater activity of trade, which led to a number of new assessments being made during the year under review. In Cuttack the annexation of Killa Banki led to an increase in the number of assessees in every class, although on subsequent enquiry many of the assessments made by the Sub-Deputy Collector had to be cancelled. Orders on this matter have been issued separately. The Board are of opinion that, notwithstanding the increase that has taken place, the district of Cuttack is still under-assessed as compared with Pooree and Balasore, and their remarks appear to be borne out by an inspection of the rate of incidence of the tax in the three districts. In Cuttack one rupee of tax is paid by 106 persons, against 78 in Pooree and 89 in Balasore. The work of the special assessor seems to have been unintelligently done, and it will be necessary to devote special attention to the assessment of this district for some time to come. In Rajshahye, which was unfavourably noticed in the Resolution recorded last year, there was an increase of Rs. 2,400, or 14·7 per cent., which occurred chiefly in the lowest grade. The incidence of the tax in this district is still low, being only 71 persons to each rupee of the tax, against a divisional average of 53. The Commissioner is of opinion that the district is under-assessed, and he has been desired by the Board to watch the assessments carefully.

12. In Rungpore the increase of 5·6 per cent. is due to the prosperous condition of the tobacco trade, which has given employment to a number of merchants and brokers belonging mostly to the lowest class. In Pubna and Dinagepore the under-assessments of the previous year have been corrected, and good work has been done in seeking out new assessees, especially in Dinagepore. The absence of sub-divisions in this district is again said to have militated against an accurate assessment. Good work was done in Furreedpore and Dacca, both by the special assessors and by the officers of the permanent staff, who visited a large number of villages and effected a material increase in the assessment of the two districts. In Midnapore, which was unfavourably noticed last year, the Lieutenant-Governor is glad to find that a marked improvement has been effected. "Every attempt," the Board write, "was made by the assessor, the sub-divisional officers, and the Deputy Collector in charge to effect a thorough revision of the assessment lists, after making careful enquiries throughout the district." More than 1,000 villages in all were visited, with the result that almost the whole of the falling off recorded in 1881-82 was made up. The Board are of opinion that Purneah is under-assessed, in spite of an increase of Rs. 590, or 1·9 per cent. The incidence of the tax in this district is only 60 persons to one rupee, one person in 1,111 being assessed, as compared with the divisional average (including the Sonthal Pergunnahs) of one to 832 persons, and 49 persons to a rupee. A considerable part of the provincial trade with Nepal passes through the district of Purneah, and it is feared that a part of this has escaped assessment. The attention of the local officers should be directed to this. In Chumparun and Gya the assessments were carefully revised, but it is stated that in the latter district a greater degree of activity would probably have led to the discovery of more assessees. The Lieutenant-Governor hopes this will be remedied in the current year. In Moorshedabad the slight improvement that was effected is said to be owing to the thorough revision of the assessments made by the special assessor over selected areas. The results obtained in this and other districts confirm the Board in the view that a thorough revision of selected areas is the correct principle by which alone the taxable income of a district can be arrived at. The Lieutenant-Governor concurs in this view, and approves the instructions which the Board propose to issue, directing district officers to state, when nominating the assessors, the portion of the district to be revised during the year. If this plan is judiciously carried out in future, and if assessors are relieved of the bulk of the work of hearing objections, a sensible improvement in the administration of the tax will be achieved.

13. The assessment of the Patna district has already been referred to. Compared with 1881-82, the result shows a small increase of Rs. 130, or ·4 per cent., which would have been greater but for the reduction of seven assessments in the second, third, and fourth classes. The special assessor visited 675 villages, of which 23 were found to contain assessees for the first time. As already mentioned, the investigation made by the Special Deputy Collector, Mr. A. J. Fraser, who was appointed to enquire into the assessment of the municipalities of Patna and Behar, was begun too late to affect the results of the past year's administration of the tax. A special report will be submitted by the Board on this subject, and the Lieutenant-Governor will await its receipt before passing final orders.

14. The actual remissions and refunds amounted to Rs. 1,92,190, or 11·7 per cent. of the total demand, as compared with Rs. 2,39,690, or 14·1 per cent. in the previous year The percentage was highest in Cuttack (37·3), Shahabad (25 4), Pubna (21·9), Jessore (20·9), Pooree (20·8), Balasore (20·5), Bogra (19·5), Howrah (18·01), Sarun (17·02), and Moorshedabad (16·09). The balance on 30th June 1883 amounted to Rs. 8,086-4-6, as compared with Rs. 12,590-3-9 in the previous year. The bulk of this is probably irrecoverable, and will have to be written off. The penalties and costs realized up to the 30th June amounted to Rs. 35,170-11-7, as compared with Rs. 50,033-4-6 in the previous year. The decrease indicates that assessees have been more punctual in the payment of the tax, and also that the assessments have been made with greater care and accuracy.

15. The Lieutenant-Governor has nothing to add to the remarks recorded last year with regard to the popular feeling on the subject of the tax. The experience of the past twelve months tends to confirm the view that, with the exception of those who have to pay the tax, and those who fear they may have to pay it, the people regard it with indifference. No one has yet discovered a tax which a conscious assessee would take a pleasure in paying, and in India all direct taxation must involve a risk of extortion and oppression being practised. But while the reluctance to pay will naturally remain, there is every reason to hope that the other element of unpopularity will gradually disappear. The people are now thoroughly aware of their liabilities and their rights under the law, and they have not been backward in contesting the former and asserting the latter. As the Commissioner of Burdwan reports, the tax "does not appear now to be more unpopular than any other tax, and this is all that can be expected." Provided stability of policy be maintained, there is every reason to think that, as experience in the details of administration is accumulated, the license-tax will become as well adapted to the circumstances of India as is possible for any form of direct taxation.

16. The names of the officers who are reported to have given special attention to this branch of their duties will be noted in the Appointment Department. The Lieutenant-Governor desires to thank the Board for their careful administration of this branch of the Revenue during the year.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

COLMAN MACAULAY,

Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

RESOLUTION ON THE ANNUAL REPORT OF THE ADMINISTRATION OF THE PORT OF CHITTAGONG IN 1882-83.

GENERAL DEPARTMENT—MARINE.

Calcutta, the 27th November 1883.

RESOLUTION.

READ—

The Annual Report of the administration of the Port of Chittagong in 1882-83.

THE Report again records a large increase in the trade of the Port, and, clearly, all that is now required to confirm the position of Chittagong as the main outlet for the produce of Eastern Bengal is the opening of the projected railway to Chandpore, in Tipperah, with subsequent extension to Assam. The advance in trade during the past year was due to larger exports of jute to the United Kingdom and Spain, the number of vessels which cleared with this produce having been more than double that in the previous year, and the receipt of a considerable amount of treasure from Mauritius and other places for the purchase of grain for export.

2. The number and tonnage of vessels visiting the Port during the last two years are shown in the following statement: —

It will be observed that the number of vessels trading with Europe increased in the past year from 25 to 39. Of these 7 imported salt from England and 32 cleared with jute, 29 going to Dundee, 2 to London, and 1 to New York. The shipments to the last two places were the first ever made, and they give promise of the opening up of a new trade in jute with those ports. The falling off in the number of European vessels in the foreign trade is attributed to a temporary cessation of trade with Ceylon; and the diversion of some Chittagong vessels to the carriage of jute from Naraingunge to Chittagong (this trade being, on the whole, safer and more profitable than commerce with more distant ports) has also caused a reduction in the number of vessels of this class engaged in the foreign and coasting trade. The large advance of 314 in the number of vessels on the Naraingunge inland trade is obviously accounted for by the expansion of the jute trade.

3. The total quantity of grain exported to both home and foreign ports in the past year was 81,315 tons, valued at Rs. 32,69,339, as compared with 82,478 tons, valued at Rs. 33,22,535, in the previous year. The exports to foreign ports declined from 43,374 to 39,138 tons, owing to an entire stoppage of demand for the time from Ceylon, and a less active trade with Mauritius, where low prices prevailed; while those to home ports increased from 39,104 to 42,177 tons, favourable prices on the Malabar Coast having attracted larger shipments to the ports in that part of India. The Report should in future furnish information regarding the quantity of jute exported, that being now the most important of its exports, both in quantity and value. The Annual Administration Report of the Division shows that the jute shipments during the past year amounted in value to Rs 73,23,050 against Rs. 44,86,319 in 1881-82. The staple imports of Chittagong are salt and mineral oil. The existence of large stocks in hand caused a decrease in the importation of salt in the past year, but there was an increase in the quantity of mineral oil introduced. The consumption of this oil by all classes of the people is growing rapidly, and it is also much used in the port for breaming and oiling ships' timbers.

4. The receipts of the Port Fund amounted to Rs. 78,339 against Rs. 60,827 in 1881-82, the increase being thus Rs. 12,512. Port dues from all classes of vessels form the largest source of revenue, and their amount rose last year from Rs. 33,739 to Rs. 39,709. Pilotage fees also yielded Rs. 26,330 against Rs. 17,080, and mooring fees Rs. 5,135 against Rs. 2,963 in 1881-82, but the remaining items fell from Rs. 7,405 to Rs. 2,166, this result being chiefly due to the fact that the interest accrued during the past year on the Government securities held by the Port Fund had not been ascertained and credited when the Report was submitted, and to a large advance made to a local contractor for the construction of a heave-up boat having been refunded in 1881-82, on his failure to carry out the contract. The increase in port dues, pilotage receipts, and mooring fees is clearly attributable to the increase of shipping during the year. The expenditure of the Port was Rs. 39,216 against Rs. 41,952 in 1881-82; and the net financial result of the administration of the past year was thus a surplus income of Rs. 34,123 (to which an addition has still to be made on account of interest on the Government securities belonging to the Port Fund), as compared with a surplus of Rs. 18,875 in the preceding year. The Port still requires considerable and expensive improvements to meet the growth of the trade and shipping, and these are being gradually undertaken. In addition to the fixed moorings supplied in 1881, ten sets of swinging moorings were laid down in the past year, and mooring accommodation is now available for 13 vessels, besides the regular mail steamers. Application has since been received from the Commissioner for a further supply of buoys for smaller vessels.

5. Ship-building in the Karnafuli river fell off during the year, the local traders having had the opportunity of purchasing several native vessels constructed elsewhere at a cheaper price than similar vessels would have cost if built on the spot. Only six vessels, with a tonnage of 906 tons, were built, against 10, with a tonnage of 1,259 tons, in the previous year. One vessel of over 400 tons was repaired in a temporary dock cut through the river bank, which was subsequently refilled, and others in creeks below the Port. Several large sailing vessels and steamers were also hauled up on the sands, scraped, cleaned, and painted.

6. The Port jetty is reported to be in good repair, but its utility has been impaired by the silting up of the river in its vicinity, and it is only used by small native craft loading salt for Naraingunge. The buoys in the river were overhauled, scraped, and painted during the year, and a new whistling buoy was laid on the South Patch Shoal, which is one of the chief dangers to navigation in the neighbourhood of Chittagong. The particulars furnished in the Report of the state of the river, from the Port down to the outer bar, show that there has been, on the whole, no deterioration in the stream. The most important changes took place in the outer bar, and there an obstruction was formed in mid channel, which, it was hoped, would be washed away by the freshets during the past rainy season. The river was thoroughly surveyed during the year by officers of the Indian Marine Survey, and a complete chart was prepared on a six-inch scale.

7. The number of casualties to the shipping during the year was 9, against 11 in the previous year, and serious damage was suffered in only two cases. The year was unfortunately marked by two wrecks on the coast near the Port, in one of which an English ship (the Macbeth) was lost. The want of a tug is much felt in the Port; but although the Lieutenant-Governor offered in the past year to grant aid towards the maintenance of one, the offer was not accepted on the basis of service throughout the year. It is not desirable to grant a subsidy except on the basis of continuous service throughout the year. In the Lieutenant-Governor's opinion the service should be undertaken, as in other ports, by private enterprise.

8. The conduct of the Chittagong Pilot Service appears to have been generally good; and the Lieutenant-Governor is glad to notice the terms of praise in which the Commissioner again speaks of Mr. Good, the Port Officer.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

A. P. MACDONNELL,

Offg. Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

CANAL REVENUE REPORTS FOR 1882-83.

PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT.—IRRIGATION.

No. 2132IA, dated Calcutta, the 22nd November 1883.

READ—

The Canal Revenue Reports for 1882-83 and Chief Engineer's note on the same.

THE expenditure (direct charges) on irrigation works in Bengal, chargeable to capital account, has up to the end of 1882-83 amounted to Rs. 5,65,06,409, divided as follows :—

	Rs.
Productive Public Works	5,33,17,265
Imperial Ordinary Works	8,27,724
Provincial Works	23,61,429
Total ...	5,65,06,409

The receipts from the canals, classed as productive public works for the last three years, are shown in the statement below :—

The balances of water-rates outstanding at the close of each of the last three years were as follows :—

	1st April 1881.	1st April 1882.	1st April 1883.
	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.

Sone Canals ...	4,64,261	4,36,849	3,11,665
Total ...	6,00,821	6,82,692	5,75,788

The gross receipts (Rs. 13,17,726) were Rs. 60,915 in excess of those of any year to date. The net revenue was, however, excluding interest, only Rs. 1,24,273 against Rs. 1,52,977 credited in 1881-82. This comparatively unfavourable result was due to increased working expenses, consequent on extensive silt clearing operations having been carried out in the Main Western Canal, and to heavier expenditure on the transport service in Orissa. The charge for interest on the capital invested, payable to the Imperial treasury, was Rs. 21,15,505, and the total deficit, taking these charges into account, was Rs. 19,91,232 against Rs. 19,22,211, the loss incurred in the year previous.

The low price of produce which was noticed in last year's report continued to exert an unfavourable influence on the collections on account of water-rates. The progress made, however, in the Orissa and Sone Circles was satisfactory, the receipts from the former being the highest yet realized, and in the latter the arrear balance having been reduced by Rs. 1,34,154. The falling off in the irrigation revenue derived from the Midnapore Canal was partly due to the cause mentioned above, but defects in administration had, it is to be feared, no small share in bringing about this result. Revised rules under Act III (B.C.) of 1876 are now under consideration, and the present Deputy Superintendent is reported to have remedied the faults of system which the difficulty in realizing the assessments has brought to light. The Lieutenant-Governor trusts that the Collector of Midnapore will not cease to devote his personal attention to this important matter. It is clear that postponement of demands justly due only intensifies the difficulties of eventually collecting them, and there is reason to believe the reluctance to pay evinced by the cultivators was partly owing to payment of the full amount due not being pressed when they were best able to meet the demand.

		1880-81. Acres.	1881-82. Acres.	1882-83. Acres.

	GRAND TOTAL ...	428,708	414,787	408,791

The area under irrigation was substantially the same as in the preceding year, though the rainfall was on the whole more favourable. The canals comprising the main western system of the Sone project were closed during the hot weather of 1882 to admit of their being cleared of silt; as a consequence irrigation was temporarily suspended, and the hot-weather irrigation, which in the previous year amounted to 18,499 acres, was lost. The decline in rubbee irrigation, which has been noticed in previous years, continued; whilst there has been a steady increase, mainly in Behar, in the areas leased for a term of years.

In both Midnapore and Shahabad the Collectors draw attention to the excessive labour involved in collecting small sums of variable amount from large numbers of people. In the latter district approximately 84,000 separate demands were made. Some relief may be expected from the five year-lease system, but this will have more effect in facilitating the assessments, which are in corresponding detail, than in lessening the difficulties attending the collections, which must continue so long as individual ryots are dealt with, and in the present state of village organization in Bengal combined action does not appear to be practicable.

The receipts under the head navigation amounted during the year to Rs. 3,70,294 against Rs. 3,42,876 received in 1881-82. The increase occurred wholly in the revenue derived from the Orissa and Midnapore Canals, there having been a falling off in the traffic on the Sone Canals, due to those belonging to the main western system of that project having been closed for three months for silt clearance. The figures given above include Rs. 1,14,403, the gross receipts from the transport service.

The service on the Midnapore Canal was transferred to a private company from the 1st of December, and it is intended to withdraw the Government steamers from the Orissa and Sone Canals, so soon as efficient arrangements for a service, at sufficiently short intervals, can be made by private enterprise.

The tollage collections since 1876-77 are shown below :—

	Orissa.	Midnapore.	Hidgellee.	Sone.	Total.
	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.
1876-77	22,881	67 651	44 572	4,852	1,39 956

1882 83	66,736	1,06,157	43,694	39,304	2,55,891

The results of the year, though not so satisfactory as that immediately preceding, are far from disappointing There has been a considerable increase in the gross revenue, and the working expenses have been enhanced by causes not likely to recur. Owing to the extension of the distributary system in Orissa, which has lately been sanctioned by the Secretary of State, there will, in any case, be a considerable increase in the irrigable area, and the cost of maintaining the head works and canals, which forms more than half of the total expenditure, will be met by correspondingly increased receipts.

REPORT ON THE STATE OF THE SALT MARKET FOR THE SECOND QUARTER OF 1883-84.

No. 867B., dated Calcutta, the 17th November 1883.

From—C. E. BUCKLAND, Esq., Officiating Secretary to the Board of Revenue, L. P.,
To—The Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Revenue Department.

H. A. COCKERELL, Esq., C.S.I.

2. The quantity of salt of every description cleared during the quarter under report amounted to 28,29,977 maunds 30 seers 3 chittacks, against 21,35,695 maunds 23 seers 3 chittacks in the previous quarter, and 26,86,139 maunds 23 seers 1 chittack in the corresponding quarter of the previous year; and the net amount of duty levied thereon was Rs. 52,25,981-8, against Rs. 40,95,697-8 in the previous quarter, and Rs. 49,35,928-8 in the corresponding quarter of the previous year.

Meteorological Office, Bengal,
The 26th November 1883.

John Eliot,
Meteorological Reporter to the Govt. of Bengal.

MEMORANDA.

1. The number of deaths recorded during the month of September 1883, in the districts in Bengal which are under registration, amounted, as computed from the returns, to 101,530 among a population of 66,162,926. The death-rate represented by these numbers is 18·36 per 1,000, as opposed to 18·12 per 1 000 during the preceding month, and 17 88 per 1,000 during the corresponding month of the past year.

2. The following districts furnished the highest proportions of deaths:—

	Ratio per mille.		Ratio per mille.
Birbhum	37·32	Patna	25·92
Rajshahye	34·20	Murshidabad	25 08
Nuddea	28·92	Hazaribagh	25·08
Gya	28·32

3. The deaths of the month under notice were reported to be due to the undermentioned diseases at the rates per 1,000 of population exhibited opposite them, as contrasted with the results of the preceding month and of the corresponding month of the past year.

	Ratio per mille during the months of—
	September 1883.	September 1882.	August 1883.
Cholera	·36	·84	1·20
Small-pox	·03	·04	·07

Bowel-complaints	·84	·84	·84
Injury	·48	·48	·60
Other causes	2·40	1·92	2·40

The above figures indicate that, with the exception of the death-rate from fever as compared with both the past periods under notice and of that from the diseases classified under the head of "other causes" as compared with September 1882, there was no enhancement of mortality during September 1883 from the rest of the diseases.

4. The highest fatal results from cholera and fever were returned from the following districts. The other diseases do not appear to have prevailed with more than ordinary severity anywhere.

Cholera.	Ratio per mille.	Fever.	Ratio per mille.

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h., 10h., 16h., and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard Newman's No 86 formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The direction of the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

Goods.

The traffic shows a satisfactory increase of 35 per cent over 1882 contributed chiefly by wheat, rice and foreign railway materials

The following fluctuations appear in staples:—

Cotton.
Ghee
Grain
Gunny.
Iron.
Mowah flower.
Piece goods.
Foreign railway material.
Seeds
Sugar.

Remarks.

Coal, up ... ... Mds 22,780 Rs 5,970
Despatches for the Sindh, Punjab and Delhi, Rajputana-Malwa Railway, and Oudh and Rohilkund Railway have improved.
Coal, down ... ... Mds 1,09,230 Rs 21,790
The increase is chiefly from the Asansol, Sitarampur and Barakar Collieries.
Cotton ... ... Mds. 4,550 Rs. 8,010
An advance of prices in Calcutta appears to have led to a moderate business.
Ghee ... ... Mds. 3,950 Rs. 16,860
The demand in Calcutta was brisk, and supplies were forwarded from stations in the North-West:—

Grain.

	Mds.	Rs.
1. Barley	12,060	2,040
2. Rice	8,14 960	1,17,690
3. Wheat	10,77 070	3,82 920
4. Other grain	55,670	12,980
5. Pulses	21,890	8,880
	14,81,650	5,24,510

Item 1.—Consignments of barley booked from stations on the Oudh and Rohilkund to stations on the Muthra-Hatrass line, and to Agra

Item 2.—This increase is chiefly in upwards rice despatched from Bengal to the North-West.

Item 3.—In September 1882, the exportation of Indian wheat was small compared with 1881. This year, however, owing to a rise in prices at the beginning of the month and low stocks in Calcutta, there was a steady demand for Europe

Item 4.—General increase consequent upon cheapness of food-grains.

Item 5.—Pulses were despatched steadily to Calcutta and other places from the Patna district.

Gunny ... ... Mds. 31,310 Rs. 22,590
Extra consignments sent up-country from the Bengal mills for country produce.
Iron ... ... Mds. 17,100 Rs. 3,060
This consisted principally of special consignments of iron pipes despatched from Howrah to Burdwan; also telegraph material for Bareilly, and iron work to Patna and Benares.
Mowah flower .. .. Mds. 23,140 Rs. 3,420

Consignments from stations on the Jubbulpore line to Bombay for export to Europe; also from chord line to Howrah.

Piece-goods ... ... Mds. 12,630 Rs. 3,340

The approach of the native holidays led to some enquiry from the up-country markets, chiefly below Benares, which will explain the comparatively small increase in receipts.

Foreign railway material ... ... Mds. 2,87,680 Rs. 1,77,320

Made up principally of bridge materials, rails and other permanent-way material and rolling-stock despatched from Howrah to Mokameh, Patna, Benares and Bareilly for the various works under construction.

Seeds ... ... Mds. 2,12,330 Rs. 20,350

The despatches having been made from stations nearer to Calcutta this year, also to Bombay vid Jubbulpore, vid Agra and vid Delhi from stations near the junctions, the receipts have not increased in proportion to the weight carried.

Sugar ... ... Mds. 24,210 Rs. 7,570

Increases in supplies despatched to Howrah, Rajputana and the Punjab appear at Patna Ghat, Arrah, Buxar vid Cawnpor and vid Aligarh.

DECREASES.

Copper ... ... Mds. 6,000 Rs. 7,870

This decrease appears at Howrah, whence moderate despatches only were sent up-country.

Ordnance stores ... ... Mds. 7,520 Rs. 9,150

Consequent upon the extra traffic carried in 1882 for the Egyptian expedition.

Hides ... ... Mds. 10,670 Rs. 10,440

This traffic depends entirely on the foreign demand, and this appears to have been good, but supplies are stated as not equal to it.

Construction account material ... ... Mds. 25,640 Rs. 6,530

The doubling of the line above Buxar was proceeding in 1882.

Salt ... ... Mds. 13,750 Rs. 5,350

This falling off is in salt vid Agra.

GENERAL REMARKS AND EXPLANATIONS.

Though the Pooja Holidays fell most inopportunely in the middle of the month under review, there is only a small decrease of 311·43 tons to record in the net results of the month's working in comparison with the same period last year. The total weight lifted was 16,225·41 tons as against 16,536·84 tons in last October. The jute traffic has recovered from its recent depression, and is better by 327·00 tons than last October's despatches. A very large traffic has also been done in salt. On the other hand, however, decreases have to be noted against food-grain, gunny-bags, tea, and tobacco. These are, however, due to causes beyond control.

Increases.

Jute ... ... Tons 327·00

Though prices have advanced on last quotations the demand for this staple continues. This increase will nearly cover the falling off in the despatches of gunny-bags.

Miscellaneous ... ... Tons 377·85

The traffic under this designation has in previous fluctuation reports been recorded under "All other goods"; for the past two months it has shewn signs of improving.

Piece-goods ... ... Tons 195·36

The present increase is chiefly due to despatches of a suitable class of goods for Pooja requirements. Now that this enquiry has apparently been satisfied, a decline will doubtless ensue.

Salt ... ... Tons 642·19

The large traffic done in this article is apparently due to a larger demand setting in as the country becomes drier and more accessible by road.

Decreases.

Ale ... ... Tons 41·03

As anticipated this traffic has declined. It will continue to do so now that the cold season has set in, and fewer public consignments will come forward.

Food-grains ... ... Tons 244·63

In consequence of the discouraging accounts of the prospects of the new crop, owing to the continued drought, stock holders are not desirous of meeting the present demands of the market, in anticipation of realising higher prices later on. This will explain this decrease. The Calcutta market for Moonghy has risen and closes very firm, and the demand for the Hill districts continues.

Ginger ... ... Tons 17·64

No demand has yet set in.

Gunny-bags ... ... Tons 583·96

The recent advance in the price for loose jute, the demand for it, and the scarcity of the raw material, has for the present rendered the making of hand made gunnies unremunerative, and affected the despatches.

Railway material ... ... Tons 273·34

As the Dinagepore extension approaches completion a falling off under this head will naturally have to be recorded.

Sugar ... ... Tons 19·57

There is nothing doing in this staple A few transactions for coast shipments are reported.

Tea ... ... Tons 334·02

Comparison is being made with a successful month's working last year, when a very large quantity of tea was manufactured This with a recent decline in prices for the commoner descriptions will explain this falling off.

Tobacco ... ... Tons 385·64

I find no transactions reported in the Calcutta market. The season is also drawing to a close and the despatches must be affected.

Section 3.—Places of Accommodation.

Places of accommodation in recruiting districts.

17. The establishment in the several districts of recruitment of places for the temporary accommodation of emigrants, previous to their despatch to the depôts of contractors, shall be regulated generally by the rules relating to such depôts, subject to such modification as the Magistrate of the district may with reference to the temporary nature of such accommodation consider necessary.

Inspection of places of accommodation by district officers.

18. The Magistrate of every district of recruitment shall, in respect of all places for the accommodation of emigrants within such district, exercise the powers vested in the Superintendent for the supervision of depôts. All such places shall be regularly inspected by the Magistrate, and by the officers authorized in that behalf by such Magistrate under the Act.

Responsibility of persons in charge of places of accommodation.

19. The sub-contractors, or recruiters in charge of places for the accommodation of emigrants, shall be responsible for any irregularities that may be committed in connection with the management of such places; and they shall keep such registers, and submit such reports and returns to the Magistrate having jurisdiction as he may require.

Section 4.—Depôt management.

Supervision of depôts by Superintendent.

20. The Superintendent, or his assistant, shall regularly visit every depôt when accommodating emigrants, and shall see that the provisions of the Act are fully carried out in the case of all labourers and their dependents arriving at such depôt, and that the terms of their engagement to work in the labour districts are thoroughly understood by them.

Supervision of depôts by Medical Inspector.

21. The sanitary state of the depôts shall be the special care of the Medical Inspector. He shall visit the depôts regularly, and see that all necessary precautions are taken against communicable disease; that the hospital and other medical arrangements at the depôts are sufficient; that all emigrants unprotected against small-pox are properly vaccinated, and that the depôt arrangements generally for the keep and health of emigrants are satisfactory from a medical point of view. At the close of every month he shall submit a report of his inspections in the prescribed form (No. 10) to the Superintendent.

Visitors' book for inspecting officers.

22. At each depôt there shall be kept a visitors' book, in which the Superintendent and the Medical Inspector shall enter their orders or remarks, and the dates of their visits. During such visits the contractor or his agent shall, without fail, place the depôt and hospital registers before the Superintendent and the Medical Inspector respectively for inspection, and shall on no account alter or correct any entries made therein without their knowledge and sanction.

Facilities for inspection of depôts.

23. Depôt gates shall be in charge of a darwan, and shall be open from 6 A.M. to 6 P.M. Every facility shall be given by the contractor and his employés to the inspecting officers when visiting the depôt at any time.

Compliance with orders of emigration officers.

24. All orders of the Superintendent and the Medical Inspector shall be carried out by the contractors and their employés on pain of cancellation of license, or loss of appointment, respectively. Should a contractor consider that any order given to him by the Superintendent or Medical Inspector is unreasonable, he shall be at liberty to appeal against such order if passed by the Superintendent and Medical Inspector at Goalundo or Kusteah, to the Superintendent of Emigration, Calcutta, or if passed by the Superintendent of Emigration, Calcutta, to the Government of Bengal. Until, however, the order shall have been reversed by a higher authority it must be carried out.

Appointment of depôt agent.

25. If the contractor does not himself live in his depôt premises, he shall appoint, subject to the approval of the Superintendent, a proper person as his agent, who shall reside there constantly, and conduct the business on the contractor's responsibility. Every such agent shall be registered in the Superintendent's office.

Infringement of rules by contractor's agent.

26. Every contractor shall be responsible for any offence against the rules committed by his agent at any place in the same manner and to the same extent as though he himself had committed such offence.

Depôt registers and returns.

27. The contractor or his agent shall keep depôt registers in the prescribed forms (Nos. 11, 14, and 21 respectively), and shall punctually and accurately make the required entries therein. Monthly returns of accommodation and of sickness in depôt shall likewise be prepared in the prescribed forms (Nos. 12 and 13 respectively), and punctually forwarded to the office of the Superintendent by the 15th of the month following that for which they become due. Any default in these respects, or in the submission of prescribed returns generally when due, shall render the agent liable to loss of his appointment, and the contractor failing to adopt promptly the necessary remedial measures to cancellation of his license.

Appointment of depôt medical officer.

28. A resident medical officer to be licensed by the Medical Inspector shall be appointed by each contractor to his depôt, and his name shall be registered in the Superintendent's office. He shall be paid by the contractor, but shall be directly responsible to the Medical Inspector, who shall give him written instructions for his guidance. He shall not be dismissed without the consent of the Medical Inspector. He shall keep a hospital register in the prescribed form (No. 14), and shall, besides his other duties, assist in making out the monthly returns of sickness and mortality.

Responsibility of contractors in caring for emigrants.

29. The contractor, either directly or through his agent, shall be responsible for the good treatment and care of the emigrants, none of whom shall be discharged from the depôt without the permission of the Superintendent. He shall, moreover, be responsible to the Medical Inspector specially for the sanitary state of the depôt, and for the feeding, clothing, and medical treatment of all the emigrants accommodated therein.

Quality of clothing according to approved sample.

30. The clothing and blankets to be supplied to emigrants shall be according to scale, and of a quality equal to samples to be approved by the Superintendent and retained in his office.

Repairs of depôt sheds.

31. The sheds, hospitals, latrines, drains, &c., shall be constantly inspected, and any defects in them shall be immediately remedied. Mud-plastered walls shall be white-washed once a month.

32. On arrival of emigrants at the depôt, they shall be inspected by the contractor or his agent, and by the resident medical officer; their names shall be entered in the depôt register, and their arrival reported in the prescribed form (No. 15) in the forenoon of the next day to the Superintendent. Any casualty occurring in depôt shall be reported in the prescribed form (No. 16).

Procedure on arrival of emigrants in depôt.

33. The contractor shall ascertain that those sections of the Act which provide for the registration, and for the proper care and treatment of emigrants previous to their entering the depôt, have been complied with, and shall immediately thereafter submit a report regarding any recruiter, or other person in charge, who may be found to have infringed the law.

Irregularities of recruiters.

34. Excepting those whose state of health may prevent it, all emigrants shall be compelled to bathe on their arrival in depôt, and shall thereafter be decently and cleanly clothed according to the scale laid down in schedule A appended to the rules. Every article of clothing belonging to emigrants that is soiled, whether new or old, shall be thoroughly washed and dried before it is issued; and cast-off ragged clothes shall be gathered up and destroyed at once.

Clean clothing for emigrants.

35. A muster-roll of the emigrants in depôt shall be called every morning; and the resident medical officer, after careful examination, shall enter the names of the sick in his diary, which shall be countersigned by the contractor or resident agent.

Daily muster-roll of emigrants.

36. Emigrants shall wash their clothes at least twice a week when possible, and shall bathe daily. A liberal supply of soap shall be provided for the purpose.

Personal cleanliness of emigrants.

37. Emigrants shall not be permitted to wash their clothes and persons in the depôt tanks, but approved appliances for ablution purposes shall be specially provided on a suitable site so drained as to prevent the waste water from returning into the tank or other sources of water-supply. The water for all purposes shall be frequently examined by the Medical Inspector, and the contractor or his agent shall be held responsible for any failure in providing good, wholesome water.

Appliances for ablution purposes.

38. Emigrants shall be compelled to dust out and air their clothes and blankets daily, and shall not be allowed to remain in damp clothes.

Airing of emigrants' clothing.

39. Regular hours shall be set apart for cooking and feeding; and no cooking shall be allowed at any other time except for invalids, nor in any place except the cooking sheds, where alone emigrants shall feed and smoke.

Cooking and feeding arrangements.

40. The rations issued daily to each labourer and dependent in depôt shall be according to the scale laid down in Schedule B; and the meals and drinking water shall invariably be examined by the resident medical officer before being served out. When necessary, food suitable for infants and invalids (fresh milk, soup, sago, &c.,) shall be freshly prepared and regularly supplied throughout the twenty-four hours. Any neglect of infants or invalids on the part of the contractor, his agent, or resident medical officer, shall render such contractor liable to cancellation of license, or such agent or medical officer to the loss of appointment.

Daily inspection of meals by depôt medical officer.

41. After meals the resident medical officer shall see that the cooking sheds are carefully swept out, that all cooking utensils are thoroughly cleaned, and that no stale food is secreted either by the cooks or emigrants.

Cleaning of cooking utensils.

42. Excepting the hospital, latrines, drains, and receptacles for kitchen and other filth, which shall be kept constantly cleaned by the sweepers, the garden, sheds, and every part of the depôt shall be kept clean and in good order by the emigrants. The emigrants if they consent to work shall be regularly employed, but without fatigue, and kept as much as possible in the open air.

Employment of emigrants.

43. The peons on duty shall be constantly about the depôt and shall preserve order and cleanliness everywhere, especially during cooking and feeding and inspections. They shall see that no jungle or rubbish is permitted to accumulate in the depôt compound; that the spaces under and around the sleeping and other sheds are kept clean; and that the sweepers do their work regularly.

Cleanliness of depôt premises.

44. No cooking, feeding, or smoking shall be permitted in the sleeping sheds, which shall be kept thoroughly clean, well ventilated, and water-tight.

Prevention of other use of sleeping sheds.

45. The emigrants shall be properly distributed at night in their sleeping sheds, according to the number each shed is licensed to accommodate, and shall be prevented from crowding together.

Prevention of overcrowding in sleeping sheds.

46. Excepting locked lanterns hung in the dispensary, hospital, and at the entrance of every sleeping shed, and a light in the durwan's room, all lights and fires shall be put out by 9 o'clock at night.

Extinguishing of lights at night.

47. Excreta from the hospital or latrines, and filth of any description, shall not be buried within at least one thousand feet of any source of drinking water; nor be thrown into stagnant pools and nullahs, which may happen to be near the depôts.

Disposal of excreta.

48. The contractor or his agent shall arrange with the Vaccination Department for the vaccination of every emigrant unprotected from small-pox as soon as possible after admission into the depôt.

Vaccination of emigrants.

Treatment of sick emigrants.

49. Sick emigrants, excepting those suffering from cholera or other dangerously communicable disease, and otherwise provided for, shall not be sent to any other than the depôt hospital; nor be removed thence, nor from the depôt, without the written permission of the Medical Inspector.

Procedure on outbreak of serious communicable disease.

50. In the event of cholera or small-pox or other dangerously communicable disease appearing in the depôt, every labourer or dependent attacked shall immediately be sent to the authorized hospital for treatment, and the relatives of the affected persons, if any, not accompanying the patient shall at the same time be placed in the segregation shed situated in an isolated part of the depôt compound, and shall not be removed thence without the written permission of the Medical Inspector. A report of the case shall then be submitted to the Medical Inspector, and within twenty-four hours the Superintendent shall be furnished with a descriptive statement, in the prescribed form (No. 17), of every emigrant sent to the authorized hospital, together with the reason for such removal. In the event of any emigrant sent to hospital dying or being permitted to return to the depôt, the death or re-admission of such emigrant shall be similarly reported to the Superintendent in form (No. 18).

Destruction of infected clothing.

51. Clothing, blankets, and mats that have been in contact with persons suffering from dangerously communicable disease (e.g. small-pox or cholera), hospital dressings, foul rags, and all combustible filth, shall be regularly and thoroughly burnt in a safe and suitable place, and in the presence of the resident medical officer. The segregation shed, immediately it ceases to be occupied, shall be carefully cleaned out and disinfected by fumigation or other efficient means.

Disposal of property of deceased emigrants.

52. On the death of any intending emigrant, the contractor, or agent, or medical officer shall immediately make an inventory of the property of such emigrant in a register in the prescribed form (No. 21), to be kept for the purpose, and shall forward such property as early as practicable to the office of the Superintendent for disposal. The claims made by relatives in depôt, if any, shall duly be communicated to the Superintendent, who shall, after making enquiry as to the heirs, dispose of the estate as circumstances may render necessary.

Procedure on contractors failing to provide contract.

53. Emigrants who are not engaged within thirty days of their arrival at any depôt shall be returned through the Superintendent's office to the districts where registered at the expense of the contractor, except when such emigrants elect to continue in such depôt in the hope of being ultimately engaged, or desire to be transferred to the depôt of some other contractor, or prefer to be discharged from the depôt; in which last case they shall, previous to discharge, be paid such compensation as may be ordered by the Superintendent. At the close of every month the contractor or his agent shall forward to the Superintendent's office a statement in the prescribed form (No. 22) of all the emigrants remaining in depôt over thirty days without execution of contract.

Disposal of rejected emigrants.

54. All emigrants that are declared by the Medical Inspector to be unfit to emigrate, and are finally rejected by the contractor or his agent, shall be returned through the Superintendent's office to the districts of registration at the expense of the contractor, unless they of their own accord insist on being discharged on the spot, when they shall be treated, save in respect of compensation in the same manner as emigrants for whom contractors fail to find employment.

Medical examination of rejected emigrants.

55. All rejected emigrants shall be examined by the Medical Inspector on the day that they are to be returned to their districts; and only those that are certified by him to be able to travel shall be forwarded to the Superintendent's office for disposal, while the rest shall be detained in depot under treatment until the Medical Inspector certifies to their being in a fit state to undertake the journey.

Application for execution of labour contracts.

56. When the employer or his agent has selected in any depôt the labourers required by him, a written application for the placing of such labourers on contract shall be sent by the contractor concerned or his agent to the Superintendent of Emigration at least one day before the date fixed upon for execution of contract.

Arrangements for examination of labourers.

57. Labourers intending to execute contracts, when placed before the Superintendent, shall have their copies of registration in their hands; and their blankets, clothing, and utensils, according to the scale prescribed in Schedule A, arranged beside them for inspection.

Knowledge and acceptance of terms by labourers.

58. The Superintendent, when placing labourers on contract, shall invariably satisfy himself that the employer or his agent has affixed his signature to all the contract papers, and that the labourers thoroughly understand and accept the terms and conditions of the contract they are executing. An abstract of every such contract shall be entered in a register to be kept by the Superintendent in the prescribed form (No. 19).

Medical inspection of contract labourers.

59. Labourers who have executed contracts shall be inspected by the Medical Inspector before despatch from the depôt with reference to their fitness to travel; and to that end a written application for such final inspection shall be forwarded by the contractor concerned or his agent to the Medical Inspector at least one day previous to the date of the intended despatch of such labourers to the districts for which engaged.
